IDENTIFICATION MADE BY LAWYER'S PHOTO

(Associated Press.)

Developments in widely separated points last night only served to deepen the mystery surrounding the disappearance of R. S. McCoin, leading Henderson, N. C., attorney, on December 22.

Columbus, Ohio, police announced a photograph of the former State senator had been identified as that of a man seen in "a small town near here" Thursday, lending support to the belief of many that McCoin is alive.

But at Mount Rainier, Md., in which section a search is being conducted for McCoin's body on the strength of an anonymous letter that he had been slain, two truck operators said they saw his body in an automobile near Richmond, Va., early last Saturday.

Reward Is Offered.

In McCoin's home town, Al B. Webster, a business associate, said he was convinced McCoin had been killed, and announced a $500 reward for the body.

T. McCall Frazier, director of the Virginia Motor Vehicles Division, said at Richmond he had received no report of a body being found in an automobile last Saturday. Richmond police likewise were without such information.

Columbus, Ohio, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Columbus police announced tonight that a photograph of R. S. McCoin, missing Henderson, N. C., attorney, had been identified as that of a man seen in "a small town near here" yesterday.

Tried to Pawn Watch.

The identification was made, said Thomas J. Scully, assistant chief of detectives, by a business man in the "small, town," who told police McCoin attempted to pawn a watch and overcoat with him. Scully, who said the identification was positive, declined to divulge the names of the town or the business man.

Scully quoted his informant as saying the man asked $14 for the watch and overcoat, saying he wanted the money "to get to another city." The man left without completing the transaction, Scully was told.

Photo Identified.

Police said the description of clothing worn by McCoin when he disappeared on December 22 tallied with that furnished by the business man.

Earlier in the day, while North Carolina authorities pursued conflicting clews in three States, police here announced they had uncovered evidence McCoin might have been in

$40,000 Powder Mill Is Destroyed in Blast

Horrell Station, Pa., Dec. 30 (A.P.). An explosion late today literally blew to bits the glaze mill of the Atlas Powder Co. plant, in this industrial community. The vibration was felt for miles. Machinery in the plant operated automatically and there were no employes in the vicinity.

Windows, some distance away, were shattered and several persons were cut by flying glass, but no one was seriously injured. Enough powder to fill 750 kegs let go. The mill was valued at $40,000.

Newton's Son Gets License as Joke

Denies Intention to Wed Following Issuance of Paper.

Cupid took the count of ten yesterday afternoon, following the issuance of a marriage license to Walter H. Newton, jr., son of the President's secretary, and Nance Stephenson Hall, 19, of 1455 Harvard street northwest.

The little fellow with the arrows was laughed out of the scene when the purpose of the pair was learned. They were finally located after the license had been granted and denied that it was their intention to be married, saying it was just a joke.

Neither Mr. Newton nor Mrs. Nan S. Hall, Miss Hall's mother, knew of the license until told by newspapermen. Newton, jr., 21, is a first classman at the Naval Academy. Miss Hall is a student at George Washington University.

DEFENSE OF DOLLAR LEADS 1932 RESULTS

Intangible Forces Pointing to Recovery Despite Figures, Chapin Declares.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Hailing the defense of the dollar during the spring gold raid as the outstanding achievement in American finance in 1932, Secretary of Commerce Roy D. Chapin said last night, in his annual economic review and forecast, that despite the many complex business adjustments still to be worked out the United States enters the new year in far better fighting trim than a year ago.

Many fundamental economic factors give promise that 1933 should record the beginnings of sustained recovery, but it is in the new mood of the people at large that Mr. Chapin sees the most encouraging omen of the long-awaited turn in the tide of depression and deflation.

"I would not be considered as overemphasizing the intangible or merely mental aspects of the business situation," he said. "But their significance is undeniable. Here there are really encouraging signs. Hysterical, panicky pessimism, wherever it may have existed among our people, has been replaced by a 'more American attitude. The dominant mood today is vastly calmer and more rational. Quiet determination rules. We see more penetrating analyses of our current business ills, a clearer understanding of the complex maladjustments. There is a keener receptivity to soundly constructive proposals. Intellectually, as a Nation we are certainly better equipped than we were at the beginning of 1932 to proceed with our vital task of scientifically reducing the costs of production and distribution, on the one hand, and, on the other, of building up the earning and buying power of our great domestic market."

Along with the preservation of a sound dollar through one of the most difficult financial periods in modern history, Secretary Chapin lists the widespread adoption of the share-the-work idea among the outstanding developments in American business in 1932. A recent Government survey reported that approximately 3,000,000 persons now employed in some man-

Farm Bill Weighed "Soon as Possible"

Garner to Seek Rule and Act if Committee Reports Measure.

(Associated Press.)

Speaker Garner told the House yesterday that farm relief legislation will be taken up "as soon as possible." His statement came soon after Chairman Jones said the agricultural committee would hold a special meeting today to expedite the bill.

Just before the week-end adjournment, Representative Snell, the Republican leader, questioned Garner concerning next week's program. Garner said the House would start on the first deficiency appropriations bill, and added:

"It is to be hoped the agricultural committee will report its bill for agricultural relief. If it does it will be the purpose to ask a rule and take it up as soon as possible." Jones had expressed himself as hopeful the bill would be reported by the end of next week.

Roosevelt Drops Florida Visit Plans, Paper Says

Miami, Fla., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—The Miami Daily News says President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt will not visit Florida this winter, but will take a deep water cruise for his brief vacation, he has advised Maj. R. Tittoni, of Miami, a personal friend.

Mr. Roosevelt's letter, dated December 27, said he had hoped to visit Florida and Miami during the winter, but that "recent events will make this impossible." He did not say when his cruise would begin.

HOUSE STIRRED BY ROOSEVELT'S SPEAKER STAND

WORK BY JACKSON FOR M'DUFFIE HIT

Alabaman, However, Seen Garner Choice; O'Connor Is Given Support.

By J. BERNARD McDONNELL.

Public disclosure that President-elect Roosevelt had flatly repudiated efforts of Robert Jackson, secretary of the Democratic national committee, to forward the candidacy of Representative John McDuffie, of Alabama, for Speaker of the next House caused something of a furore and a flurry of statements on Capitol Hill yesterday.

Representative Henry T. Rainey, of Illinois, Democratic floor leader and leading candidate for the post, made no formal statement but he confirmed the statement that he had received from James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee, assurances that Mr. Jackson's efforts in behalf of the candidacy of Mr. McDuffie were without any authority whatever from Mr. Roosevelt.

Mr. Farley's statement was a direct slap at the secretary of the committee who has been active in seeking to create the impression as one of "those close to the President-elect" that Mr. McDuffie was Mr. Roosevelt's fair-haired boy.

Statement of Byrns.

Representative Joseph W. Byrns, of Tennessee, chairman of the appropriations committee, who is the leading rival of Representative Rainey for the post, issued a statement in the course of which he said that he was "very certain" that Mr. Roosevelt was not going to take any part, "directly or indirectly," in the speakership fight, and he felt sure that every candidate had received direct and positive assurance to that effect.

Although Mr. Byrns did not mention Mr. Jackson by name, he "deplored" efforts to involve Gov. Roosevelt in the fight with its consequent complications even before he had assumed the office of President.

Representative McDuffie, Democratic whip, also issued a statement in which he said that if Gov. Roosevelt had said he has not indorsed any candidate for Speaker he wasn't surprised.

No candidate could expect Mr. Roosevelt to dictate election of the next Speaker, Mr. McDuffie said, add-

Intact Human Skin Discovered at Dump

Los Angeles, Calif., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—The coroner's office said today the intact skin of a human body found at an incinerator dump showed the body had been properly embalmed and that there was no evidence of foul play.

Detectives expressed belief that the skin had been disposed of by medical students. The officers sought the driver of the rubbish truck which carried it to the incinerator to verify this belief.

$21,000 Mill Pay Roll Is Seized in Holdup

Fall River, Mass., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Four masked bandits today heldup and robbed three clerks of the $21,000 pay roll of the Parkwright Mill, No. 2. After menacing the clerks with revolvers and a shotgun, the bandits fled in an automobile.

Cutter Stands By Burning Oil Tanker

Yamacraw Can Not Save Doris Kellogg With Flames So Hot.

Norfolk, Va., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—With fire still raging on the American tanker Doris Kellogg, abandoned by her crew yesterday afternoon off Frying Pan Shoals, the fate of the ship was in doubt tonight, according to a wireless message received at Coast Guard headquarters from the cutter Yamacraw, at the scene.

The Yamacraw reached the tanker early last night, but was unable to give assistance because of the fury of the flames which were sweeping the vessel.

The message from the Yamacraw said several explosions had occurred, but the fire had not spread forward beyond her after stack. The message also stated the fire had not reached her forward tanks.

Reds or Not, Troops Go

Connally Lashes Hurley for Concentrations; Secretary Denies Communist Fears; MacArthur Says Civilian Unit Training Is Reason.

(Associated Press.)

A lashing denunciation by Senator Connally of the War Department's policy of moving troops from three Southwest frontier posts to more populous centers last night brought a sharp denial from Secretary Hurley that the plan hinged upon protection against "reds and communists."

The Texas Democrat focused his attack upon the transfer of the entire military personnel from Camps D. A. Russell, in Texas, and Stephen A. Little and Harry J. Jones, in Arizona.

Describing the movement as "autocratic" and "false economy," Connally told the Senate that Hurley had informed him "this form of government has got to be maintained and there are forces inimical to this Government, such as reds and communists.'"

After quoting the Secretary, Connally said he presumed the War Deparement was "afraid of communism in the populous areas and wanted concentration camps near them."

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff, told him, Connally said, that the purpose in seeking to establish several large camps near the populous centers was so the Army could train civilian units.

Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska, interrupted the Texan to suggest that perhaps Washington was the destination of the troops and that the War Department might feel they were needed "to protect the Capitol from people coming here to urge various forms of legislation."

In his reply, Hurley said, "I know I have never told him (Connally) that this country or any part of it was in any danger from communism or bolshevism."

"I know it is not," Hurley added.

"Since he has mentioned it," the Secretary's statement said, "I think the country is suffering more and will continue to suffer more from pork-barrel politicians than it will from any threat that he has mentioned.

"What the senator is reported to have said about the defenses of the border is hardly correct. With the air force now concentrated in Texas

N. B. C.-WMAL LEASE SEEN AS CERTAINTY

Differences Ironed Out and Radio Board Expected to Approve Deal.

By ROBERT D. HEINL.

Apparently it is all over but the shouting with regard to the National Broadcasting Company leasing Station WMAL for the purpose of bringing the WJZ network programs into Washington. As has been intimated in these columns, negotiations have been going on for some time, but only yesterday were the major differences ironed out between the parties concerned in the lease.

It is understood the cost of this new outlet to the N.B.C. will be between $25,000 and $35,000 a year. M. A. Leese, owner of the station, whose initials M. A. L. form the principal part of the call letters, WMAL, is said to have fixed a sales price on the station of upward of $300,000.

There seems to be no doubt that the Federal Radio Commission will approve the deal. In that case we should begin to receive the full WJZ program service in the National Capital in the near future. WRC, owned by the National Broadcasting Co., is now operating on a split network, taking part of the WJZ and part of the WEAF programs. Hereafter WRC will doubtless confine itself to the WEAF network, augmented by local programs.

"Amos 'n' Andy," a WJZ program, which has been coming to us through WRC, under the new arrangement will very likely be broadcast here by WMAL. Other programs we will receive over WMAL will be "Great Moments in History," "Melody Moments," "Organ Reveries," Archer Gibson, National Advisory Council on

KLEIN TO QUIT SOON FOR BUSINESS POST

Dr. Julius Klein, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, yesterday announced that "on or before" March 4 he would leave the Government service and start a survey of the business of the United Cigar Stores and the Whelan Drug Co., Inc., for the companies' trustees in bankruptcy, the Irving Trust Co. of New York, at a salary which will be well in excess of $7,500 monthly.

Well known in national business circles as an outstanding expert in general business and commercial problems, and especially merchandising, Dr. Klein, according to reports from New York, is expected not only to survey the situation existing in the bankrupt corporations, but to submit constructive recommendations as to the future disposition of the companies.

He will be assisted by a staff of experts, which will start preliminary work shortly, and it is understood that he will receive $7,500 monthly and expenses for his work in connection with United Cigar Stores alone. In addition to this, he will receive further remuneration for work carried on in the interests of Whelan Drug Co. It is expected that the survey will take between three and six months to complete. Dr. Klein refused to comment further on his plans for the future, saying only that it is doubtful if he will return immediately to teaching.

Dr. Klein's survey will concern the

Suarez Reported Slated As Mexican Ambassador

Mexico City, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Rumors were current here today that Dr. Eduardo Suarez, former solicitor in the foreign relations office and former chief Mexican representative at Geneva, has been named Ambassador to Washington to succeed Jose Manuel Puig Casauranc.

There was no official announcement nor confirmation.

Capital Prepares to Greet New Year With Celebration

Amusement Places Set For Busy Night and Watch Services Are Scheduled at Churches; Only Cost of Revelry to be Curtailed.

The softly whirring gears of time have almost completed another revolution today and the city, in common with all Christendom, is ready to greet the hours of midnight, and 1933.

The predominant Federal employe population of Washington is on a three-day holiday and a festive spirit began to envelop the city last night.

Perhaps the most celebrated night of the year, the passing of the old year and the birth of the new, will not go unmarked in churches. Watch services, embellished with gladsome hymn, will be held at many religious edifices.

At hostelry and private residence, cafe and night club, the carnival atmosphere will be at its highest pitch of the 366-day cycle. Song, gay tune, laughter and the slither of dancing feet on waxed floors will accompany a symposium of color and sound as the clock shows the first hour of the newborn year.

The tiny wail of the calendar's new offspring will quickly be encompassed in great burst of glad sound. Bells, horns, whistles, will join with innumerable other noise producers in the annual cacophonic greeting of the new year.

The theme song of the year—depression—is noted only in a reduced scale of per plate tariffs at hotel and night club. Otherwise economic woes will be forgotten in a general move to don the best bib and tucker, the most charming gown of milady and gather around the festive board and ballroom.

Street car companies and bus companies have announced a much later schedule of take-offs from downtown so that urban and suburban riders may join in the late revelry of the city.

Police plans were made in accordance with other years. Twenty-five additional men will be stationed at the First Precinct Station to act as a safety valve on the exuberance of

BROAD POWERS FOR ROOSEVELT BEING MAPPED

SENATE EXPECTED TO ACT PROMPTLY

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

First draft of an amendment authorizing Franklin D. Roosevelt, when he takes office, to reorganize the unwieldly Government structure, abolish useless bureaus and accomplish broad economies was completed yesterday by Senator James F. Byrnes (Democrat), South Carolina, a member of the Senate economy committee.

The economy group will agree to the amendment at its first post-holiday meeting next week, it was predicted. The Senate appropriations committee will get the proposal as a Treasury-Postoffice bill rider Wednesday or Thursday. The Senate will be asked to act by the last of the week.

Byrnes predicted flatly that the whole matter will be disposed of by the Senate in the next ten days. Chairman Hiram Bingham, of the Senate economy committee, was less communicative. He said the committee, while aware of the Byrnes proposal, has taken no action.

Broad Powers Provided.

"We have material enough before us for two more meetings," said Chairman Bingham. "Senator Brynes' amendment will be taken up early next week."

While broader than the reorganization authority voted President Hoover in the economy act, the Byrnes amendment drafted yesterday differs from the Hoover provision in only two major particulars. They are significant, however. Mr. Roosevelt would have authority to abolish bureaus. Mr. Hoover has not. Mr. Roosevelt's reorganization orders can be stopped only by concurrent action of House and Senate. Disapproval by either chamber is sufficient to stop the Hoover recommendations.

Chairman John J. Cochran yesterday called a meeting of his House expenditures committee for Wednesday to act on his resolution to side track all of the 58 bureau transfers and consolidations proposed by President Hoover.

He is impressed by the Byrnes' au-

Poland to Repay Part Of Dillon, Read Debts

Warsaw, Poland, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—The Polish government has arranged with Dillon, Read & Co. to repay $1,490,000 due January 1 in six monthly instalments against the 1924 loan of $45,000,000.

This agreement gave rise to reports abroad that Poland was preparing to pay the December war debt instalment, but the government denied this, explaining that negotiations for settlement of that obligation will continue when the new Polish minister reaches Washington.

Retired Naval Officer Leaps to Death at Hotel

Olympia, Wash., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Commander Harold Jones, 49, Tacoma, Wash., recently retired from the Navy because of a nervous breakdown, leaped to his death, police said, from the fourth floor of the Kneeland Hotel here today.

He is survived by his widow and a son.

Neglect Blamed In Death of Baby

Manslaughter Charge Will Be Filed Against Son's Parents.

Liberal, Kans., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Exhaustion resulting from parental neglect was blamed by a coroner's jury today for the death December 24 of the 17-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Adley Palimeter. John C. King, Seward County prosecutor, said he would file fourth degree manslaughter charges against the parents.

County officers testified that when they entered the home they found the body of the baby, Gene Franklin Palimeter, strapped in a crib too short for his body, with flesh rubbed from his forehead, knees, feet and hands.

The coroner said the parents informed him they had strapped the baby in the crib the night before death occurred because the infant was restless. Palimeter is held in jail.

LICENSE TAG ORDERS GIVE TWO DEADLINES

Too Late, Says Van Duzer, January 6, Say Police; Records Broken.

Whether 1932 license tags can be used after today is a question which apparently can be answered "yes and no."

When the traffic office closed last night, Director William A. Van Duzer declared emphatically that no extension would be granted motorists who failed to get "under the wire."

"On the stroke of twelve Saturday night," he declared, "all 1932 tags will be classed as 'dead.' Motorists using these tags will be subject to arrest." That apparently doomed between 5,000 and 7,000 motorists who failed to get their plates.

But later in the night the police teletype carried the following message: "Notice: The use of 1932 tags has been extended until midnight January 6, 1933."

The message was signed by Lieut. Horace E. Lineberg, of the Traffic Bureau.

It was stated later that Lieut. Lineberg, in a way, denied the authenticity of the order, saying it applied only to buses and not to all motor cars. It was pointed out that the teletype operator may have made an error in transmission. However, no correction was issued, hence the matter was left very much up in the air. Police insisted that there was some confusion.

In explanation of the extension for buses, it was pointed out that the Traffic Bureau's supply of buss plates was depleted before all busmen succeeded in getting their tags.

Until after 7 o'clock last night hundreds of Washington motorists, with but one thought in mind, pushed and crowded their way into the Bureau of Vehicles and Traffic, Fourth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, in a last-minute effort to slip "under the wire" and obtain their 1933 license plates before the doors closed until next Tuesday.

All-time records for one-day distribution of tags were broken in the final rush, and when the bureau called a halt at 7:15 p. m., between 5,000 and 7,000 automobile owners were

3 Shot, 5 Captured In Bandit Roundup

Oklahoma Lair of Bank-Robber Suspects Is Raided by Posse.

Jay, Okla., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Sixteen Kansas and Oklahoma officers captured five outlaw suspects hiding in a hill ranch house near Kinwood, Okla., today after a gun fight.

Two of the men were wounded and Charles Warner, deputy United States marshal of Tulsa, was shot in the arm. The officers used rifles, pistols and tear gas.

The men captured were Jack Atkins and "Big Boy" Baulker, both wounded; J. C. Casey, Elmer Ross and Don Blend. All were wanted for questioning in connection with bank robberies in Kansas. Fourteen weapons, including rifles and pistols, were taken by the officers. The suspects had three cars, bearing Kansas, Oklahoma and Arkansas license plates.

Chinese Bandits Loot Town; Destroy Mission

Hankow, China, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Communist bandits under the leadership of the notorious outlaw, Ho Lung, have captured and looted the town of Patung on the southern bank of the Yangtse River in western Hupeh. The Catholic mission was destroyed, but the fate of the missionaries could not be learned immediately.

Dispatches from Ichang said 3,000 bandits swarmed across the Yangtse, sacked Patung and swept southward, looting and burning as they went. Missionaries at the Seventh Day Adventist Mission at Shihnan, in southwestern Hupeh, were prepared to evacuate.

COMMUTATION FOR RUTH JUDD URGED BY JURY

Woman Killer's Friend Is Indicted as Accessory to Trunk Murders.

PAROLE BOARD ASKED TO PREVENT HANGING

Halloran, Freed on $3,000 Bond, Asserts Charges Are "Injustice."

Phoenix, Ariz., Dec. 30 (A.P.). Winnie Ruth Judd's purported "whole truth" story of the Phoenix "trunk murders" caused the grand jury today to recommend that she be spared from the gallows and to indict J. J. Halloran, lumberman and sportsman, as accessory to the crime.

In a resolution addressed to the Arizona Board of Pardons and Paroles, the grand jury said Mrs. Judd, by her testimony last Wednesday "has convinced this grand jury she was acting in self-defense when she killed Agnes Anne Leroi."

It urged the board of pardons and paroles to commute her sentence to life imprisonment.

Second Charge Pending.

Mrs. Judd was tried and convicted for the slaying of Mrs. Leroi in October, 1931, and an information still pending charges her with the murder of Hedvig Samuelson.

The bodies of the women were sent to Los Angeles in trunks, after the body of Miss Samuelson had been dismembered.

Halloran, in a brief statement, characterized the charge in the indictment against him as "absolutely false and a grave injustice."

"There is no basis of truth in the charge," he said, through his counsel, Frank O. Smith, "nor in any statement that produced it. That it is absolutely false and a grave injustice to me will be proved at the proper time."

Posts $3,000 Bond.

He appeared in court voluntarily a few minutes after he was informed of the indictment and posted $3,000 bond for his appearance at a preliminary hearing next Tuesday.

The true bill does not involve Halloran in the actual slaying of either woman, but cites him merely as having possessed knowledge of the killing, and as having concealed the knowledge.

Specifically, the true bill charges Halloran "Well knowing the said Winnie Ruth Judd to have committed the said crime of murder, and with full knowledge that a felony, to-wit, murder, had been committed by the said Winnie Ruth Judd * * * did then and there conceal the commission of said crime from the magistrate, and did harbor and protect the person of said Winnie Ruth Judd."

Can Get Five Years.

The maximum sentence, in event of conviction, would be five years' imprisonment.

Having indicted Halloran, the grand jury returned to its chambers again, but shortly thereafter informed Superior Judge Howard C. Speakman it had concluded its deliberations, and was dissolved.

Except for a sanity hearing in Pinal County, the site of the State prison, and her counsels' announced attempt to carry her case to the Supreme Court of the United States, the board of pardons and paroles now is Mrs. Judd's only recourse in her fight to escape death.

HOOVER AND PARTY LAND TEN SAILFISH

Sailfish Club, Palm Beach, Fla., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Running into a veritable school of fighting sailfish late today, President Hoover and members of his party tonight brought in ten prizes as the total of a dawn-to-dusk angling expedition in the wind-whipped waters of the Atlantic Ocean off Palm Beach.

The Chief Executive himself landed three of the sailfish, one of them 7 feet and 8 inches long. The total for the party would have been eleven except that a shark, whirling to the surface in a smother of foam, snatched a prize from Senator Austin, of Vermont, just before it was hurled into the boat.

Medium Luck in Forenoon.

Setting out in two small boats just after daybreak, the Hoover party had only mediocre luck during much of the day. Until midafternoon only three of the white flags that signify a sailfish catch were visible from the halyards of the two boats.

During the late afternoon, however, one fish after another was landed. In addition to the three caught by Mr. Hoover, Dr. Joel T. Boone, the White House physician, also landed three; Justice Stone, of the Supreme Court, two; Lawrence Richey, White House secretary, one, and Mark Sullivan, writer, one.

After returning to the Sequoia, anchored in Lake Worth here, shortly after 6 o'clock tonight, the President was made an honorary member of the Palm Beach Sailfish Club in token of his angling accomplishments.

Hoover Given Membership.

Wiley Reynolds, of Jackson, Mich., president of the club, presented a membership card to the Chief Executive and Mr. Hoover, in turn, presented to the club his 7-foot 8-inch sailfish. The club members plan to have it mounted and kept in the clubhouse.

Mr. Hoover struggled more than 40 minutes to land the monster fish, and Capt. Herman Gray, Palm Beach fisherman, who was piloting the President, declared the battle was one of the most exciting he had ever witnessed.

The sailfish leaped entirely clear of the water repeatedly in an effort to shake the hook from his mouth, but the President managed to draw him close to the boat within 15 minutes. When Capt. Gray leaned over the side to gaff him, however, the fish started a new battle that lasted 25 minutes more.

Sister of Lehman Dies in New York

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Grief-stricken at the death of his sister on the eve of his assuming the governorship of New York, Col. Herbert H. Lehman hurried to New York City tonight while plans for some of the social functions attending the inauguration ceremonies in the State Capitol Monday were quickly canceled.

Mrs. Clara L. Limburg, Col. Lehman's sister, died at Mount Sinai Hospital, New York City, late today after an illness of three weeks. She was 63 years old. Announcement of her death was made at the executive mansion, which will be relinquished tomorrow by Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, the President-elect.

Col. Lehman will take the private oath of office Sunday in New York City, instead of at Albany, as has been customary with other governors. It was announced at his office, however, he will go through with the formal inauguration ceremonies at the State Capitol in Albany next Monday "exactly as planned."

Dogs Join Hoovers In Year's Greeting

(Associated Press.)

The Hoover dogs, Weegie and Pat, pets of this administration in the White House, took their place in the 1932-33 presidential holiday greeting card. Close friends of the Hoovers received a long, slim folder, on one side of which the President, in autograph and photograph, wished them merry Christmas and happy New Year.

On the other side, beneath a photo of the trio, was the legend, "And so do Lou Henry Hoover and Weegie and Pat."

A series of pictures of Camp Rapidan, with picturesque exteriors of cottage and stream, and panorama interiors of "town hall" where guests foregathered, was also sent as Christmas remembrances by the absent Hoovers. They were made on Mrs. Hoover's last trip to camp, when she closed the cottages and prepared them for their new place in the Shenandoah Park system.

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—President-elect Roosevelt, in the midst of clearing his desk for the incoming governor, today received Mrs. Mary Mooney, 84-year-old mother of Tom Mooney, convicted perpetrator of the San Francisco bombing sixteen years ago, and promised he would write Gov. Rolph of California about the case.

Mr. Roosevelt, who tomorrow retires as governor, told the aged woman who made a trip around the world in behalf of her son that he would communicate with Mr. Rolph after he leaves office.

Asked by one of Mrs. Mooney's companions what he would say in the letter, Mr. Roosevelt replied: "I can not say until I consider the case a little more."

Mrs. Mooney, arriving in Albany late Thursday, went to the capitol, but missed the governor, who had left the executive offices. He was unable to see her at the executive mansion last night. Today, while she waited in the executive office reception room, Mr. Roosevelt called his secretary, Guernsey T. Cross, and invited her to see him at the mansion.

She was accompanied by Louis B. Scott, representing the Tom Mooney moulders' defense committee; Louis Weinstock, of the American Federation of Labor committee for unemployed insurance; Alfred Hirsch of the national committee for the defense of political prisoners, and William L. Patterson, national secretary of the International Labor Defense.

Scott, after the meeting said the President-elect was "sympathetic."

Crossing to a large desk in the governor's study, behind which sat Mr. Roosevelt, a pile of papers almost hiding him, Mrs. Mooney said: "I wish you would do your utmost to help my boy who has been in prison, although he is innocent, for almost seventeen years. My boy is a good boy."

Roosevelt answered slowly, "I feel sure because so many people believe he is innocent that there must be some reason for believing in his innocence."

"I am unable to take any action as governor," Mr. Roosevelt explained. Scott interrupted to say that two other governors had written to Gov. Rolph urging a pardon for Mooney, who is serving a life sentence.

The governor then went on to explain that he would write to Mr. Rolph after he retires from the governorship and before he becomes President on March 4.

DEFENSE OF DOLLAR IS CALLED YEAR'S BIGGEST ACHIEVEMENT

ner throughout the country would be without earning power save for the general application of share-the-work plans.

Sense of Responsibilities.

"The very severity of the depression," Secretary Chapin said, "has brought about a better understanding between employer and employe and has resulted in a deeper and more widespread sense of our social responsibilities. In this respect, we probably have made more progress in these recent years than in any other similar period in our history."

In this connection, the review pointed out that strikes, lockouts and other industrial conflicts have been less frequent during the last two years than at either the peak of the boom in 1929 or the trough of the depression in 1920-21.

"The warmest commendation must be accorded American labor for its admirable conduct during the past year as evidenced by its sensible restraint," Secretary Chapin added.

11,000,000 Are Unemployed.

Factory employment declined 17 per cent during 1932 and total factory pay rolls were down about 37 per cent for the year. Unemployed at the close of the year were placed at 11,000,000.

Although foreign trade has dwindled in recent months to prewar levels, the United States continues in the position of the world's leading export nation, "a place which it has held uninterruptedly since the opening years of the World War."

"No competitor has been able to dislodge us from this premier rank, in which we enjoy the advantages of high-quality goods, inventive ingenuity, progressive merchandising, and excellent facilities for service."

Exports of raw cotton in 1932 will be the largest since 1928. Owing to prevailing low prices, however, the dollar-volume of these exports will show a decline under 1931.

Defense of Dollar.

In his allusion to the foreign gold raids last spring, Secretary Chapin avoided any discussion of the responsibility for the European attempt to topple the United States from the gold standard.

"In the field of our financial transactions with other nations," he said, "we may class among the notable achievements of the year the successful defense of the dollar—the secure maintenance of its stability at a time when so many nations were forced to forsake their gold standards and permit the value of their currencies to rise and fall with the changing tides of world conditions. The abiding importance of this victory can not easily be overestimated. It has strongly reinforced the position of this country as the world's leading money market."

A tremendous back-log of suspended purchasing is mentioned by Secretary Chapin as one of the most promising aspects of the business picture for the immediate future. Retailers' stocks and consumers' reserves are reduced in many cases to the vanishing point, and equipment replacement in transportation and industry has been contracted so severely during the last three years that expanded buying can not be withheld much longer. In many stores retail stocks are too low for the efficient conduct of business; and it has become somewhat general that supplies in the hands of consumers—clothing, household equipment, automobiles—have deteriorated almost to the point of complete exhaustion.

Actual Lack of Funds.

"In part this may be attributed to actual lack of funds, but in some measure, certainly, it has been the result of apprehension and impairment of confidence."

This theme of business confidence, the keynote of Secretary Chapin's review, was summarized in these words:

"Any person who undertakes to analyze the recent business developments in the United States is confronted with a problem of differentiation. He must discriminate between the coldly literal aspects of the situation—as embodied, all too often, in statistics that convey no comfort—and the underlying, intangible forces that may be moving in the right direction. By confining one's attention to a mere array of surface phases, or to a succession of percentages, one would get a dark and not wholly accurate picture of conditions at the start of this new year. There are tendencies and concrete measures of the hopeful sort that appear to be more numerous than is generally realized. Particularly are they in evidence in the currents of commercial thought and aspiration—moods which escape, too frequently, a cursory appraisal."

ROOSEVELT'S SPEAKERSHIP STAND STIRS HOUSE FURORE

ing that so far as he was concerned he would not seek to embarrass him by seeking his support.

Representative William J. Granfield, of Massachusetts, issued a statement in which he formally launched the candidacy of Representative John J. O'Connor, of New York, as the one man in the House best qualified for the high post of Speaker.

Mr. O'Connor himself issued a statement, brief and sarcastic, the inferences of which he left to the conclusion of his readers. "Illinois," said Mr. O'Connor, "seems to develop certain statesmen like Mr. Britten and Mr. Sabath, whose quotations of Presidents are almost as accurate as the Treasury's estimates of the deficit."

The Washington Post story of Mr. Roosevelt's repudiation of Mr. Jackson's activities, "as one close to the President-elect," to further the candidacy of Mr. McDuffie was the subject of widespread comment among House members. Some interpreted the account of the repudiation as an effort by supporters of Mr. Rainey to cloak their candidate in the mantle of Rooseveltian favor. This was promptly and effectively denied by Mr. Rainey and his supporters. Mr. Roosevelt, they said, had not given his support to the Rainey candidacy, would not be expected to do so and would not be asked to do so.

Hold Jackson to Blame.

Friends of Representative Byrns have been equally irked by the activities of Mr. Jackson. They hold it was Mr. Jackson who was responsible for impressions circulated about a brief and informal chat between Mr. Byrns and John F. Curry, Tammany chieftain, in New York several weeks ago. The Jackson propaganda sought to rule Mr. Byrns out of the race because he had sought and, presumably, received the favor of Tammany, an association which Mr. Roosevelt could not reasonably be expected to tolerate.

Mr. Byrns' visit to the Tammany chief in New York was purely an impromptu one, his friends say. The visit was so brief it encompassed little more than mutual greetings and not once in its course was the contest for Speaker mentioned.

Speaker Garner held his peace in the course of the flurry among House members yesterday. He has said that he will take no part in the fight. He is leaving the House on next March 4 to assume the office of Vice President and he is going to let the House settle its own affairs, Mr. Garner has said.

Seen Favoring McDuffie.

So far as can be learned Mr. Garner has followed that program, but it has been common rumor that he and Mr. McDuffie are close friends and that if he had to make a choice he would chooose the genial, energetic and popular party whip from Alabama.

There are some friends of other candidates who believe that so long as Mr. Garner does not do something more definite in the fight than he has done the impression will prevail that he would like to see his mantle fall on the shoulders of Mr. McDuffie.

That may or may not be so, but it is, perhaps, unfair to Speaker Garner. Mr. Garner has given repeated assurances to various members that he shall take no part in the scrap. What should he do to dissipate the gossip that he favors Mr. McDuffie? Should he, his friends ask, be expected to denounce the candidacy of his friend, Mr. McDuffie, just to convince others that he wasn't fighting them?

Repeal of Bank Check Tax Provided by Bill

(Associated Press.)

A bill to repeal the 2-cent tax on bank checks was introduced yesterday by Representative Fulmer (Democrat), South Carolina.

R. F. C. STATE LOANS ARE THIRD OF QUOTA

General Total Allotted Near $2,000,000,000 Mark, Report Reveals.

(Associated Press.)

The Reconstruction Corporation has distributed barely more than one-third of the $300,000,000 given it for relief loans to States, but its total lendings to date have gone close to the $2,000,000,000 mark.

Including loans approved yesterday, the corporation since last spring has authorized outlays totaling about $108,000,000 for relief, and in addition had undertaken $146,500,000 of loans for self-liquidating construction, such as toll bridges, to furnish new employment. The greater part of the relief loans approved has been paid out, but much of the self-liquidating allotment remains to be distributed.

Total Announced.

Making yesterday a report on disbursements to November 30, the corporation showed an outlay of $1,502,168,402 to banks, insurance companies, other financial institutions and railroads. Its announced authorization of loans for all classes of borrowers to date, however, total $1,844,252,176. Of this $1,541,906,876 had been pledged by December 30 to 6,494 borrowers under the section relating to financial institutions and railroads.

Six crop-marketing organizations and 509,885 farmers and live stock men have been assisted in financing, growing and marketing their crops. A total of $64,204,503 has been loaned by the Secretary of Agriculture out of R. F. C. funds to farmers for crop production, and $52,104,357 of loans have been authorized for marketing organizations. In addition, the regional agricultural credit corporations, operated by the Reconstruction Corporation, had loaned $8,610,082 to farmers and stockmen up to November 30.

36 States Aided.

The emergency relief loans, first authorized in July, so far have gone to 36 States and two territories. In the majority of cases these funds have been distributed to governors a little at a time, enough to care for a group of cities or counties in each State for one month or at most two. In each case the corporation has required that need be shown, together with evidence that the communities and State have done or are doing all possible to take care of requirements on their own.

One feature of yesterday's report was that of the total paid out, the corporation has been repaid $283,049,000. The greater part of this, $233,587,000 was paid back by banks. The report also disclosed that the Cotton Stabilization Corporation and the American Cotton Cooperative Association never have claimed any of the loans, aggregating $50,000,000, which were voted to them several months ago for the purpose of holding cotton.

Other agricultural organizations assisted include Sun Maid Raisin Growers of California, $1,500,000; Growers Fruit Exchange of West Virginia, $175,000; Canners Finance Corporation of Ohio, $147,500, and the Shade Tobacco Credit Co. of Florida, $146,746.

M'COIN IS REPORTED SEEN TWICE RECENTLY IN OHIO

Columbus the night after he was reported slain.

Scully said a police circular photograph of McCoin had been identified as that of a man who placed McCoin's automobile in a garage here December 24.

Further, Scully said, the garage man's description of clothes worn by the driver tallied with information from North Carolina as to the manner in which McCoin was dressed.

Pending further investigation and a conference with North Carolina authorities, however, Scully said he was unwilling to abandon the theory that McCoin had been slain by hold-up men and his car driven here by his assassins.

Detectives hailed the identification as the most important development in the widespread search for the former North Carolina State senator. An analysis of stains resembling blood found in the parked automobile also was being made. Authorities expected a report on this tomorrow.

McCoin disappeared, after leaving North Carolina, December 22. An anonymous letter to a North Carolina official, purportedly from one of four who robbed and slew the 60-year-old lawyer the night of December 24, said his body had been buried between Hagerstown, Md., and Uniontown, Pa.

Additional Clews.

North Carolina authorities had additional clews indicating McCoin may have been alive some time after the reported slaying—that, in fact, he might have motored over the same route the anonymous letter ascribed to his slayers.

A man fitting a description of McCoin was said by Miss Marie Warner, operator of a hotel at Clear Springs, Md., to have spent last Thursday night there. She said he left early Friday before any one else was up. It was on Thursday that he was last seen at Richmond, Va.

Henderson, N. C., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Convinced, he said, that R. S. McCoin has been slain, Al B. Wester, business associate of the missing Henderson attorney, tonight announced a $500 reward for location and identification of McCoin's body.

Wester rejected the theory of Columbus, Ohio, police that McCoin in person left his automobile in a garage in that city last Saturday.

Carvin Linthicum, of Raleigh, nephew of McCoin, who with J. H. Langston, Henderson chief of police, is aiding in the search for McCoin's body in the vicinity of Hagerstown, Md., telephoned Wester tonight that a man who stayed at a roadhouse near Hagerstown last Thursday night, traveling in a sedan automobile with a North Carolina license, left early Friday. Three miles farther west he stopped at a filling station and inquired the direction of Uniontown, Pa., and Columbus, Ohio, Linthicum said.

Hope that McCoin would be found alive was spurred today when Columbus police reported McCoin was seen there Christmas Eve, a day after he was reported in an anonymous letter to have been slain in Virginia.

McCoin's Body Reported Seen in Car in Virginia

A dead man, closely resembling R. S. McCoin, missing attorney of Henderson, N. C., was seen in a battered automobile, occupied also by three youths, at a gasoline station in South Richmond, Va., early last Saturday by Robert M. Rogers, of Brentwood, Md., he declared in a statement to Eugene B. Plummer, chief of police at Mount Rainier, Md., last night.

Rogers said he was accompanied by Carl Hansen, of 5508 Wisconsin avenue northwest, when they noticed a model T Ford automobile at a filling station where they made a stop. Rogers said he and Hansen were en route to Washington, driving a truckload of fruit.

Parking their car at the station, the two men, Rogers told Chief Plummer, went to a lunchroom across the street. In the lunchroom, he said, was a policeman. During the repast, the two men heard somebody say a dead man was in the car outside.

"Sure enough," said Rogers, "after we left the lunchroom and passed the car there was a man slumped in there who looked like he was dead. Since seeing pictures of Mr. McCoin I have come to the positive belief that it was him."

Rogers said they felt that it was none of their business and did not make further inquiries because they had been informed that the three boys had said the man was killed in an automobile accident 12 miles away and they were conveying him to a Richmond undertaking establishment.

The gasoline station and lunchroom described by Rogers, he said was at the Petersburg pike and Hull street in South Richmond (Old Manchester), which is just across the James River from the Virginia capital.

Chief Plummer said he had known Mr. Rogers for several years and had confidence in him. The Mount Rainier police head immediately notified Hagerstown, Md., authorities, where a search is being conducted for the missing former North Carolina State senator.

Hansen, interviewed by a Post reporter, corroborated Rogers' story in every detail.

Santa Claus brought Barbara a whistle this year and last night she bit off the mouthpiece and swallowed it.

Try 3.2 Per Cent Beer On Jury, Dill Proposes

(Associated Press.)

A proposal that the Senate judiciary committee test the effect of 3.2 per cent beer on a group of average people came yesterday from Senator Dill (Democrat), Washington, together with a suggestion that the House beer bill be amended to eliminate any definition of an intoxicating beverage.

Dill, a member of the committee, said he was working on a proposal to eliminate any fixed alcoholic limitation from the bill and leave the question to the courts, but asserted if the committee attempted to define an intoxicating beverage it could only be done by actual tests.

He said he would propose to the committee at its meeting Monday that a "jury of tasters" be composed of "average men" to drink 3.2 per cent beer and allow the committee to observe the result.

THIRD FINANCE BILL IS SENT TO SENATE

Farm Measure Passed After Days of Wrangling by Cautious House.

(Associated Press.)

What really looked and acted like a penny-pinching House yesterday sent the third annual appropriation measure to the Senate.

The Agriculture supply bill, after days of wrangling over amendments involving only a few dollars, finally was passed, carrying $100,000,000. Permanent appropriations of $10,000,000 are allowed by law without congressional action. Last year, for the same department there was appropriated $306,671,665. Most of the difference was in highway funds, which were slashed from $222,000,000 approved last session to the $35,000,000 allowed yesterday.

Representative Taber (Republican), New York, made an unsuccessful attempt to reduce the road allotment to $10,000,000, holding that "not more than 20,000 men are employed by the money we appropriated last year." His amendment was defeated, 48 to 13.

On motion of Representative La Guardia (Republican), New York, the language in the bill was changed to prevent even the indirect employment of convict labor on Federal-aid highways.

So far, the House has set something of a record. It has passed three appropriation bills and received a fourth, which provide $1,136,000,000 for running expenses of the Government. At the same stage last session, the bills called for outlays totaling $1,654,000,000.

Only $56,000,000 of this reduction, however, has been achieved by the House. The remainder was recommended by the Budget Bureau, and largely took into account nonrecurring expenditures, such as the millions approved last session for public buildings.

CAMPBELL UPHOLDS CLASSIFICATION ACT

Letter to McKellar, Who Asks Its Repeal, Warns of Backward Step.

Repeal of the classification act "would be not only a tremendous step backward in the Government's progress toward better technique in personnel administration generally . . . but a direct handicap in the administration of the merit system itself," declared Thomas E. Campbell, president of the Civil Service Commission, in a letter to Senator McKellar (Democrat), of Tennessee, author of a bill to wipe the act from the statute books.

Mr. Campbell said, "The commission regards the classification act as the most forward-looking statute affecting personnel administration in the Government service since the passage of the civil service act itself."

Prior to 1923, when the classification act was enacted, declared Mr. Campbell, "consistent and logical relationships between the duties, the qualifications, requirements and the salaries of positions in the Government service were the exception rather than the rule."

"The necessity for the maintenance of such a systematic basis for civil service administration is intimately woven into the fabric of the merit system itself," he continued.

"It goes without saying," Mr. Campbell declared, "that for the commission to carry on effectively its work of recruiting, testing and certifying qualified employes for Government positions, there must be logical and consistent relations among three factors that vitally affect plans, policies and decisions in personnel administration; namely, the duties and responsibilities of positions, the qualifications required to fill them and the salaries offered. Under the classification act, this is assured."

Copies of Mr. Campbell's letter were also sent to the remainder of the members of the Senate civil service committee, of which McKeller is ranking Democratic member, and to the whole roster of the House civil service committee.

McKeller's bill, S. 5042, was introduced on December 6.

U. S. Envoy Says Soviet Has Halted Paper Import

(Associated Press.)

The Commerce Department announced yesterday that Minister R. P. Skinner, at Riga, Latvia, had notified it that Soviet Russia has ceased to import paper, despite the inability of local mills to meet the domestic demand.

Skinner said Russia's progress in paper production has not come up to the five-year quota, and added that, even if it should fulfill its production plans, it could satisfy only 60 per cent of the domestic demand.

Geographers Study Rural Area Future

Dire Results to Follow at Present Pace, Is Economist's View.

Closing their convention here yesterday at the Shoreham Hotel, the Association of American Geographers spent most of their session discussing the future of rural areas where populations have been seriously depleted by post-war migrations to cities.

The discussion was precipitated by reading of a paper at the session on the evening before by O. E. Baker, of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, which predicted disastrous consequences to the Nation if "the road to our Nation's destiny" doesn't turn back to the villages and farmlands.

Land utilization, a closer knitting of large rural areas and of producers of like products, simplification of transportation in rural areas to bring agricultural communities close together, and extension of modern conveniences, such as gas, water, sewerage and electricity to outlying areas, were major points of the discussion yesterday.

thoriaztion for abolition of useless bureaus.

"We can't save any money unless we do away with some of these agencies," he said.

Declines to Forecast.

Cochran would make no forecast of what his committee will do with President Hoover's program.

"I only know that the overwhelming bulk of the testimony was against it during the hearings," he said "Even Director of the Budget Roop, who helped prepare the President's recommendations, said he thought it would be wise to leave reorganization to the incoming administration."

Although the Democrats probably have enough strength in the House to disapprove the Hoover program, if the expenditures committee reports the Cochran resolution, Representative Mapes, of Michigan, and other Republicans will wage a floor fight for the Hoover regroupings.

Mapes believes it is a question of Hoover reorganization or none at all.

Senator Byrnes said yesterday he consulted Speaker Garner and other House leaders before he drafted his amendment to hand a broader reorganization authority to the President-elect. Word from Albany indicated Mr. Roosevelt was willing to take full responsibility in the matter, with an eye to wide Federal economies.

Supported by Garner.

This was backed up yesterday by Speaker Garner at his daily conference with the press.

"Mr. Roosevelt is not afraid to take all of the responsibility Congress will give him to reorganize the Government," said the Vice President-elect.

Asked if the Democrats intended to give Roosevelt the powers of a dictator, Garner replied:

"I don't think he wants to be a dictator. Whatever power Congress gives to the President, it can take away. That's provided in the Constitution."

Canadian Gold Output Soars.

Ottawa, Ontario, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Canadian gold production touched a new high record in 1932, the Dominion bureau of statistics estimating it today at $63,156,000. This represented an increase of 13 per cent over 1931, 65 per cent over 1927 and of 142 per cent over 1922.

SALES TAX TO GET AIRING WEDNESDAY

(Associated Press.)

Despite reported opposition of President-elect Roosevelt to general sales tax, Chairman Collier said yesterday he would give the House ways and means committee an opportunity to pass on it next Wednesday.

In discussing tax proposals, Collier told newspapermen he was going to give the ways and means committee "full opportunity to consider" all suggested propositions, including the bill by Representative McLeod (Republican), Michigan, for a manufacturer's sales levy of one and three-fourths per cent on all commodities, except the necessities of life.

Collier personally is opposed to a general sales tax and said he doubted whether it would have much chance of being reported to the House, where a similar measure was soundly defeated last spring.

Representative Hawley, of Oregon, ranking Republican on the committee, said:

"I believe we should adopt a general manufacturers' excise tax and extend the gasoline tax for another year. In the event a general excise tax is adopted, that will absorb some of the present nuisance taxes."

An economy proposal sanctioned by the Democratic leaders and approved yesterday by the Senate economy committee calls for repeal of all permanent and indefinite appropriations amounting to about $140,000,000, exclusive of the sinking fund requirements on the public debt.

The repeal proposal would require that all these appropriations be considered along with the annual appropriations by the budget and the President.

CONNALLY CHARGES ARMY FEARS REDS

the border has never been so securely protected as now.

"I think the senator is joking when he says I fear bolshevism. I dare say I am about as much afraid of bolshevists as the average Texan is of the border raids which Senator Connally seems to fear."

Connally's criticism of the troop movement drew other Democrats to their feet, including Senator Logan, whose home State of Kentucky will receive the troops from Camp Russell at Camp Knox.

Senator Hayden (Democrat), Arizona, aligned himself with Connally in attacking the orders to move to other points in Arizona the Army forces now at Nogales and Douglas on the Mexican border.

Both he and Connally contended the troops were needed at the border points for protection against raids by bands and other disturbances.

Senator Logan engaged in a long argument with Connally after asserting the War Department should have no "particular animosity" toward Texas, since the Lone Star State "contributed so manfully" toward putting the Republicans in power in 1928.

Connally replied on that basis Kentucky would be the gainer because that State gave President Hoover a larger majority than Texas.

Senator Sheppard (Democrat), Texas, joined Connally in his protest. He suggested that the order, which is effective January 1, be held up pending congressional action on bills to keep the troops at Marfa.

400 FAMILIES WAIT TO FLEE RIVER RISE

Chattanooga Is Focal Point as South's Streams Lay Siege to Lowlands.

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Chattanooga, where 400 families were prepared to move out of lowland homes ahead of a predicted crest seven feet above flood stage on the Tennessee River, was the focal point of attack tonight as the South's rivers continued to lay siege to cities on their lower reaches while receding upstream.

The Tennessee above Chattanooga and higher portions of all of the other streams that have been in flood began to fall today, and weather observers said the crest would pass Chattanooga tomorrow. Downstream, however, higher water was in sight for the rivers from North Carolina to the Mississippi.

Warning to Residents.

Florence, Ala., which had 16.4 feet of water in the Tennessee late today, expected the river to pass flood stage of 18 feet tomorrow, and warnings were sent to residents of the valley below to move possessions to high ground.

Rome, Ga., where the Etowah, Oostanaula and Coosa rivers had been out of their banks several days, flooding low-lying districts in the town, and driving about 140 refugees to seek help from relief agencies, heard with relief that the rivers were falling upstream. Water seeping into an underground cable put some 500 telephones out of commission in Rome.

Tennessee Below Flood.

At Knoxville, the Tennessee dropped well undgr the 20-foot flood stage today, after forcing a few families out of lowland homes the day before. All other rivers there were falling.

In Alabama, the Alabama River rise drove a dozen more Negro families out of their homes in North Montgomery. The Coosa River ran into basements at Wetumpka, where it was 4 feet above flood stage, but no serious trouble was anticipated. Above Montgomery, where the Coosa and Tallapoosa join to form the Alabama, a vast section was flooded.

Weather continued unsettled over most of the headwaters.

South African Mother Hangs for Son's Murder

Pretoria, Union of South Africa, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Mrs. Daisy De Melker was hanged this morning for the murder of her son, Cecil Rhodes Cowle, by poisoning, for which she was sentenced to death November 25. The case attracted countrywide attention and the trial, lasting nearly six weeks, was one of the most sensational in South African criminal history. On charges of poisoning two former husbands, she was found not guilty.

Mrs. De Melker, a frail, diminutive woman, was unshaken by the final ordeal and met death bravely, maintaining her inoncence to the end.

CHESAPEAKE OYSTER TRADE SEEN DOOMED

U. S. Expert Says Industry Will Disappear Unless Methods Are Changed.

(Associated Press.)

Chesapeake Bay as an area for growing oysters is doomed, the United States Bureau of Fisheries says, unless modern methods of oyster culture are adopted.

"Under the present system, it will eventually become economically impossible to produce oysters from Chesapeake Bay," is the conclusion made by Robert O. Smith, aquatic biologist of the bureau.

Mr. Smith, who spends all of his time studying the oyster, says he regards Chesapeake Bay as the finest body of water in America for growing oysters. Under proper methods, he says, the bay's yield could be made larger and the quality finer.

The oyster yield of Chesapeake Bay has already declined from 17,000,000 bushels in 1880 to 5,000,000 bushels in 1930, the bureau says, because Virginia and Maryland have not taken proper steps to preserve the industry.

Young Mother Admits $55 Holdup of Bakery

New York, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Mrs. Alice Scribner, of Yonkers, a young mother, stood in the glare of floodlights at the police line-up today and told how she took her husband's revolver and held up a Brooklyn bakery, stealing $55 with which she was later captured by the woman manager.

Mrs. Scribner, who is shortly to have another child, said that before she was married, she was employed in another Brooklyn retail branch of the same bakery. When she decided to commit a robbery, she said, she turned to Brooklyn because she knew the district, and to a store of that particular company because she knew only women were employed there.

Russell Will Become Senator Day Earlier

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Gov. Richard B. Russell, jr., will assume office as United States senator from Georgia January 12 instead of January 13, it was announced here today.

Russell had planned to take the oath in Washington January 13, but the date for inauguration of his successor, Gov.-elect Eugene Talmadge, was moved up to January 10, allowing Russell to leave for Washington one day earlier.

doomed to ride street cars and taxis over the New Year holidays.

From early morning until the doors closed on those still waiting, a line of motorists, more than a block long, stood with applications in hand waiting to receive their tags.

Of the 103,000 tags issued since early in the month 8,000 alone were given out yesterday. The number of tags issued yesterday totaled the amount of those given out during the first two weeks of distribution.

It was pointed out that the new tags have been available since November 28. A great many of those in line yesterday were wives, sent by busy husbands to obtain new tags for the family automobile. Mr. Van Duzer pointed to a number of amusing incidents when the women became indignant and refused to wait.

Approximately 90 per cent of Washington's taxicabs have been inspected and are ready to operate during the New Year, the traffic director said. More than 3,000 taxi licenses were issued yesterday.

Lewis, of I. C. C., On Job 12 Years

Little Hope Held Out for Third Term in View of Impasse.

With his nomination for a third term as member of the Interstate Commerce Commission before the Senate, Commissioner Ernest I. Lewis today rounds out his second term and twelfth year of service with the railroad-regulating body.

Little hope is held for Senate approval of Lewis' nomination because of the announced intention of Democrats to hold up all but routine nominations by the President. With his withdrawal, the political makeup of the commission will be five Republicans, four Democrats and one Independent.

Mr. Lewis, in charge of valuation work of the commission many years, may be appointed head of the commission's Bureau of Valuation, it was rumored yesterday. An Indianan, he is considered an authority on valuation matters. He was appointed to the commission after a career as newspaperman and authority on public utilities problems.

Two Firemen Retired With District Pensions

Two firemen were retired yesterday with pensions by the District Commissioners because of physical disabilities incurred in line of duty.

Sergt. G. C. Moxley has been confined to the Naval Hospital. H. B. Allen, 39, was a private in the department.

Japanese Newspaper King and Peer Dies

Osaka, Japan, Dec. 30 (U.P.).—Hikoichi Motoyama, "newspaper king," member of the House of Peers and grand old man of Japanese journalism, died today after a sudden illness.

Motoyama was widely known as publisher of the two daily newspapers, Osaka Mainichi and Tokyo Nichi Nichi, which have a combined circulation of 3,000,000. He also published the daily English Mainichi, the weekly Sunday Mainichi, the bimonthly Economist, the monthly Braille Mainichi and other periodicals.

He contributed greatly to molding Japanese public opinion toward liberal nationalism, and he entertained a particular interest in mass education.

Woman Reporter Dies at 91.

Marshall, Mo., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Mrs. J. M. Patterson, 91, pioneer newspaper woman, is dead. She was a reporter here for 52 years, retiring from active writing for the Democrat-News February 18, 1931, her ninetieth birthday. In 1922 she ceased to make daily calls on her run, using the telephone instead.

MAJ. J. V. BYRNE, 40, U.S.A., RETIRED, DIES

Illness of Several Weeks Is Fatal to Head of Bonus Payment Office.

Maj. Joseph V. Byrne, 40, head of the bonus payment division of the Veterans' Administration, died yesterday at Mount Alto Hospital after an illness of several weeks. He was a retired emergency officer of the World War.

Maj. Byrne was a native of Washington. For the past thirteen years he had served in the United States Public Health Service and the Veterans' Administration. His home was at 2230 Kearney street northeast.

He was a graduate of Immaculate Conception Boys School and Catholic University. He was commissioned in the Sanitary Corps during the war and retired with a disability incurred in line of service.

He was a member of the Military Order of the World War, the American Legion, the Disabled American Veterans and the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Daphne M. Byrne; five daughters, Marie, Sarah, Jane, Margaret and Patricia, and a son, Joseph V. Byrne, jr.; four sisters, Mrs. H. J. Crawley, Mrs. L. R. Van Sant, Mrs. George Tyler, and Mrs. R. W. Robinson, and three brothers, Robert B., Paul J., and Patrick T. Byrne.

Burial will be at Arlington National Cemetery with full military ceremonies after funeral services at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning at St. Anthony's Catholic Church. The drum and bugle corps of Victor Post, American Legion, will assist in the burial services.

Mary Louise MacDaniel Will Be Buried Monday

Funeral services for Mary Louise MacDaniel, 30, who suffered fatal injuries in an automobile accident early Friday near Bordentown, N. J., will be held at Wright's funeral home here Monday at 2:30 p. m. Interment will be in Glenwood Cemetery.

Her father, Dr. Frank MacDaniel, 60, Lake Placid, N. Y., former headmaster of the Pennington Seminary, and a sister, Margaret MacDaniel, also were injured severely in the accident. The father and sister are now in Mercer Hospital at Trenton, N. J. The MacDaniel car was struck by an automobile which swerved into it after colliding head-on with a third car.

W. E. McMahon, 54, Phone Chief, Dies

Widow and His Brother Survive Official at Takoma Park.

William E. McMahon, chief clerk to the general traffic department of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., died at his residence, 108 Chestnut street, Takoma Park, Md., yesterday afternoon after a short illness.

Mr. McMahon, who has been a resident of Washington since August 1, 1904, was a native of Rahway, N. J., where he was born, April 19, 1878. He received his education in the public schools and at Rutgers College, graduating from the latter with an A. B. degree.

He was employed by the New York Telephone Co. as a traffic student February 1, 1904, and since coming to Washington had been employed in various capacities in the traffic department of the telephone company. Mr. McMahon was appointed division traffic superintendent for Washington and vicinity January 1, 1912. His wife, Mrs. Laura B. McMahon, and a brother, Benjamin, of Washington, survive.

Long Illness Is Fatal To Brother of Winship

Macon, Ga., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Dr. Herring Winship, 57, well-known physician and a brother of Maj. Gen. Blanton Winship, judge advocate general of the Army, died here late today.

He had been ill since June. Maj. Gen. Winship had been at his bedside for a week. He is the last surviving brother. Lieut. Comdr. Emory Winship, of San Francisco, and Isaac Winship, of this city, brothers, died within the last two years.

Henry S. Hutzler Dies at Richmond.

Richmond, Va., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Henry S. Hutzler, 76, died at his home here today after an illness of about six weeks. For many years he had been prominent in Richmond business and fraternal circles, and a leader in many philanthropic movements. He was a native of Petersburg, the son of the late Sigmund L. Hutzler. He was unmarried.

WOMAN, 30, SOCIAL WORKER, MURDERED

Body of Clevelander Found in Auto; Robbery Is Held Motive.

Cleveland, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—A young woman welfare worker was the victim of a fiendish murder in a fashionable suburb today only an hour after she had cheerfully started on an errand in downtown Cleveland.

She was Mrs. Ruth Steese, 30, an employe of the Cleveland Society for the Blind and a graduate of Western Reserve University.

Police and Coroner, A. J. Pearse agreed robbery was the prime motive, but said the attackers were frightened away before they had taken all the woman's money and jewelry.

Discovered by Motorist.

Mrs. Steese had cashed a check for $190 at a downtown bank, but only $5.28 was found in her purse and in an envelope. Three rings, a wrist watch and a cameo pin were not disturbed.

Jack Hayden and his sister, Louise, driving on the usually well-traveled Shaker boulevard, spied an automobile in a field some distance from the road in Pepper Pike village. Many socially prominent Clevelanders live in the area, but no homes are close to the spot.

Bullet Wounds in Head.

Suspecting an accident, Hayden walked through the muddy field to the car and discovered Mrs. Steese's body in the back seat. The woman had been bound and strangled with her own scarf. There was a bullet wound in the top of the skull and another in the back of the head. Much of the clothing had been torn to shreds, and there was evidence of a criminal attack. A .38 caliber bullet was on the floor of the car.

The woman's body and the radiator of the car were warm when Hayden walked up.

Had Borrowed Auto.

The car belonged to Mrs. Violet A. Warriner, business manager for the Cleveland Society for the Blind. It had been borrowed by Mrs. Steese for trips to two banks. Mrs. Steese had appeared at one of the banks to make a deposit, but had not been seen at the other.

Neither Mrs. Warriner nor Mrs. Steese's husband, Herbert, a gasoline filling station attendant, could offer any explanation of the crime beyond robbery.

Banks Extend Feeler Offering Sterling Price

Cape Town, Union of South Africa, Dec. 30. (A.P.).—With South Africa off the gold standard, commercial banks extended a feeler today by quoting 91 South African pounds per 100 pounds British sterling. This was the first quotation since the union went off gold. Dealings showed much hesitation, some houses considering the rate too high to bring money to South Africa from London.

London, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—The exchange market quoted 90 South African pounds per 100 British pounds today. Last Wedesday the quotation was 69 pounds 12 shillings 1 sixpence in South African currency to 100 British pounds.

Cause of Private's Fatal Foray Sought

Stomach to Be Examined by State Experts in Death of Five.

Fort Huachuca, Ariz., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—The medical staff of this one-time frontier outpost sought laboratory aid today in an effort to determine the cause of a murderous outburst of an apparently crazed Negro private, which brought death to five—four white residents of "officers' row" and the madman himself.

The death-dealing foray of Private James H. Abernathy, Quartermasters Corps, was halted late yesterday by a bullet from the rifle of a provost guard, after the slaying of the post's assistant quartermaster, a Twenty-fifth Infantry company captain and both their wives and the wounding of an Infantry lieutenant.

An autopsy today did not enable the medical staff to reach definite conclusions, and the stomach was to be sent to the State pathological laboratory in a further effort to determine what caused the Negro's sudden lust for blood.

Second Set of Twins In Year.

Chicago, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—For the second time within a year Mrs. Marie Colson, 25, presented her husband, Gilbert, with twins, born yesterday. They were a boy and girl as was the first set born last January 10. Colson is an automobile insurance company clerk.

Janet Gaynor Sails for Hawaii.

San Francisco, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Janet Gaynor, of the films, sailed today on the liner President Hoover for a four-week vacation in Honolulu, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Laura Gaynor, and Mrs. Eva Rothing, of Hollywood.

LAKE VESSEL WINS ICE AND FOG BATTLE

Erie Skipper Relates Story of Grim Ordeal When He Reaches Buffalo.

Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—A three-day battle with ice and fog on treacherous Lake Erie was described today by Capt. Walter Anderson of the steamer F. B. S. Squire, which docked at noon after being unreported for nearly two days.

The Squire, originally out of Chicago with a cargo of corn, cleared the Detroit River last Tuesday and headed into Lake Erie for the final leg of the passage.

"After we came out of the Detroit River and headed into the east end of Lake Erie, things began to loom up that we hadn't looked for," Capt. Anderson said. "We'd just about started when we hit heavy ice floes off Colchester, Essex County, Ontario. Every mile we crept ahead the ice thickened, and then a heavy fog settled down.

"We took no chances. We'd move ahead a ship's length, then back her up, take a sounding and move ahead again. Navigation aids, you know, were pulled up long ago and so we had to go blind. That ice jam continued to get heavier as we inched along and several times we were forced to use the steam line, to keep from getting stuck.

"There were times when I thought we wouldn't make it. Buffalo looked a long way off when we were stopped by a jam between Colchester and Point Pelee. At that spot the nearest land was 25 miles away and all we could see was fog and ice, ice and fog."

The Squire's skipper said the chief worry on the trip was the fear that they would be stuck fast and at one time plans were made to send a man ashore over the ice to summon aid. This was abandoned as the fog was too thick for any one to go over the ice with any degree of safety.

Anderson said they arrived about 5 miles outside Buffalo Harbor at 4 a. m. today and dropped anchor to await a convoy.

Kugeman's Family Show Suicide Note TheyFound

Detroit, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—A suicide note found beside the body of Arthur Morley Kugeman's body on December 23 was revealed tonight by Louis Wurzer, attorney for the family. W. Gomer Krise, chief assistant county prosecutor, said the blood-stained note established beyond all doubt that Kugeman, Grosse Pointe Farms Society man and son of a prominent New York family, shot himself.

Krise said he had established that the signature was genuine. Neither he nor Wurzer would say who had suppressed the note, but Wurzer said a member of the family found it beside the body and gave it to him only after Krise had announced he would ask an inquest.

Insurgents on Run, Hondurans Claim

Amapala, Evacuated, Freed From Rebel Grip, Report Says.

Tegucigalpa, Honduras, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—A government communique announced today that rebels under Gen. Andres Garcia evacuated the City of Amapala Wednesday night, taking ships for the Nicaraguan port of Tempisque in Fonseca Bay.

Nationalist troops under Gen. Julien Oyuela and Col. Alfonso Molina occupied the port without resistance yesterday afternoon.

Rebels under Gens. Jose Maria Reina, Jose Maria Fonseca and Antonio Sanchez, who reached El Sauce Wednesday and threatened to advance on Tegucigalpa, now are reported retreating to the southeast. This morning they were said to be in the neighborhood of Sabana Grande, about 25 miles south of Tegucigalpa. The nationalist Gen. Lino Zuniga has been appointed military commander of Tegucigalpa.

CAPITAL WILL GREET NEW YEAR MERRILY

the city. In other precincts the regular shifts will be maintained, albeit a busy night is in prospect.

Among special New Year services tomorrow will be a 5 o'clock mass at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Eighth and N streets northwest; a 4 p. m. service in the great choir at the Washington Cathedral. Regular Sunday services will, of course, be observed on schedule, it was announced.

No special activity on the part of prohibition squads will mark the New Year celebration, it was said at headquarters for this area yesterday. Officials, questioned as to whether supplies for the bibulously inclined would be in abundance or curtailed, were able only to shrug their shoulders.

A FITTING welcome to the New Year will be extended at 2400 This Evening by those delightful people who can be at once festive and discriminating. And you are most cordially invited.

For the occasion, Broadway will come to Sixteenth Street, with entertainment seldom seen so far from Times Square. Dinner will be served from 7 until 10, dancing and diversion from 10 until 2. Formal attire will be in order.

It will be important, for your comfort and pleasure, to make reservations at once. Call Mr. Kohlhammer, at COlumbia 7200, NOW and be assured of starting the NEW YEAR auspiciously.

Telegraphic Dispatches

Philadelphia, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Good news came to 21,000 city and county employes today when City Treasurer Kemp announced the $1,200,000 semi-monthly pay roll due tomorrow would be met in full. Kemp said he had a balance of $600,000 in hand and today's receipts were expected to bring this well above the amount required.

Kerbyville, Tex., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—John McClung, 16, was burned to death and four other persons were injured jumping from the second floor when fire destroyed the Chambers Hotel here today. McClung, a junior in the Jasper High School, either fainted or was overcome by smoke after being awakened by his mother, Mrs. Myrta McClung.

Baltimore, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Announcement was made today that Harold F. McCormick, Chicago millionaire, had been discharged from Johns Hopkins Hospital and left Baltimore last night en route to Chicago. He had been a patient here since November 14 and underwent an operation.

Terre Haute, Ind., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Carl Romoser, 17, convicted recently of slaying his 21-year-old brother, Louis, today was sentenced to life imprisonment. The boy contended at his trial that he had been beaten by his older brother.

Oklahoma City, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Veterans of the big Oklahoma City oil field, part of which developed under well-populated residential sections, are accustomed to hardships incidental to the production of "black gold" from beneath their home sites. The No. 2 Habegger-Precure well ran wild today and spewed oil over the vicinity while crews attempted to attach a control valve. Fifteen stoical families ate cold meals while National Guardsmen watch a "no-fire" zone near the gusher.

Kansas City, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—George Woods, 33, slipped and struck the floor when he slid down the brass pole at a fire station here. He drove his truck to the supposed scene of the fire and learned it was a false alarm. Darkness closed in around him as he drove back to the station, but he managed to back the fire apparatus into position. Fellow firemen lifted him from his seat. Today an X-ray revealed he had made the run with a broken back.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Two large eagles, caged at the rear of barracks at Fort Francis E. Warren, maintained their company manners for two years. They lived at peace with two smaller hawks and all thrived on table scraps. Then the rapaciousness of the eagles conquered. Attendants found the larger birds feasting on the carcasses of the hawks.

Pauls Valley, Okla., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Leaving a trail of nails in the highway to frustrate automobile pursuit, but no apparent clues, bandits nine days ago robbed the First National Bank of Lindsay, Okla., of $16,000 and escaped. Officers gathered up the nails, then, after a check, determined where they had been purchased. Nail buyers were investigated. Today seven robber suspects were under arrest.

London Riot Pardons Asked.

Lossiemouth, Scotland, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—The pilgrimage of George Lansbury, Labor party leader, to Lossiemouth to protest against sentences imposed in connection with the recent unemployment riots in London, resulted today in his getting from Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald a promise of further action. The protest was directed against sentences of two months against Tom Mann and Merhys Llewellyn.

COSMIC RAY DEBATE OF 3 HOURS IS DRAW

Drs. Millikan and Compton Present Mass of Data at Scientific Session.

Atlantic City, N. J., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—The nature of the cosmic rays and the secret of the fact of the universe that they may hold remained a mystery today despite three hours of debate by two internationally known scientists before the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Dr. Robert A. Millikan, of California Institute of Technology, argued that the cosmic rays are photons, or "bullets" of light, while Dr. Arthur H. Compton, of the University of Chicago, held they must be electrons, highly charged particles of electricity. Both presented a mass of detailed arguments, photographs and charts to support their views, and the result was "no" decision. The outstanding fact developed by the debate was that solution of the origin of the rays must await further investigation, and both speakers said they expected more light on the question soon from other experiments now in progress.

The debate was a leading feature of the annual convention of the association, and attracted a large and interested audience, which included many noted scientists of the Nation.

Both debaters agreed that the cosmic rays, as measured on earth, are a mixture of particles, some positively charged, some negative and some neutral. Dr. Compton holds that these particles are the actual cosmic rays, penetrating to earth, but Dr. Millikan insists they are only "secondary" rays, atoms of atmosphere smashed and set flying by the impact of the real cosmic rays coming from high above the earth.

Dr. Millikan deplored the public attention focused on cosmic rays, and said the less attention they receive the better, both for science and the public, until more is known about them.

Student Mandamus Dissolution Sought

Military Training Issue in Lawmaking Scope, Official's View.

Baltimore, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Asserting two suspended students displayed a rebellious and dictatorial attitude when seeking to be excused from the military training course at the University of Maryland, the attorney general's office today asked for the dismissal of the mandamus proceedings to obtain their reinstatement.

Filed through William Preston Lane, jr., attorney general of Maryland, and his deputy, Willis R. Jones, the answer said the problem as to whether military training should be included in the course of training at the university is a matter which should be determined by the Legislature and not by the Courts.

Wayne L. Lees, of Washington, and Ennis H. Coale, of Churchville, Md., were suspended last fall by Dr. Raymond A. Pearson, president of the University, for refusing to take the compulsory military training course. The suspensions were upheld by the institution's board of regents.

Maryland Asks $15,000 Damages in Auto Crash

Suit for $15,000 damages has been filed in Montgomery County Circuit Court at Rockville by Maryland, for the use of Mrs. Clara Rebecca Nicholson, of Clarksburg, widow of Evan P. Nicholson, State roads commission employe, who was killed in an automobile accident September 12 on the Norbeck-Rockville pike. Raymond J. Davis, Darnestown District, is named defendant.

The complaint, filed by Attorney James H. Pugh, alleges Mr. Nicholson was killed when his parked car was struck by a truck belonging to Mr. Davis. Negligence on the part of Thomas Henry, colored truck driver, is charged.

FOREIGN NEWS IN BRIEF

Havana, Cuba, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Police raided the Cigar Makers Union quarters today, arresting 22 persons and seizing 10,000 proclamations urging a boycott against factories.

Prague, Czechoslovakia, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—President Thomas G. Masaryk was confined to his room today with a slight attack of influenza. Physicians stated his condition was not serious.

Berlin, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Police today withdrew visas and extradited 20 foreign Communists, mostly Czechs and Russians, on the ground that they had indulged in treasonable agitation against Germany. The police president and the political police decided to extradite undesirable aliens after Communists had made frequent attempts to smuggle subversive literature, inspired by foreigners, into the police and the Reichswehr.

Sydney, Australia, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—A film war is in progress between Australian theater owners and American film agencies over the supply of motion picture films for 1933. The theater men are making a determined stand against the American terms, particularly against block booking, and assert that they will close their theaters rather than surrender. In reply the Americans have threatened to cut off the film supply.

Buenos Aires, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—The government of the Province of Buenos Aires today sent to the Legislature a projected bill providing suspension of services on the public debt for three years effective January 1.

Havana, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Three unidentified men fired from an automobile today upon Rafael Castro, a police sergeant, inflicting three wounds. Castro was hurried to a hospital where his condition was said to be grave. Two suspects were arrested.

London, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—The Duke of Gloucester, third son of King George, accompanied by Capt. E. W. Brook, started today for Marseilles, France, en route to the Sudan in North Africa, where he will spend two months hunting.

Brussels, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Prince Leopold, heir to the Belgian throne, accompanied by Princess Astrid, sailed today on an official mission of inspection to the Belgian Congo. The prince's itinerary is a long one, and he is planning to draft a full report of agricultural, industrial and commercial conditions with recommendations.

The Federal Diary

By GEORGE D. RILEY

H. W. DORSEY, chief clerk, Smithsonian Institution, tells this one:

"Nelson R. Wood was bird taxidermist of the Institution. The department occupied the old stable building back of where now stands the Freer Museum. It was the Natural History Laboratory.

Riley

"Mr. Wood had a pet crow, a crow that could and did talk and it repeated every word it heard."

"The crow seemed disappointed when it found itself unable to imitate Mr. Wood's voice if he spoke in heavy bass. The crow's sounds were naturally falsetto.

"'Good morning,' 'Mr. Wood greeted a friend one day, in his deepest voice. The crow's head for the moment was low in a big can, drinking water. 'Good Morning,' echoed the crow, without withdrawing its head. The trick was discovered. The sound was bass as the pitch of its master's voice. And from then on the crow knew the secret of how to make sounds low."

Sometimes it became necessary for Mr. Wood to "spank" the crow. The spanking consisted of throwing wet sawdust at the bird, and it was not relished.

Post-Christmas note from Department of Justice:

Every year the major domo of the Solicitor General's office, Tom Crowther, puts up a Christmas tree in the Solicitor General's office, around which are placed presents exchanged by employes. Many will be surprised to learn that Tom starts and finishes a $50 Christmas fund yearly to make this possible—$4 a month from his own pocket! At 3 o'clock the day before Christmas leave begins many employes come up to view the tree and wish each other a merry Christmas.

This year visitors participated in an added joy when Mr. Crowther presented a purse of $15 and presents to the genial and polite apple-candy-peanut man who each day greets his many customers outside the Department of Justice. Credit for this generous impulse goes to Tom, also. And that's what grand opera does for a man! Tom has excellent taste in music, declaring that Mlle. Jeritza is the Queen of Everything that is Lovely!

Pickup line on Swarmi Fedd and the Paris note—

"The chauffeur threw his gears into reverse and away they went, straight ahead. Now, proceed with this thriller.

Time can not efface the memory of the next few moments in Swarmi Fedd's memory. Perhaps he should open the note and try to pick out a few words here and there, for a lot of our present-day slang has no connection with the French. This he did. Perhaps the chauffeur could help.

Pushing the foot-feed to the floorboards, the chaffeur starting in. His face crimsoned, then blanched. He knew a girl named "Blanch."

Rounding the corner on two wheels, the driver pulled up his emergency, got out, opened the door through which Swarmi smiled, puzzled inquiringly, reached in with all his French vigor, every bit of it, and——

DATE WORTH REMEBERING: Jan. 1, 1825, 1826 and 1827—The United States Treasury had funds in hand to meet all outstanding indebtedness on presentation. This two-year period is the only time the Nation has been out of debt.

HERE'S a story of one Nick who didn't get a break at Christmas, or rather shortly thereafter, December 27, to be exact. The ole Nick we refer to is H. G. Nichols, of the Airways Division, who on the date-mentioned arrived at the Lucky Strike alleys to strut his wares in the annual Yule bowling tournament.

As it was raining Nick conceived the brilliant idea of bringing an extra pair of shoes to bowl with as he concluded that the shoes he was wearing would absorb too much moisture and would therefore be too wet to slide hither and yon on the highly polished alleys. Nick decided to roll a couple of practice games, which he did without changing to the special shoes he had with him. His practice games were 145 and 118 and so greatly impressed the noncombatants that a goodly crowd gathered to watch him when the tournament started.

Against the advice of a friend Nick changed to his specials and the tournament was on. His first game was a snappy 88 and the second a mighty 80. Even with the proof in front of him he refused to change back to the shoes he wore to the alleys. Well, we won't give the rest of his scores. Sufficient to say that it was a very sad occasion for Ole Nick, and we bet he never again changes shoes in a bowling alley, or any other alley. Nick's plight is unlike the old lady who lived in a shoe and had so many children she didn't know what to do.

He had too many shoes.

In case you don't know, Lucy B. Shutts, Internal Revenue, is the wife of "Dick" Shutts . . . The Swarmi just has to put that in because he happened to be present when Lucy made the remark, "I'm too prosaic ever to be mentioned in a column like the Federal Diary," and we must prove that it can be done under any circumstances. But before we forget, Lucy, how about that birthday party you attended over in Virginia? Shall we tell all, or will you admit Swarmi "sees all and knows all?" And Dick, that goes for you, too.

A New Year's story from Johannesburg, via a Government commercial representative:

"Several years ago, there were a large number of American engineers employed by the companies building up the Northern Rhodesian copper properties and, among this collection was one man who had a great love for wild animals and an unusual respect for good American holidays. He had not been in Northern Rhodesia long before he succeeded in securing a baby leopard, which, in response to kind treatment, became a docile and pleasing pet which, even after it had attained full growth, was allowed the run of the house and, among other things, used to bring the meat home from the market and stand guard over the children during their playtimes.

"Several months before the New Year's celebration, our friend decided the festivities should be observed in proper style and he forthwith imported a promising young gobbler from the Union. A special pen was built for the prize and his diet consisted of the most tasteful delicacies. So much time was spent with the turkey that it was common gossip that the wife of the family was contemplating a divorce, but that is pure rumor and I am concerning myself with the truth only. In any event, the turkey prospered exceedingly; he was the pride of his owner, and great plans were laid for the dinner in which he was to play a major part.

"Several days previous to the fatal New Year's our ambitious countryman, upon returning home, was confounded to find his pet leopard lying in the front yard, calmly and complacently finishing off the last few traces of what had been the New Year's turkey. I'm sure you can imagine the exasperation and chagrin which immediately choked the soul of our good friend, and he did only the natural thing. He got hold of that leopard and gave it a very sound thrashing. The animal, seeming to resent such treatment, snarled and ran off into the bush.

"It was with a heavy heart that our friend entered his home, for he realized that the anticipated dinner was now a matter of history. He thought of the people who were coming to partake of the feast, and he realized that they would all be compelled to celebrate over a proletarian piece of beef. He visualized the disappointment of his wife, and squaring his shoulders for the trial, he entered the living room, not to find her, but to discover his own leopard asleep on a davenport."

Three hundred and sixty-five days more of something "around the corner," but what besides that "new deal?" The next pretty weather we're going to try to get a picture of the "new deal." Jokers? Perhaps.

Who'll be first in the New Year to send in a paragraph or two for the Federal Diary?

Members of the reception committee for the National Executive Council, National Federation of Federal Employes, the evening of January 11 were appointed at a meeting of the entertainment committee which met with Mrs. Rebekah K. Pedigo.

The reception committee is composed of officers of the District Federation of Federal Employes Unions and the presidents of Washington locals: John W. Ginder, president District of Columbia Federation of Federal Employes Unions; chairman, William S. Kinney, vice president of federation; William Sanger, secretary-treasurer of the federation; Joseph Stansfield, Local No. 2; Edward L. Scott, Local No. 71; Miss Belle Trouland, Local No. 105; V. M. Johnson, Local No. 250; Thomas McIntyre, Local No. 252; Dr. J. Franklin Meyer, Local No. 260; Miss Gertrude Coyle, Local No. 261; Joseph O. Burnham, Local No. 262; James A. Johnson, Local No. 434; C. H. Fouche, Local No. 436; Martin H. Kinsinger, Local No. 89; H. P. Gooding, Local No. 467.

All locals in Maryland, Virginia, Delaware, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and in the vicinity of New York and Boston are asked to send delegations to the dinner, since the picture of Luther C. Steward, president, will be presented to the National Federation to be hung in the national office. Dr. J. Franklin Meyer, president of the Bureau of Standards local, Victor Lowe and Miss Gertrude M. McNally are members of the committee. The oil painting was made after most locals, N. F. F. E., subscribed to a fund suggested and started by Bureau of Standards local more than a year and a half ago, so that all following presidents of the federation will follow the same course and thus perpetuate their memory.

Prize winners in the Local No. 2 membership committee contest, J. Ernest Brault, chairman, will be announced at the banquet and prizes awarded.

Besides the national executive council, Luther C. Steward, Miss Gertrude M. McNally, John Fitzgerald, Lee R. Whitney, Charles L. Wiegand, John P. Thompson, Dr. Walter P. Taylor, John W. Ross, Ulrey J. Biller, William M. Rapsher and George L. Evans, other distinguished guests will be invited.

"You have supported me 15 years and now you continue to support me," said John H. Newman to his coworkers in Allen Property yesterday morning after they had presented him with a cane and umbrella set as their tokens of esteem. Senator Sutherland, Allen Property Custodian, made the actual presentation. Mr. Newman is retiring from service.

The old tradition that Santa Claus and Christmas are for children only has been broken as far as Luther Ross Hayes is concerned. Ross, by the way, is an Airways draftsman.

For his nephew, 3 years old, he bought an electric train for Christmas. After getting the train home Ross became so interested in the toy that he decided to postpone the gift until New Year's. And every evening the lights in Ross' home burned until well past midnight and you could find Ross on the floor guiding the train through tunnels and over bridges until some of the neighbors have wondered if it might not be well to add a few dolls to the outfit.

Now the boys in Airways are contemplating a donation to buy Ross a special train of his own so that the little nephew can get a break.

Ross likes toys. Don't we all?

Ask Herbert M. Bratter, finance and investment, Commerce, to name a "best seller." It's easy for him. The first edition of 1,500 copies of "World Silver Markets," his own work, distributed by the department, was sold within the first week.

Draw Your Own Conclusions.

"When I knew Bill twenty years ago," said Philip Ebert, General Accounting Office, "he was a proud high school graduate with an ambition to become either a President or Vice President of the United States. My, how he could declaim! He was a crack at geometry, A-1 in history, knew all his regular or irregular verbs in French and he sure could wield a mighty pen.

"Jim, the easy-going, the sleepyhead, was his classmate. Gee! How he could copy, and he'd always pass by the skin of his teeth, too.

"Jim is a United States senator today.

"The nearest approach to Bill's realization of his youthful ambition is to find himself a Government clerk here in the Capital, where the President, the Vice President reside.

DR. REED SUGGESTS ILLNESS INSURANCE

Capital Physician Says That Average Person Lacks Cash to Get Sick.

Cincinnati, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Dr. Louis S. Reed, of Washington, D. C., told the American Statistical Association today that the only way to beat the high cost of illness is to pay the bills first and fall ill after.

The idea is to place a little bet with the doctor and the hospital that you won't be sick, just as the insurance company puts up odds that your house won't burn down within a year. But he didn't elaborate on ways it might be done.

Medical service now is more expensive than ever before, he agreed. He warned that there is little chance of these costs going down.

And in the meantime, "serious illness requiring hospitalization, specialist service, and other adjuncts of modern medical treatment has become a financial catastrophe like fire," he said.

Even in prosperous 1928, he said, the United States Bureau of Labor Statistis reported one-half of the population unable to attain a "health and decency" or "minimum comfort" budget.

It costs, he estimated, about $103 a family a year to adequately pay doctors, nurses and meet hospital fees. And that, he said, is more than the average family usually has about in ready cash year after year.

"Hence, if people are to be able to meet the expense of medical care to the fullest extent that their means permit," he said, "the cost must be placed on an insurance basis."

W. Z. Ripley, of Harvard University, was elected president of the association for 1933; H. L. Moore, of Columbia University, and W. W. Stewart, of New York, vice presidents, and F. S. Deibler, of Northwestern, secretary-treasurer.

Mrs. Ross Indorsed For Cabinet Place

Arlington Clubwomen to Write Roosevelt Note Urging Selection.

Indorsing the name of Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, vice chairman of the national Democratic committee and former Governor of Wyoming, as a member of Roosevelt's Cabinet, the Arlington County Woman's Democratic Club at its meeting yesterday afternoon instructed its secretary to forward a letter to President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt on its action.

Plans were perfected to hold a benefit 500 and bridge party the third Thursday of each month during the coming year. The first of these will be held January 19 at the headquarters at Clarendon. Mrs. Helen Crack is chairman of the committee on arrangements. January 12 the club plans to hold a tacky party, to which all Democrats and their friends are invited. Mrs. Clara Nevin is chairman.

The first business meeting of the new year will be held January 5 at 8 p. m.

Rites Slated Tomorrow For Mrs. J. P. Gill, 88

Funeral services for Mrs. Annie Maria Gill, 88, who died Thursday at her home, 8110 Grove avenue, Silver Spring, Md., will be held from the residence tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Burial will be in Rockville Union Cemetery, Rockville, Md.

Mrs. Gill and her husband, James Perry Gill, 89, celebrated their sixty-third wedding anniversary last November. Surviving are her husband, five daughters, Mrs. John Best and Mrs. Joseph Hewitt, of Silver Spring; Mrs. Lottie Rabbit, Aspen, Md.; Mrs. Edward Mooney, Washington, and Mrs. William Beall, Norbeck, Md., and two sons, Archie Gill, of Silver Spring, and John Gill, of Colesville, Md.

Maryland Dry Officer Arrested in Tag Case

Thomas Bailey, Federal dry investigator for the southern Maryland district, last night was arrested by State Policeman J. R. Duckworth, of the Brandywine substation, on charges of operating a motor vehicle with fictitious markers. The Federal agent was cited to appear before a justice of the peace this morning for trial.

The policeman found that the tags displayed on Bailey's machine did not correspond with the tags issued to the car. Bailey did not say that he was working at the time of his arrest, the policeman said. He did say, however, that he had removed his official tags and substituted Maryland tags.

Bingham Sees Veto Of Philippine Bill

Senator Fears Hurley's and Stimson's Opposition Will Sway Hoover.

(Associated Press.)

A presidential veto for the Philippine independence bill passed Thursday was forecast reluctantly yesterday by Senator Bingham.

The Connecticut Republican, who heads the Senate Territories committee, told newspapermen he feared President Hoover "could not sign the Philippine bill in view of the opposition of Secretaries Hurley and Stimson," but added that he hoped the Chief Executive would.

Bingham expressed the opinion that "if this bill is not made effective, a worse one will be passed next time because of the selfish interests in agriculture."

Mrs. Nicholson Leads Forgotten Woman's Club

Mrs. Jesse W. Nicholson, prominent dry leader, was elected president at the formation of the new Forgotten Woman's Luncheon Club yesterday at a luncheon in the Chevy Chase Club.

Other officers elected were Mrs. Harvey Wiley, vice president; Mrs. F. C. Brinley, secretary; Mrs. George A. Ross, treasurer, and Mrs. William L. Darby, chairman of the arrangements committee. The club will meet again January 27 at the Washington Hotel.

Aimee McPherson Is Better.

Los Angeles, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Reported seriously ill last night, Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton, pastor of Angelus Temple, was said by attendants tonight to be improved. No alarm for her was felt, it was said at the parsonage.

Tut's Secret

Method of Making Purple Gold Solved by Expert at Johns Hopkins.

Atlantic City, N. J., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Discovery of the secret of King Tut-Ankh-Amen's purple gold, a lost art of the goldsmith, was reported to the American Association for the Advancement of Science tonight by Prof. R. W. Wood of Johns Hopkins University.

"The purple gold" was one of the baffling things found years ago in King Tut's tomb. It was a collection of gold sequins, buttons and headdress ornaments covered with a rose purple tint. Its surface was bubbly.

For years scientists disputed whether the tint was a lost art, or only the discoloration of several thousand years burial. Recently some of this gold was sent to Dr. Wood. He found that it was an art—not time. He found that the purple, bubbly gold is produced by a combination of gold, iron, arsenic, red heat and hammering.

DR. HENRY N. RUSSELL HEADS SCIENCE BODY

Princeton Astronomer Is Named President at Convention in Atlantic City.

Atlantic City, N. J., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Dr. Henry Norris Russell, noted astromomer of Princeton University, today was elected president of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Other officers elected were:

General secretary for four years ending 1936, Dr. Burton E. Livingston, biologist of Johns Hopkins University (reelected).

Treasurer for four years ending 1936, John L. Wirt, Carnegie Institution of Washington (reelected).

Permanent secretary for four years ending 1936, Dr. Henry B. Ward, zoologist of the University of Illinois.

Members of the council for four years ending 1936, Dr. George T. Hargitt, zoologist of Duke University; Dr. Dugald C. Jackson, electrical engineer, of Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Members of the executive committee for four years ending 1936: Dr. Edwin B. Wilson, statistician, Harvard University (reelected); Dr. A. F. Woods, director of scientific work, United States Department of Agriculture; for term ending 1934, Dr. Philip Fox, Adler Planetarium, Chicago.

Member board of trustees of Science Service for four years ending 1936, Dr. Burton E. Livingston (reelected).

Prof. John J. Abel, president of the association, has been awarded the first Philip A. Conne medal by the Chemists Club of New York. The medal, which was recently endowed, is to be given once a year by the Chemists Club to an individual responsible for a discovery in chemistry which has proven of value in human medicine.

Justice Dismisses Plea of Importers

Tuna Interests Claim Full Facts Not Presented on Dumping.

Justice Oscar R. Luhring, in District Supreme Court, yesterday dismissed a petition filed by Frederick T. Seggerman, of New York City, who, on behalf of twelve importers of tuna fish, asked that the United States Tariff Commission be restrained from presenting to President Hoover their findings in a recent investigation of alleged tuna fish dumping by Japanese interests.

The complainants said that the investigation had not developed certain salient facts in regard to the cost of the production of the Japanese product and they desired to supplement the findings with additional data.

Through Assistant United States Attorneys John W. Fihelly and John J. Wilson, the Commission sought a dismissal of the petition because the investigation was not yet concluded and could not therefore be the subject of an injunction.

Trio Held in Crash Of Thayer's Auto

Hour After Lookout Flash, Car Is Found and Two Are in Hospital.

Within an hour after police flashed a lookout yesterday afternoon for the stolen automobile of Col. Edwin P. Thayer, secretary of the Senate, the car was found wrecked near Woodridge, Va., with two of its alleged occupants in Alexandria Hospital badly hurt.

Police, after investigating at the scene of the accident, went to the hospital to question two men, who witnesses said were injured in the crash. One of the men said he is Frank Rupp, 47 years old, of Milwaukee, Wis., and the other, who was alleged to have been driving the car, said he is Robert Bowen, son of Judge A. T. Bowen, of Knoxville, Tenn.

Rupp told police he was hitch-hiking to Richmond, Va., when he was picked up by three men in an automobile. A search for the others resulted in arrest of Walter Refinski, 24, of Newark, N. J., near Stafford, Va.

Rev. J. A. Bowman Guest Preacher.

The Rev. John A. Bowman, formerly of this city and now of Waterford, Va., will occupy the pulpit tomorrow at both morning and evening services at Central Presbyterian Church, Fifteenth and Irving streets northwest. "The Upward Look for 1933" will be the subject of the 11 a. m. sermon and "The Father's Promise" is the topic for the 8 p. m. discourse. The Rev. James H. Taylor, pastor of the church, is on vacation in the South.

Taxpayers Will Save $5,044,367.

Lincoln, Nebr., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Nebraska taxpayers will save $5,044,367 in taxes on this year's assessments, compared with 1931. State Tax Commissioner W. H. Smith today said the tax bill for all governmental agencies in Nebraska was $49,588,994, compared with $54,633,362 in 1931, and $58,485,076 in 1930.

Malone (N.Y.) Hotel Man Dies.

Malone, N. Y., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Charles H. Wardner, 79, well-known Adirondack Hotel man, died last night. He was the proprietor of the Lake Clear Inn and had been in the hotel business for 60 years.

DEATH OF DAIRYMAN IN FIRE ACCIDENTAL

J. A. Gude, Prince Georges, Is Victim of Flames as Truck Burns.

A certificate of accidental death was issued yesterday by Dr. George Lewis, Montgomery County coroner, in the death of John A. Gude, 69 years old, well-known Prince Georges County, Md., dairyman. Mr Gude was suffocated by flames from the truck he had been driving yesterday morning at Silver Spring, Md.

Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at St. Paul's Church, Rock Creek Cemetery. Burial will be in Rock Creek Cemetery.

The exact cause of the fire was not determined but police believed that he had been driving without a gasoline tank cap and that the gasoline had saturated the seat cushions which were over the tank and also a battery. It is thought that the battery might have caused the cushions to ignite.

A colored taxicab driver saw Mr. Gude, with his clothes enveloped in flames, jump from the cab of the truck and attempt to beat out the flames. The cabman summoned the fire department. The firemen found Mr. Gude with his clothes still aflame. They extinguished the flames and attempted first aid, but Mr. Gude was dead when a physician arrived.

He is survived by four brothers, George E. Gude, Judson Gude, Thomas Gude, all of Chillum, and Charles Gude, of Bladensburg, Md.; two sisters, Mrs. Sarah Souder and Mrs. Carrie Miller, both of Washington, and his son, Edward. His wife, Mrs. Ida Gude, died about a year ago.

NBC-WMAL SWITCH SEEN AS CERTAINTY

Radio in Education; "The Country Doctor," Phillips Lord, "Adventures of Sherlock Holmes;" Morton Downey and Donald Novis; Howard Thurston, magician; Armour program, Cuckoo program, Boston Symphony Orchestra and "Little Orphan Annie."

Some of the forementioned programs we are already receiving over WRC, but their being broadcast by WMAL will make it possible for WRC to bring in additional WEAF programs, which up to this time the station has not been able to accommodate.

Corporation records show the following to be directors of WMAL: M. A. Leese, Milton Baker, Earl Leese, Norman Leese and Thomas P. Littlepage, sr. It is stipulated in the lease that Mr. Baker, Stanley Bell, the announcer, and several others who have helped build up WMAL will be retained by the National Broadcasting Co.

Price Sets Local Record.

The price, in excess of $300,000, sets a new high mark for Washington stations. WRC is worth more than that, but it is not for sale. It is believed that not more than $50,000 ever has been expended upon WMAL, though Mr. Leese recently paid $10,000 for new studios. The difference between the investment and sales price is attributed to the value of the station's broadcasting frequency or wave length.

The only way to get a good frequency these days is to buy a station which has one, because the supply of frequencies long since has been exhausted. For instance, WOR, of Newark, an independent station, now is said to be priced at around $9,000,000, a large part of which is on account of its valuable frequency. WOR, however, has a clear channel, being the only station on it.

WMAL broadcasting on a frequency of 630 kilocycles uses night-time power of only 250 watts (500 watts daytime) because it is on a Canadian shared channel. Through our agreement with Canada that power can not be increased.

WMAL is also on the same frequency with KFRU, Columbia, Mo.; WOS, Jefferson City, Mo., and WGBF, Evansville, Ind. Nevertheless the WMAL frequency is in a desirable portion of the broadcasting spectrum and is believed to be adequate in serving this territory.

With both networks of the National Broadcasting Co. and full time Columbia programs (over WJSV) Washington will be as well covered, insofar as network programs are concerned, as any city in the country.

kind of products the stores can best sell, the demands of the present market, purchasing agreements with manufacurers, general sales problems and problems presented by the current depression and the competition of other retail chain and local stores.

Starting with the Department of Commerce fifteen years ago, Dr. Klein later left the Government service to serve on the faculty of Harvard University. He went to South America for the school, but before he could return to his work at the university President Hoover, then Secretary of Commerce, asked him to take over the post of chief of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. Later he was appointed Assistant Secretary.

Rum Flavor in U. S. Syrup.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—An alcohol-making bacteria imported from the Barbadoes gives Louisiana cane syrup the "rum flavor" of West Indies syrups. This bacteria was imported by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and success in the scientific experiments with it was reported to the Society of American Bacteriologists today by Lawrence H. James and H. H. Hull.

NEUTRALS MAP PLAN TO END CHACO WAR

New Program Designed to Compel Paraguay to Let Soler Stay.

(Associated Press.)

A thoroughly determined group representing the United States, Mexico, Colombia, Cuba and Uruguay met for three hours yesterday at the State Department and drafted a forceful plan of action to end the Bolivian-Paraguayan warfare in the Chaco, to be invoked should Paraguay today close the door to further direct peace negotiations.

The full force of New and Old World opinion, well-informed observers predicted last night, will be brought to bear on Paraguay if she does not alter her decision to recall her delegate, Dr. Juan Jose Soler, who now is in New York preparing to sail at noon today for Buenos Aires and home.

Plan Kept Secret.

Although Assistant Secretary Francis White, chairman, and members of the neutral commission closely guarded their new plan, entirely contingent upon Dr. Soler's departure, the action was drafted in every detail late yesterday and will become effective automatically today should the Asuncion government fail to reconsider it decision.

The commission's stand to date has received enthusiastic backing from all neutral American governments and the League of Nations which, in its cooperation, has gone even farther than the neutrals by warning Paraguay and Bolivia that by continuing their warfare they violate the league covenant and hinting that sanctions might be invoked should they fail to make peace.

Paraguay Blamed.

The commission last night seemed to feel generally that responsibility for the breakdown of peace negotiations, if Paraguay withdraws, must rest with Paraguay. Invoking all possible diplomatic pressure, the neutrals on three occasions lately have urged the Asuncion government not to withdraw its representative from direct negotiations which have been in progress here since October. The time, they have argued, has come when open discussion with Bolivia is absolutely essential to end the conflict, which has raged almost uninterruptedly since last July.

Al Smith Observes His 59th Birthday

New York Leader Asserts He Feels as Young as He Did at 40.

New York, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Alfred E. Smith, who "never felt better," looked back on 59 years today with the conclusion "I guess I wouldn't change any of it."

"It has been a great life," said the former governor on the occasion of his fifty-ninth birthday, "a full life. I can't pick out the highlights. There are too many. I prefer to remember the whole period as one of service and labor."

Asked how he felt, the genial Smith said just as he felt at 50, or at 40—"I can see no difference."

Serious questions were barred at his brief press interview. He said he had thousands of letters and telegrams from friends all over the world "and cigars to last me three years."

Russian Import Curb To Be Asked in House

(Associated Press.)

A study of legislation designed to prevent the importation of commodities developed through indentured or prison labor in Soviet Russia is to be suggested to the House ways and means committee by Chairman Collier.

The Mississippi Democrat said it probably would be taken up after the committee concludes its study of the Government's revenue problem. Representative Fish, of New York, Republican, who several years ago headed a congressional committee that investigated activities of Communists in this country, is urging the study.

Hines Is Sent Greeting By 1,000 at Hospital

(Associated Press.)

A New Year's greeting signed with a thousand names came to Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, the Veterans' Administrator, from the staff and patients of the Edward Hines, jr., Veterans' Hospital at Chicago. The holiday message assured the general his difficult task was appreciated, and paid him tribute as an administrator.

"Above all you have displayed a spirit of comradeship very dear to us," the greeting said.

Hottest Day in Buenos Aires.

Buenos Aires, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—The hottest day in two summers was recorded here when the temperature reached 101.5 degrees Fahrenheit this afternoon. One case of sunstroke occurred.

DRIVER IS FINED $100 ON OLD SPEED COUNT

Maryland Policeman Nabs Capital Man Following October 6 Offense.

A Maryland State policeman—at least, one of them—never forgets, at least not for three months. As Policeman J. F. Norris proved yesterday in Marlboro police court, when he caused the conviction of Foster P. Snyder, of Washington, of exceeding 60 miles per hour on October 6.

Early in October, Norris told Judge J. Chew Sheriff yesterday, he pursued Snyder for several miles along the Suitland road, but the quarry at last escaped across the District line. This week the policeman saw him again in Maryland, he testified, and arrested him. Snyder paid $100 on the speeding charge, $10 for permitting unlicensed operation of his car and $5 for failing to keep to the right of the center of the road.

James Brown, of Dupont Heights, drew a sentence of eighteen months in the House of Correction for assult and battery on his aunt, Wealthy Lynn. He was held for the grand jury for destroying dishes in the woman's home.

Charles E. Sansbury was fined $100 for driving while drunk on a charge brought by Corpl. W. V. Hunter, of the State police, but appealed the sentence. Sansbury was given a similar fine for a similar offense several months ago, but appealed this first conviction and has never been tried.

Mrs. Jennie Armstrong, 87, Dies at Kensington

Funeral services for Mrs. Jennie Donaldson Armstrong, 87, widow of William S. Donaldson, who died yesterday at her home in Kensington, Md., will be held at the residence, 40 West Baltimore street, at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning. Services will be conducted by the Rev. F. A. Kullmar, pastor of the Warner Memorial Presbyterian Church, assisted by the Rev. James T. Marshall. Burial will be in Arlington National Cemetery at noon.

Mrs. Armstrong had lived at Kensington for the past 27 years. She was a native of Rushville, Ind. She had been an invalid since a stroke of paralysis about twelve years ago. Surviving are her two sons, Harry C. Armstrong and Hugh Armstrong, and a daughter, Miss Ruth Armstrong; a sister, Mrs. Julia A. Stout; four grandchildren and one grandson, all of Kensington.

7 Taken in 2 Raids At Silver Hill, Md.

Raiding two places within a few hundred yards of each other on the Southern Maryland pike at Silver Hill, Md., early yesterday, Federal dry agents arrested seven men on charges of sale and possession of liquor. Each of the men was held in bond of $500 after a hearing before United States Commissioner J. Frank Parran in Marlboro yesterday.

Descending on the Green Oaks, the agents seized five men, including two who were indicted for possession by the county grand jury last fall. These two were Elmer C. Wheatley and Milton Rowe, the others arrested being Bert Richardson, Herman Balderson and Eston Butler. Near a barbecue stand a few hundred yards closer to Washington, Percy Carrick and Clarence McCree were taken into custody. The agents claimed that one of their number bought liquor from McCree several days ago.

Influenza Cases Reach 160 in Prince Georges

One out of every 40 persons in Prince Georges County has had the influenza recently, health officials estimated yesterday as the total number of cases reported mounted to 160. This estimate is based on an assumption that there are ten unreported cases for every one brought to the attention of the public health service.

Yesterday's reports, amounting to 2, was a distinct lessening of the number reported on previous days. Thursday, 20 cases were reported, and Wednesday the health office had a high mark of 49 cases. All those cases brought to the attention of Dr. A. B. Hooton, county health officer, have been mild ones, although occasionally they develop into pneumonia. No deaths directly due to the disease have been reported, and only one indirectly caused by it.

Arlington Still Short On Holiday Seal Sale

Declaring that Arlington County has not subscribed its quota of the Christmas seals, Mrs. Norbert Melnick, county chairman in charge of the sale, yesterday issued an appeal to residents who have not responded to letters sent out containing stamps to do so at once.

"It is our experience," Mrs. Melnick states, "that many men and women who wish to buy the Christmas seals, but who have failed to do so before Christmas, are under the impression that it is too late to mail checks. Contributions may be sent in at any time." Funds derived from the sale of the seals, it is pointed out, are used to help fight tuberculosis in the county.

Mrs. Ella A. Cox Dies In Alexandria Hospital

Mrs. Ella A. Cox, 66 years old, the wife of John B. Cox, of 802 Duke street, Alexandria, Va., died yesterday in the Alexandria Hospital. Besides her husband she is survived by two children, John A. Cox, of Alexandria, and Mrs. W. L. Scruggs, of West Virginia, and a grandson, J. Linwood Scruggs, of Alexandria.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2:30 o'clock, Monday afternoon, from the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, by the Rev. Ernest W. A

BISHOP WILL PREACH NEW YEAR'S SERMON

Special Service Will Be Held in Cathedral at Evensong Hour.

The Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, will be the preacher at the special New Year's service in the great choir and sanctuary of Washington Cathedral tomorrow at 4 p. m.

The service will be conducted by Canon Raymond L. Wolven and choral evensong will be sung by the cathedral choir of men and boys under the direction of Edgar Priest, organist and choirmaster of the cathedral.

An invitation is extended to visitors in Washington as well as residents to attend this special New Year's service in Washington Cathedral tomorrow afternoon.

At the 10:30 a. m. celebration of the Holy Communion and sermon in the great choir and sanctuary of Washington Cathedral tomorrow, Bishop Freeman will deliver the sermon and the Rev. Dr. G. Freeland Peter, canon and chancellor of Washington Cathedral, will be the celebrant.

Holy Communion will be celebrated in Bethlehem Chapel of Washington Cathedral tomorrow at 7:30 a. m.

The usual Sunday pilgrimages to objects of religious devotion and interest within the cathedral close will take place tomorrow at the close of the morning and afternoon services in the great choir and sanctuary. A member of the cathedral staff of clergy will conduct these pilgrimages and all who are interested are invited to participate in them.

Christian Science Churches

"God" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all the Churches of Christ, Scientist, tomorrow. The Golden Text is from Psalms 65:1,2: "Praise waiteth for thee, O God, in Sion: and unto thee shall the vow be performed. O thou that hearest prayer, unto thee shall all flesh come." Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Lord, thou hast been our dwelling place in all generations. Before the mountains were brought forth, or ever thou hadst formed the earth and the world, even from everlasting to everlasting, thou art God" (Psalms 90: 1, 2). The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science Text Book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "God, the divine Principle of man, and man in God's likeness are inseparable, harmonious, and eternal. God and man are not the same, but in the order of divine Science, God and man coexist and are eternal" (page 336).

Church Will Observe Its 90th Anniversary

St. Paul's Lutheran Church, organized in 1843, will observe its ninetieth anniversary, beginning next week. The commemorative services will commence on Friday, January 6, when preparatory service will be held for the holy communion, which will be administered at both morning and evening services on Sunday, January 8.

Other congregational and community meetings, to be announced later, are in charge of Frank E. Cunningham, chairman; Messrs. W. F. Dismer, H. T. Domer, C. E. Haupt, R. M. Hickman and Dr. Henry W. Snyder.

Resolutions Is Topic Of Dr. Hutchinson

Dr. Forney Hutchinson will preach at Mount Vernon Place M. E. Church South tomorrow morning, using the text "New Year's Resolutions." "Taking Stock" will be his text at the evening service. The sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be at both services.

A meeting of the church school council will be held at 8 o'clock Tuesday night. Barber C. Palmer, superintendent of the church school activities, will preside. The board of stewards will have its monthly meeting Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. The finance committee will meet at 7 o'clock on the same evening.

Dr. Sizoo Will Interpret Happenings in Past Year

At the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church tomorrow morning Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo will preach on "The Quest for God." Immediately preceding this service, at 10 o'clock, Dr. Sizoo will broadcast a New Year message over Station WJSV. He will be assisted in this service by the quartet of the New York Avenue Church, under the direction of Paul W. Fishbaugh.

It is the cousin of Dr. Sizoo to preach on the last Sunday evening of each year a sermon dealing with the issues of the year that has passed, in the light of Christian faith. Tomorrow evening, in keeping with that custom, Dr. Sizoo will preach on "The Religious Significance of the Events of 1932." This sermon will be a religious interpretation of those things through which the world has lived during the past twelve months.

The Young People's Society for Christian Endeavor will entertain at tea in Parish Hall No. 2 this evening at 6 o'clock. Following the tea, Ernest Hanie will lead a discussion of the topic, "Facing Life Gallantly."

The members and friends of the congregation are invited to an at home in the church in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Sizoo and Dr. and Mrs. Evans on Monday, from 4 to 6 o'clock. Miss Clara McQuown and Mrs. Lewis T Breuninger are in charge of this tea, which is being sponsored by the Women's Guild of the church.

The Goodpasture Bible Class will be entertained at its annual Christmas party on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. C. O. Goodpasture.

Dr. Pierce Lists Sermon Series

'Things That Can Not Fail' Theme of January Discourses.

A series of sermons on "The Things That Can Not Fail" has been arranged by Ulysses G. B. Pierce, minister of All Souls' Unitarian Church, Sixteenth and Harvard streets, for January. The series was inspired by the quotation: "Where the anchors that faith has cast are dragging in the gale, we are quietly holding fast to the things that can not fail."

The various subjects are as follows: January 1, "The Door That Can Not Be Shut;" January 8, "The Changeless Law of Change;" January 15, "The Abiding Bible;" January 22, "The Unconquerable Soul of Man," and January 29, "Religion—Going or Coming?"

In the afternoon at 5 o'clock Lewis Corning Atwater, organist, will play a half-hour program of Cesar Franck music. This will be followed by a book chat at 5:30 on "Albert the Good," by Mrs. Robert H. C. Kelton. The feature at the motion picture hour in Pierce Hall at 7:30 will be "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm."

Communion Tomorrow By Super Mind Science

Prof. William Espe Estep, founder of the Super Mind Churches, will give the first divine mind communion to new members tomorrow at 1 o'clock. This service is based on the Brahamanic initiation of India as applied to Christian principles. Super Mind Science teaches that Jesus communed with His disciples when he appeared after the crucifixion. Therefore communion is a spiritual experience. Following the communion at 3 p. m. will be a special service, open to the public, subject, "Christ Consciousness." At 8 o'clock, "Healing Miracles of Jesus." Public lectures will be held all the coming week at 8 p. m., including Friday, at the Burlington Hotel, 1120 Vermont avenue.

Bargaining With God Epworth Sermon Topic

"Bargaining With God" will be the subject of the sermon of Dr. John C. Copenhaver, pastor of Epworth Methodist Episcopal Church, South, Thirteenth street and North Carolina avenue northeast, tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock, after which the observance of the Lord's Supper will be held. For the 8 o'clock service tomorrow evening Dr. Copenhaver will take as his sermon subject, "Working While It Is Day."

Concordia Church Plans Centenary

Exercises Will Begin on Jan. 17; Former Pastors to Take Part.

On January 17 Concordia Lutheran Evangelical Church, Twentieth and G streets northwest, will be 100 years old. Plans are being made to devote the entire week of January 15 to 22 to the celebrating of the anniversary.

The living former pastors of the church have been invited to participate. These are the Rev. Louis Schneider (1882-1888), the Rev. Ernst Drewitz (1890-1896), the Rev. Dr. P. A. Menzel (1896-1919), and the Rev. Dr. C. W. Locher (1919-1924). All but Dr. Menzel will take part in the celebration. Dr. Menzel must take a lengthy vacation because of his health, and will be absent from Washington at the time of the anniversary. Special musical preparations are being made. A greatly enlarged choir of about 75 voices will sing "The Messiah," accompanied by Christiani's Orchestra.

A New Year's Eve service will be held tonight at 8:30 p. m. This will be followed by a watch-night party.

On New Year's the usual Sunday morning services will be held: Bible School at 9:45 a. m., German service at 10 a. m. and the English service at 11:15 a. m. There will be no evening service tomorrow.

Hamline Church Will Celebrate

Bishop Hughes Will Preach at Seventh Anniversary of Building.

The seventh anniversary of the dedication of the present edifice of Hamline Methodist Episcopal Church will be observed tomorrow. At the 11 o'clock service Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes will be the preacher. The Rev. Dr. Benjamin W. Meeks, superintendent of the Washington district, will participate in the program. A vesper service will be held from 5 to 6 o'clock. The program will be largely one of special music. A brief anniversary address will be delivered by the minister, the Rev. Dr. H. W. Burgan. At the conclusion of this service the ladies of Hamline Church will be "at home" to the members and friends of the church from 6 to 7:45 o'clock.

The present church building was dedicated by Bishop William F. McDowell January 3, 1926, during the pastorate of Dr. Joseph T. Herson. Drs. Chesteen Smith and H. W. Burgan have been pastors since.

Perkins' Sermon Topic Is "Things That Abide"

"Things That Abide" is the theme of the New Year's sermon of Dr. Frederic W. Perkins, minister of the Universalist National Memorial Church, Sixteenth and S streets. In connection with the morning service at 11 o'clock there will be a communion service following the sermon. The church school will meet at 10:15, except the adult class, which will meet after the service at 12:15.

On Tuesday evening at the meeting of the Optimist Club, Frank Davis will give an illustrated talk on "The Construction of the Empire State Building." On Wednesday at 10 o'clock the women of the church will meet in the parish house to sew for the Red Cross. This is an all-day meeting. The January meeting of the board of management will be on Thursday, at 8 o'clock.

Education and India Adult Forum Theme

Ranging in interest from a discussion of education beyond the high school to a consideration of economic and social conditions in India, the January program of the Adult Forum of the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church, announced yesterday, includes addresses by five leaders in their respective subjects.

At the opening discussion of the new year tomorrow, Dr. Theodore H. Wilson, president of the National Park Seminary, will speak on "The New Conception of Education Beyond the High School," and lead the discussion following his address.

CARBON TETRACHLORIDE POISONING.

DR. L. W. MAGUIRE tells of an outbreak of carbon tetrachloride poisoning that may be cause for reflection among many people far removed in every way.

A felt manufacturing concern was accustomed to have their employes remove grease spots from felt by somewhat the same methods that you and I remove spots from clothing. Some efficiency expert showed them a better way. It consisted in putting the fat into vats of a warm mixture, of which one-third was carbon tetrachloride.

The men doing this work were some twenty-five or more wine-drinking Italians. Within a few days at least two dozen of the employes were sick with symptoms of carbon tetrachloride poisoning. The men eventually recovered, although they remained jaundiced for two to four months after other symptoms had subsided. The illness threatened life, was very uncomfortable and grave for some days, and, after that, caused some incapacity for several months. The change of method proved very expensive for these felt manufacturers.

Carbon tetrachloride is in general use. It is one of the most popular worm medicines in use today, being given extensively for hook worm and somewhat for other varieties of intestinal parasites. It is one of the most popular spot removers for clothing. A can of it is found on the shelves in nearly every home. Most of the containers found hanging on walls and labeled "fire extinguishers" are filled with carbon tetrachloride and it is used as a solvent in many industries.

It is scarcely necessary to say that it could never have attained its present popularity had it not been reasonably safe when properly used. As a worm medicine it is safe enough when given in the usual doses in the customary way. It should not be given to chronic alcoholics, nor should it be given in combination with alcohol and some other chemicals. It should not be permitted to remain unduly long in the digestive tract. It is one of the best worm medicines, but it is not foolproof. It should not be used as a fire extinguisher on a hot fire in a closed place. When thrown on a hot fire it begets phospene, chlorine and other very poisonous gases.

When it is used to remove grease spots from clothing the room in which it is used must be ventilated enough to permit the fumes to escape. Even in this field it is not foolproof. There are two conditions of the human body that increase the hazard of carbon tetrachloride poisoning. One is the use alcoholic beverages and the other is deficiency of lime. If a person is suffering from jaundice, nausea and vomiting of blood, other symptoms of this poisoning, lime should be gotten into him. Physicians inject a solution of chloride of calcium into the blood stream. If the stomach will permit, calcium lactate and various other lime salts are given, and the diet contains milk and other lime foods.

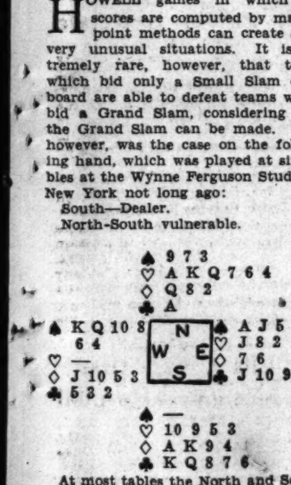
A BIDDING PARADOX.

HOWELL games in which the scores are computed by match-point methods can create some very unusual situations. It is extremely rare, however, that teams which bid only a Small Slam on a board are able to defeat teams which bid a Grand Slam, considering that the Grand Slam can be made. This, however, was the case on the following hand, which was played at six tables at the Wynne Ferguson Studio in New York not long ago:

South—Dealer.
North-South vulnerable.



At most tables the North and South teams stopped at six hearts and made seven. The bidding in most cases went:

South	West	North	East
1♣	Pass	2♡	Pass
3◇	Pass	3♡	Pass
6♡	Pass	Pass	Pass

The Grand Slam is almost impossible to reach on account of the danger of duplication. South does not dare bid the Grand Slam for fear that his partner holds the Ace of spades and not the Ace of clubs. North, on the other hand, has no way of being certain that his partner is blank in spades. The only way in which seven can be bid is through the use of a cue bid in spades, provided this suit is mentioned by the adversaries.

At several tables West overcalled with a spade, which actually is a good bid on account of the strength of the suit and the void in hearts. The bidding now proceeded naturally, except that South was enabled to insert a bid of three spades. This now made the Grand Slam a practical certainty from North's standpoint and so at three tables this bid was blithely made. In all cases, however, it was overcalled with seven spades, which was doubled and defeated only 1,000 points. The three teams who bid seven, therefore, received bottom, as the people with whom they were competing had bid only six and made seven, scoring 1010 on the board.

While this might be considered somewhat unfair, it must be remembered that the East and West pairs who defended deserved a better score than those who did not, as they made use of the defensive tactics at their command. Even so, it seems a little unfortunate to be penalized for reaching a Grand Slam.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

I HATE aprons! (so I always said.)

I didn't ever need an apron! (ditto.)

And ennyhow, if I did make something for the gang to eat when we came home from the theater, or in the wee, small horrr-r-r-r-ros of the morning right-on-us, not after, well, if I should, I wouldn't spill things anyhow.

But, strange to say, when some misguided (so I said) soul gave me a really smart little apron affair—I wore it to shreds!

Incidentally, if you would like to make that real onion soup—than which any one who has ever tasted it in Paree on a co-o-o-o-old morning can not live without nor even get in any of the so-called French restaurants—well, if you would like to make it, I'll tell you exactly how some day.

Well, back to aprons. They are definitely useful and something that even the most be-maided lady should have. And, oddly enough, they are quite delightful things, too—the men always think a woman with a little apron put hastily on over whatever she is wearing, be it a house dress or an evening dress, is adorable!

Think about getting or making a few really cunning ones, then, for your odd moments when you could use one or two.

* * * *

Just to prove to you that an apron can be a cunning thing and make its wearer look adorable, I have made you a leaflet of several different apron designs, with the detailed instructions for making them. They are chic and new, smart and practical, and don't look the latter! And easy to make, once you have the idea from the leflet. . . . so why not send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the leaflet? You can surely use it some day! Or just turn it over to your dressmaker or maid, if you aren't in a sewing mood—they will find useful ideas in it, I am sure.

The Dah-ray Scrapbook.

Now, here's a good New Year's resolution. You know very well that there are lots 'n' lots of little things you read from time to time in the Dah-ray collom—dresses you see sketched that you would like to have copied, maybe, ideas for this or that, and leaflets 'n' all. And you know that you would like to have all these things—but that somehow or other, despite all your precautions, they just seem to get thrown out—the newspapers, I mean.

So why not resolve to start a Dahray Scrapbook the first of the year? And to clip out all the things you see when you see them, even if you stick 'em into the scrapbook and don't paste them in until some fine day when you paste in a month's worth? That would assure you of having what you wanted, when you wanted it. And think, too, that you could send for the leaflet every week, whether you wanted that particular leaflet or not, and paste this in—and there it would exactly be when you wanted an idea for making something!

Buy the scrapbook at any stationer's, or make it yourself out of white shelf paper which you can buy in a big roll for 10 cents, cut into double sheets like this newspaper is printed, and clip twice or three times down the center.

Resolve to do this—you won't be sorry!

Au revoir!

What Today Means

"CAPRICORN."

IF December 31 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:15 a. m. to 11:30 a. m., from 1 p. m. to 2 p. m. and from 6 p. m. to 7:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:30 a. m. to 8:45 a. m. and again from 4 p .m. to 4:45 p. m.

Influences operating on this December 31 will tend to throw obstacles in your path. You will have great difficulty getting things done. People will be difficult to handle. Salesmen will encounter much obstinacy from prospective buyers. New contacts made on this date will prove of little value. Harmony at home.

The child born on this December 31 will be a husky little one, full of fun and play; one who likes a rough house and lots of physical activity. Not a student. Will enjoy working with his hands, fond of the outdoors. The child will have many pets in the animal world and will enjoy caring for them. The child will like being read to.

Born on December 31 you probably lack consistency and persistency. From one minute to the next no one, including yourself, knows what to expect from you. You take a stand on some matter, only to reverse it in a short time; you start in on some kind of work, only to "chuck" it within a short time. You will not get far in life, for you are eternally running around in circles. You are an amiable person, and amusing. You have many friends who are attracted by your care-free existence and erratic ways.

If December 31 is your birthday, you will probably travel a good deal. You are content to live in the present, with no thought for the future, and certainly no worry about it. You have extravagant tastes, and throw money away foolishly when you have it. Money comes easily and quickly to you on occasions; you have frequent periods of alternating lack and abundance. You are very careful in your dress. If you are a woman, you are not a good housekeeper; you are inclined to be careless and untidy. You do not like to cook. As a mother, you are careless in bringing up your offspring. You are not particularly interested in them. There is more than a little jealousy in your makeup.

Successful people born on December 31:

Joseph G. Swift, soldier and engineer.
Pliny Earle, physician and author.
George G. Meade, soldier.
Alexander Winchell, scientist.
John R. Sweney, composer.
Gen. Tasker H. Bliss, general, United States Army.

GOOD RIDDANCE TO 1932.

The world bids adieu to the year 1932 with feelings of relief. It has been a year of disappointments and frustrations, increasing distress, and estrangement among nations. The gears that formerly seemed to keep production and consumption in harmony were "stripped" in 1932, and the dislocation adversely affected every nation and every individual.

In his message a year ago President Hoover expressed hope that the disarmament conference to convene on Feb. 2, 1932, would be successful. This hope was blasted. The conference failed to reduce either armies or navies, and during the year the nations of Europe increased their expenditures for war purposes.

Toward the end of the year, coincident with the refusal to reduce armaments, the nations owing debts to the United States made a determined effort to evade payment of installments due on Dec. 15. Several of them, including France, refused to pay. Great Britain paid, but gave notice that this payment would be the last under the existing agreement.

The commission appointed by the League of Nations to inquire into the Manchurian situation rendered a report constituting an indictment of Japan. But Japan persisted in its policy of conquest in Asia, despite domestic economic reverses, and the year ends with war clouds hanging low over Asia. China and Soviet Russia have resumed diplomatic relations and are believed to have reached an understanding which may lead to an alliance in certain contingencies.

America's disordered economic system intensified public discontent during 1932, culminating in the defeat of President Hoover and the election of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt by an enormous majority. The Democratic party gained large majorities in the Senate and House. Throughout the campaign it became evident that almost every individual in the United States had a remedy for the depression, and that no man or party possessed the real secret. A more confused, incoherent, discordant chorus was never raised than that of the campaign of 1932. The result of the election was hailed, however, as a radical change, and on the theory that "things could not be worse" the new deal was welcomed.

The stress of hard times constrained Republicans to offer to co-operate with the new administration in seeking relief for the people. President Hoover voiced this general desire for co-operation by asking President-elect Roosevelt to share with him in preparing for the world economic conference, and the proposed conferences for revision of war debts. Gov. Roosevelt found that it would be impracticable to assume responsibility before acquiring authority, although he expressed approval of the preparatory steps and willingness to receive information and suggestions after taking office. The result of the failure of the two executives to agree upon a continuing program is to reduce activities under the Hoover regime to the gathering of information, which will be placed at the disposal of the new President on March 4.

Congress met in the last month of 1932 and decided that the most important problems before the country were the repeal of the eighteenth amendment, the enactment of legislation providing for stronger beer, and the denial of the American market to Philippine products. On the first day of the session the House voted on a repeal resolution, which was defeated. A beer bill was passed by the House and temporarily pigeonholed by the Senate. Under the pretense of granting independence to the Philippines, a bill was passed which, if it should become law, will exclude Filipinos from this country and cut down Philippine imports competing with American products.

Futility, inability to grapple with fundamental problems, political maneuvering rather than patriotic common action—these are the characteristics of the Congress that will expire on March 4. Public opinion is wearied and cynical. Theorists and publicity seekers are reveling in fantastic schemes for the reorganization of society. Secretary Chapin of the Department of Commerce cheerfully declares that "there is a keener receptivity to soundly constructive proposals." The public would like to agree with him, but it does not. No sound constructive proposals have emerged in Congress. The year ends in disappointment. But at least it has come to an end, and good riddance. Americans look to 1933 with chastened optimism, but nevertheless with relief and hope.

A DIFFICULT TASK.

When President Hoover suggested, about a year ago, that he be given authority to reorganize the Government service, leaders in the House of Representatives ignored his advice. They were unwilling to surrender any such prerogatives to the Executive. Only when the House's economy program failed and Congress faced the urgent necessity of reducing expenditures to avoid continuation of a tremendous deficit did the House leaders compromise. They voted to give the President authority to reorganize bureaus and commissions, subject to the veto of either branch of Congress. Mr. Hoover has acted under that authority, and his plan now is before Congress.

The House leaders are now enthusiastic over presidential reorganization of the Government service and are planning to give unlimited authority to the Executive so that President-elect Roosevelt may effect further changes.

Two principal reasons why the leaders in Congress are willing to let Gov. Roosevelt undertake this job are apparent. First, Congress is not able to effect satisfactory reorganization because of the political pressure that is brought to bear upon each member. Second, congressional leaders face the dilemma of enacting new taxes or of reducing expenditures. If President-elect Roosevelt is willing to take responsibility for balancing the budget in this manner, they see no reason why the buck should not be passed to him.

The proposed reorganization is brought forward at this time because Gov. Roosevelt's opposition has killed the sales tax and there is need to offer hope that the budget will be balanced in some other way. Apparently plans to raise more revenue are to be abandoned in favor of the reorganization scheme. But the budget can not be balanced in this way. Even if Gov. Roosevelt should effect widespread consolidations and eliminate many bureaus and commissions, the savings would not be large. Moreover, any savings brought about in this way might not be effective for several years. It is easy to shift bureaus and functions, but to weed out unnecessary employes and actually trim down the expenditures of the consolidated agencies is a gigantic task.

It is a thankless job which the House leaders offer to Gov. Roosevelt. Just at the time when hungry Democrats will be swarming through the Capital looking for jobs he will be abolishing positions which the faithful hope to obtain through Chairman Farley, of the Democratic national committee.

Government reorganization can best be accomplished by allowing President Hoover's orders to stand. If they do not meet with approval of the next administration, changes can be made under the present law. The President-elect will doubtless appreciate any advance that has been made along this line as a means of easing the onerous task he has undertaken. If Congress should upset the Hoover plan, its action will merely increase the burdens of the new President.

AIDING AMERICAN SHIPS.

Chairman O'Connor, of the United States Shipping Board, does well to refute the charges of British interests that this Government is "dumping shipping services on the world market". Great Britain would like to see the United States lay up its vessels and depend upon British merchantmen to carry on its overseas commerce. The accusations to which Mr. O'Connor refers are merely an outburst of indignation because the United States has undertaken to build a merchant marine of its own.

It is true, of course, that American ships could not operate at a profit without the ocean mail contracts awarded them by the Government. Materials that go into ships cost more in this country than in England, and labor is paid higher wages. Is that any reason why the United States should withdraw from the field of shipping? American export trade exceeds that of any other nation. A strong merchant marine is necessary to maintain, promote and protect that trade. The United States can not be influenced to curtail its shipping service merely because of Great Britain's ambition to continue dominating the high seas.

Subsidies paid to American shipping companies in the form of mail contracts are designed merely to equalize competitive conditions between American and foreign ships. Vessels under the American flag have not resorted to rate cutting or unfair practices. For the most part rates are determined by mutual agreement among the competing lines. It is absurd to use the word "dumping" in connection with the attempt of the United States to build up its own fleet of vessels to handle part of its own commerce and tourist travel.

European interests also resent the American tariff and immigration laws. But that does not in any way change the determination of the American people to protect their industries and their workingmen. Economic barriers are absolutely necessary to preserve the higher standard of living that prevails in the United States. Shipping lines that come into competition with foreign vessels must be encouraged to uphold American standards. The American people do not intend to lower their wages, their working conditions and standards of living to the levels prevailing in Europe. And they do not intend to surrender the American market, American jobs, or the transportation of American commerce on the high seas. Propaganda aimed against this practice of self-protection is a waste of time.

SOUTH AFRICA OFF GOLD.

The news that the Union of South Africa had suspended gold payments came as a distinct surprise to those who were not aware of the continued drain of gold from the reserve bank, which had been going on for some time. It seemed paradoxical that the country which is today producing half the world's output of gold should abandon the gold standard, but when seventy South African pounds would buy 100 pounds sterling and corresponding amounts of other depreciated currencies, it was inevitable that there should be large withdrawals of African gold for the purchase of foreign exchange.

Placing an embargo on the export of gold and relieving the reserve bank of the responsibility of redeeming notes in gold was exactly the action taken by Great Britain, yet the South African authorities are for the moment keeping up the fiction that they have not really abandoned the gold standard—a regulated gold exchange basis, it is called. Expert observers, however, do not believe the Union will undertake the doubtful expediency of pegging inconvertible paper currency, which undoubtedly would cause heavy treasury losses. It seems much more likely that the African pound will before long be conveniently linked to sterling.

The evident rejoicing with which the action of South Africa was received in London arouses conjectures as to whether the recent intimations of an early return to the gold standard by Great Britain were entirely sincere. There was some resentment in London that South Africa did not follow London last year. The present action at Cape Town, whatever the future action of Great Britain may be, will redound to the benefit of the latter.

Comment in Paris over this latest development does not hesitate to accuse British finance of plans to regain its dominance of world finance through the currencies that today are not linked with gold. Only five nations now remain on the gold standard. One French paper says that "when currencies meet at the world economic conference bad money will dictate its will to money which, being gold, thought itself good." New York comment has so far been very reserved. Trading in South African exchange has been suspended. With the abandonment of gold redemption there will be an inevitable decline, and if the South African pound is not to be tied to sterling it will seek its own level. The first effect of the decree has been to paralyze business transactions in South Africa and suspend dealings in the country's exchange throughout the world until a new valuation is established.

Several plausible gentlemen intimate that they are assisting Gov. Roosevelt to take over the Government, but they can't produce union cards.

Congress seems to enjoy having its mind made up for it afresh every morning by the unknown spokesmen at Albany.

Not even technicians and college professors can prevent the United States from recovering.

Peru and Colombia have decided to celebrate the New Year by starting a brand-new war.

If young 1933 has any sense he will profit by the horrible object lesson of 1932.

THE ATHENIAN COMEDY

From the Chicago Tribune.

The Greek government has refused to permit the American Government to take Samuel Insull back to the United States for trial as an embezzler. The Greek court which considered the case said that Mr. Insull, far from embezzling anything, had acted in the interest of those who had invested their money in his enterprises. Indeed, said the court, the charges against Insull do not constitute the crime of embezzlement and larceny in Illinois, for have we not the sworn statement of a judge of the Illinois Supreme Court [former Justice Floyd Thompson] to assure us that this is so?

The proceeding was almost as absurd as the reasoning. The Greek court tried Mr. Insull for the crime of embezzlement and without the presentation of the evidence for the prosecution found him not guilty. The Greek judges went further. They also acted as an appellate court examining the sufficiency of the indictment and decided, on the testimony of a former judge, who is now a lawyer associated with the defense, that the indictment was insufficient to hold the prisoner.

Needless to say, this comic opera acquittal has not served to quiet Mr. Insull's enemies, and we should be astonished if it gave any satisfaction to his friends. His enemies will mention Frank Smith and snicker. His friends, we should guess, will find nothing in the proceeding to hearten them.

Mr. Insull said after his flight from Paris that he would resist extradition until all danger of political persecution was passed. That day has come. The election is over. The present State's attorney of Cook County will not be a candidate for office now for four years. Mr. Insull's continued absence from the United States as a fugitive from justice can not be interpreted here as anything but a confession of guilt. The Greek court has acquitted him without hearing the evidence, but unless he returns to Chicago at once Mr. Insull will have convicted himself at the bar of public opinion.

His New Year's Turkey.

The President was a long time getting into deep water. Congress accomplished it without leaving the Capital.

If the Virgin Islands' request to be exempted from national prohibition is granted some States will be seceding from the Volstead act.

A check-up would show that income taxes or sales taxes which would balance the budget would today be paid by the same people. The advantage of the sales tax is that it takes a little every day instead of in several big lumps.

"Al Smith observed his fifty-ninth birthday quietly." It might have relieved the tension if he had blown up in the good old-fashioned way.

Most of the stabilized dollar movements get stalled for lack of horse sense.

The majority holding of committee chairmanships by Southern representatives seems to be working, if somewhat paradoxically, for the election of Mr. Rainey, of Illinois, as Speaker.

France is wondering how she can make that loan to Austria under English rules.

The difference between our incoming Government and the parliamentary system appears to be that Congress will be asking the President for a vote of confidence and permission to handle some things.

Old-fashioned governors in session at Memphis propose a 50 per cent reduction in the cotton crop to bolster the price. Don't they know that it is soon going to be done with mirrors and magic?

A lot of folks wonder how they came to put the OK and Alfalfa Bill both in Oklahoma.

Possibly the blanket authority proposed for the President-elect only means that he will provide covering for the commissions left out in the cold.

The urgency of several matters before Congress is so apparent that they probably will be attended to at the next session next year.

We ought to feel better today. Representative Vinson, who has been investigating, says the estimate of all United States taxes has been about five billions too high.

The Senate judiciary committee is running the risk of spontaneous combustion of Borah if he doesn't get a chance at that beer bill soon.

A veto in advance by horrifics is something new, but it seems to be effective.

Dead! Old Nineteen thirty-two is dead!
Parson, will you speak for him?
"Please ask another man instead.
Our people thought him rather grim."

Old Nineteen thirty-two passed on,
Will you good friend his praises speak?
"I'm sorry, but I shall be gone
From town for nearly all the week."

Dominie, Nineteen thirty-two
Is dead, will you his rites attend?
"He was a man I scarcely knew,
I wish you'd ask some closer friend."

What by the living shall be said?
One word is quite sufficient:

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY dear Louise: Do you know what started the beret vogue?

Well, a popular young actress in Paris, having tired of her South American lover, slipped away to a little-known fishing village for a vacation.

The South American discovered her hiding place, trailed her to a rented cottage, and there found her in the arms of another lover—a handsome young fisherman.

The usual fight followed and the actress fled in the midst of it, snatching garments here and there on her way out. The headgear she picked up happened to be the fisherman's beret.

She wore it next day in court and the effect was so jaunty and chic that a new fad was born.

I might add that most of the new fads are created by European women of that class—kept women who wouldn't be admitted to decent society in America, even in these "broad-minded" times.

I don't mean to intimate that you should scorn a beret because the wrong kind of woman made it a vogue, but I do wish to remind you that there is danger in following the crowd unless you are sure it's the right crowd.

Popular music or popular books may be good or bad, depending largely on the kind of people they are popular with.

If you adopt a new custom or practice because you like it, I can have no quarrel with anything except your taste.

But if you wish to copy a custom because "everybody is doing it," it becomes my duty to ask you: "Who is this everybody?"

When somebody tells you that all girls now drink and pet, you can answer truthfully: "All girls of that class."

There are fine people in America still. You don't hear much about them because they aren't noisy or intentionally conspicuous. But they are here, and they are part of the "everybody" that makes custom.

These fine people—Anne Morrow Lindbergh is typical of the class—have no part in the gin-drinking, carousing vulgarity that some people call the "new freedom of youth." They are modern, but theirs is the modernity of Tiffany's—not of the dime store.

Since you are feminine, I know you will follow the style wherever it leads; but if you must be a slave, why not pick the best of masters. Love,

DAD.

POLITICAL COMMENT

Gen. Lord's Great Work.

Rockland (Me.) Courier-Gazette.

Discussing the budget in respect of the Federal deficit of the past two years, Time, that somewhat flippant weekly publication, says:

"For months President Hoover and James Clawson Roop, his budget director, had been whittling and pruning at Federal expenses in an unsuccessful effort to level up outgo and income without resorting to new taxation. Director Roop, a large, round-faced man, through whose tight lips passes nothing but a pipe stem, practices none of the noisy drama of the first occupant of his office (Charles Gates Dawes) or the publicized penny-pinching of the second (the late Herbert Mayhew Lord)."

We resent the writer's sneer at Gen. Lord's administration of the office. When, succeeding Gen. Dawes, at that official's recommendation and request, Lord was placed at its head the bureau was faced with the national debt of $26,000,000,000. For eight years Gen. Lord fought to carry out the President's orders and the country's wishes to have the tremendous burden reduced, and at the end of that period the bureau had so fulfilled the task that $10,000,000,000 had been lifted from the shoulders of taxpayers, together with the yearly payment of interest upon that colossal sum. Then Lord resigned, worn out with the herculean task, and soon died, as certainly a martyr to his country as though his death had taken place on the field of battle. Publicized penny-pinching forsooth! Would that some more Herbert Mayhew Lords might be set up in these governmental positions.

Predictions in some of the newspapers recently that Owen D. Young and M. A. Traylor would be offered positions in the Roosevelt Cabinet were answered with apparently inspired statements from those gentlemen that their business duties would not permit them to accept any of the portfolios the President-elect will distribute shortly.

This suggests the possibility that the President-elect will find fewer outstanding business men willing to enter his Cabinet than would be the case under ordinary circumstances. A great many men of that type, who are qualified to render valuable service as aids to the incoming President, just now feel that they can not neglect their private interests to engage in public service.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Wheat and Barley, Cracked and Cooked, Make Good Meal at 1 Cent Per Person.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: With a strong desire to aid in rendering relief to needy people, I offer the following "hard-times menu:"

Half pound wheat, lightly parched and cracked into four to six pieces to each kernel; boil in just enough water, not too stiff and not thin enough to require straining. Salt and sweeten to taste. Makes a full meal, nutritious and tasty, both satisfying and gratifying and, when served with cream and sugar, is a delicacy.

Quarter pound barley, parched and cracked as above. Was the favorite substitute for coffee during the last half of the War of the Rebellion and used by millions of people, when a medium grade of coffee cost $1.50 a pound, and hard to obtain at that.

Half pound of wheat and quarter pound of barley, sugar and salt, total cost 1 cent, will furnish a well-balanced meal per person.

No need to let your children go hungry.

Europe Would Gladly Hail Uncle Sam as a Sucker for Canceling Debts.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I am deeply impressed by the effort being made to relieve Europe of her honest burden and the apparent desire to saddle it on our children.

These obligations, accepted and agreed upon in conference as fully sustained debts and thoroughly equitable, should be paid. I am of the opinion that, if we should cancel these debts, we should get three rousing cheers from England, a grunt from France, and the raspberry from them all as they drank to the health of the "Great Modern Sucker Nation."

I plead guilty of being one of those "small Americans" who, after long observation, think more of the Washingtonian theory that does of the pock-marked parlor ideals of our alien-American slush-mongers with their sickly sentimental internationalisms. Talk of our foreign trade is a sample. Our European trade amounts to 10 per cent of our total trade, which means that always we do 90 per cent of our business right here at home. Let's debunk the debt issue and talk facts. One would think, from certain arguments, that our whole future depends on Old World trade. Pure bunk—we can get along without them. Stop dealing with them for a while and see how they enjoy operating empty hotels, &c.

Banks of Canada Not Allowed to Loan on Real Estate, and There Are No Failures.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Several times I have heard the statement that 4,800 banks in this country have closed their doors, while Canada has had but one failure since 1916.

For a week I have been in Ottawa, the national capital of Canada. I chanced upon an accountant for one of the larger Canadian firms, who informed me that "the banks of Canada are not permitted to loan their funds on real estate securities, such loans being made through loan companies, while the American banks are loaded with mortgages, with real estate at the present an undesirable possession."

Hence, it appears that Frank A. Vanderlip, former president of the National City Bank, of New York, knew whereof he spoke when he said: "One may well have a certain amount of cynicism regarding the prospects of our political leaders wisely remodeling our banking system, or revamping our investment business, so that we may again use the term 'securities' without putting it into quotation marks."

If Beer Will Balance the Budget, Why Don't Liquor Nations of Europe Balance Their Budgets?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Balance the budget with beer! How creditable to the people of an enlightened Nation! And who will do the balancing? Eighty per cent of them hard working men. And who will do the suffering? Innocent women and children. And who will pocket the proceeds? Mostly the brewers, who have become money-fluent at the expense of the unfortunate. How resourceful our legislators!

Question: If beer will balance the budget, why have the European countries that make, buy and drink beer, wine and whisky ad libitum been unable to perform the delicate operation of "balancing the budget?" Answer to the question: Why?

Criminal Failure to Provide By-Paths for Pedestrians Causes Many Deaths.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Death on the highway! Pedestrians have nowhere to walk except in the path of automobiles, and yet we call this country civilized. I saw the body of the poor fellow who was killed on Conduit road. Nobody to blame, as the night was foggy. The Government which fails to provide a path for pedestrians is to blame.

Every highway should have a by-path for pedestrians. In Washington are beautiful drives, but there is no path for those who walk. No one can walk safely to Mount Vernon. Death on the highway is the inevitable result of this criminal neglect of pedestrians.

DICTIONARIES SHORT ON COOKERY TERMS

By MARTHA LOGAN.

An experienced "master of concoctions" two centuries ago, when presenting to the world the secrets of his art and the lessons of his experience, said:

"But when 'tis considered that variety and novelty are no small parts of the cook's art, and that no occupation in the world is more obliged to invention * * * and, of consequence, that none can, with more justice, challenge a right to a kind reception than treatises of this nature, which shall be found to be drawn up with art and judgment, and the rules whereof shall be reducible to the true standard of practice and experience."—(From the Preface to "The Complete Practical Cook, or, A New System of the Whole Art and Mystery of Cookery." London, 1730.)

The same is true today, but in the intervening two centuries the variety and novelty in meat cookery have become less elusive and mysterious than the fundamental principles involved.

Board Defines Methods.

Recently, in connection with a national meat investigation project, a study of meat cookery terms and their definitions was instigated. The committee organized to carry on the investigation found there was a lack of standardization.

The committee decided the correct thing to do would be to send a questionnaire to experts on the subject, asking for definitions of ordinary cookery terms. Again the variability in terms and usage was amazing.

To make a long story short, precise methods were developed based upon a great deal of experimental work made on hundreds of ribs of beef, legs of lamb, loins of pork, &c.

Now comes the point of the story. So that you and your friends will not say you are going to "fry" a piece of meat when you are really "panbroiling," or so that you will not boil a perfectly delicious looking rolled lamb breast when you should be "simmering" it, I am going to quote verbatim the definitions adopted by the committee which are being accepted as standard. They are as follows:

What Words Mean.

Bake, v. t.—To cook by indirect dry heat, usually in an oven, or in hot ashes, upon heated metal or stones, &c.; to roast, especially when said of meat, as to roast beef.

Barbecue, v. t.—To toast slowly (an animal) whole or in pieces on a gridiron, spit or over coals in a specially prepared trench. The meat is usually basted with a highly seasoned sauce.

Baste, v. t.—To moisten meat while cooking to prevent drying and to add flavor. The liquid used is usually pan drippings, water or water and fat.

Boil, v. t.—To subject to the action of the heat of boiling liquid, especially water. See "simmer."

Braise, v. t.—To brown (meat) in a hot receptacle in a small amount of fat, then to cook slowly in juices from the meat or in added liquid in a covered utensil. The added liquid may be water, milk, cream, meat stock, diluted vinegar or juices from vegetables.

Broil, v. t.—To cook by radiant (direct) heat from hot coals, a gas flame or electric element; to grill.

Fricassees, n.—A dish made of fowl, veal or other meat cut in pieces and stewed in gravy.

Fry, v. t.—To cook in fat; especially (1) to cook in a small amount of fat; also called 'saute; (2) to cook in a deep layer of fat; also called deep-fat frying.

Lard, v. t.—To place strips of fat, called lardoons, on top of or to insert into meat to add flavor and to prevent dryness.

Lardoon or lardonn, n.—A long, slender, pencil-like portion of fat, such as pork, fat, bacon or suet, used in larding.

Marinade, n.—An acid liquor usually with seasoning and with or without oil, in which meat is allowed to stand before cooking to improve flavor and to increase tenderness.

Panbroil, v. t.—To cook in a hot, uncovered frying pan, pouring off fat as it accumulates in the pan.

Parboil, v. t.—To simmer for a short time preliminary to cooking by another method.

Potroast, n.—A piece of meat cooked by braising.

Roast, v. t.—To cook by dry heat before a fire or over hot stones or metals; now, especially when said of meats, to cook in an oven.

Sear, v. t.—To brown the surface of meat by the short application of intense heat. Meat is seared for the purpose of developing flavor and improving appearance.

Stew, n.—A dish made of small pieces of meat simmered in liquid, with or without vegetables.

Martha Logan Says - 'Try Pineapple Pork Chops'

I'll wager your family likes pork chops and you like to prepare them, but you generally just panbroil them. Variations are not unlimited, but here is one that makes the best pork chops ever. Purchase 5 or 6 good pork chops that are not too lean. Season them with salt and pepper.

Our next step adds a golden-brown color to the chops and also enhances the flavor. You've guessed it! Searing. Sear the pork chops well on both sides in a preheated hot heavy metal skillet. Remember no additional fat is necessary.

Turn down your fire now, quite low. Here is where the variation starts. Pour over the chops in the skillet the contents, juice and all, of a No. 1 can of crushed pineapple. Be sure to leave a low flame, because you don't want the pineapple to caramelize too rapidly.

Now cover the pan closely and cook slowly 15 minutes to 20 minutes. Serve them with pineapple and whipped sweet potatoes and buttered beets, a lettuce salad and a deep dish apple pie with cream.

BAKED CHEESE DISH WINS WEEKLY PRIZE

Mrs. Minnie Smoak, of Alderson, W. Va., Gets $5 Post Award.

Mrs. Minnie Smoak, of Alderson, W. Va., was the winner of this week's Post $5 award for her luncheon recipe.

Mrs. Smoak's contribution is for a baked cheese dish and should be an admirable addition to any cook book.

To be eligible for the weekly contests of The Post, recipes which are submitted should use some of the products of the advertisers on the Saturday Food Page.

The recipe follows:

Luncheon Dish.
(Awarded $5 Prize.)

1 cup grated cheese (A. & P.)
2 teaspoons butter (Kidwell's)
1 cup milk
1 cup cooked rice or bread crumbs (Schneider's)
3 eggs (Piggly Wiggly)
1-3 teaspoon salt
Dash of cayenne pepper

Scald the milk and pour over bread crumbs (or rice), add butter, the cheese and seasoning. Beat the egg yolks slightly and add to mixture, then fold in the stiffly beaten whites, turn the mixture into a greased baking dish. Set in a pan of water and bake in a slow oven until firm on top.

Market Meanderings

By MILDRED REED BUNDY

Daffodils and Strawberries Brighten Dank Days in Washington Markets; Pompano Fish in Plentiful Supply; Cooked Hams Cheaper.

Out of—or in spite of—the dank drizzles, the snows and gray days have come daffodils and strawberries! Perhaps they are intended to be spring-like antidotes for the misery the same drizzles, snows and grayness have brought to the Capital with influenza.

The daffodils, long-stemmed, perfect, have arrived in the flower stands in the downtown market several weeks ahead of their usual schedule. Their price, considering their premature appearance, is reasonable at $1.50 a dozen. Let the Meanderer tell you where you can find these bright flowers for the influenza victims.

The strawberries may be had for 40 cents a pint in a centrally located market on K street. The berries are beautifully large, red and sweet, as much so as are strawberries in May. Furthermore, there are many more to come to Washington in a short time and the price will be lower forthwith, a veteran fruit dealer in the K street market told the Meanderer.

"This food business gets into the blood," the veteran marketer referred to just above confided to the Meanderer as she lingered to admire his ware. "I had a food stand in old Center Market for more than 30 years. When that market was discontinued I did not resume business, but tried to rest a while. Four months' rest was too much. Here I am again and intend to stay."

"I'm betting the Roosevelts will be good eaters," remarked an important meat dealer in one of the principal markets, in the course of an after-Christmas chat with the Meanderer on the general state of the Capital food business. This meat dealer has supplied choice meats for White House tables for many years.

"Why do you think the Roosevelt appetite should be so commendable?" the Meanderer pursued.

"They're New Yorkers," the meat marketer said, decisively. "New Yorkers know how to eat." Then, of course, it is well known that the upkeep of the Roosevelt household need not depend on the official salary. The Presidents who must be dependent upon their salaries for the most part in their entertaining naturally are not lavish."

Pompano, probably the fish most highly thought of, next to brook trout, is in plentiful supply in a high class fish shop in a market on K street. They weigh from a pound or so to 50 pounds each. Small pompano or steaks from the large pompano sell for from 40 to 60 cents a pound. This fish has only one main bone, and white, firm meat. It comes from the Indian River region in Florida.

"Pen and Ink fish" or squids are of much interest in the market where the Meanderer found the pompano. They are called "pen and ink" fish because of a long, quill-like bone easily removed from the fish, and because of a bag near the squid's head containing an inky black fluid. The fish sprays this black fluid as a camouflage when pursued by fishermen. The fish marketer selling the squids said that the quill-like bones from this fish were used in colonial times for pens, and that one such pen was used in the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

Cooked hams, prepared from a time-honored Southern recipe under the direction of one of the best known meat dealers of Washington, are selling at a price lower than that asked for them before Christmas. In their cellophane wrapping and paper curled decorations they are as suitable for a New Year greeting as they were for Christmas gifts. Their price per pound is 75 cents. In 1931 such hams sold in the same market stand for $1.00 or more a pound.

The best of fresh-killed and dressed rabbits, ready for the pan, are priced 35 cents up in a reliable market.

Now that alligator pears have nearly doubled in price over their cost last fall, the Meanderer would mention as reasonable some she found for 25 cents each. In other markets these pears sell for appreciably more. In the vegetable stand where the pears were found are green beans guaranteed stringless, for 10 cents a pound.

When the shopper or office worker gets home through the drizzly, dreary weather, a cheering offering from the home kitchen would be a cup of bovril, the English drink. This is made as a tea, by using a teaspoon of bovril to a cup of boiling water. Bovril is an extract from both meat and plants. The food shopper can buy it in a corner of the big K street market where many interesting plain and fancy foods are sold.

OUR DAILY FOOD

By COL. GOODBODY

WINTER'S DISH—POT ROAST.

As this is being written it is mighty cold outdoors. Winter is here with a vengeance and Mrs. Goodbody has the kitchen stove on full blast for warmth.

Here in my study a tantalizing odor is carried to me from the kitchen. Pardon me, while I investigate * * * Yes, sure enough, it's pot roast for dinner, and that strikes me as just about right. I always consider pot roast an ideal winter dish. As a matter of fact, there are three things I associate with winter. One is pot roast, the second is oyster stew and the third is my coal bill. Let's be pleasant, though, and not talk about the latter.

Pot roasting has many points in its favor and I may add flavor. It is made from an economical cut, and requires very little attention in preparation. The real title for pot roasting is "braising," an art which has definite rules:

1. Brown the meat in hot fat.
2. Add a little water (not more than a cupful).
3. Season.
4. Cover closely and cook very slowly.

And now, for complete proof of my words in favor of putting the pot roast on winter's coat of arms, try this recipe:

Pot Roast of Beef With Gravy.

4 to 5 pounds beef (chuck, round, rump or clod)
3 tablespoons melted beef fat
½ cup water
Flour
Salt and pepper

Rub the meat with flour, salt and pepper. Try out some of the beef suet in a heavy kettle, and brown the meat in it on all sides. Slip a rack under the roast to keep it off the bottom of the kettle, add the water, cover the kettle tightly and cook very slowly until the meat is tender. Turn the roast occasionally. A roast weighing about 4 pounds will need to cook for about two and one-half hours. Add more water during the cooking if needed.

For gravy, skim off the excess fat from the drippings. Then combine about four tablespoons of flour with one-half cup of cold water, and stir until smooth. Stir into the meat-drippings and cook for about five minutes. Season with salt and pepper and serve with the meat.

More Men's Clothing Received by Red Cross

A second shipment of men's and boys' underwear, numbering 2,400, and 1,564 boys' knickers were received yesterday by the District Red Cross Chapter for distribution to the city's needy.

There is still a great need for volunteer workers at the Chapter House, 1730 E street northwest, to aid in the assembling of garments that have been cut from material exchanged for cotton, officials said.

Old English Party Given by Zonta Club.

The Zonta Club of Washington gave an old English party Thursday evening in the garden house of the Dodge Hotel. There was a king and queen, Mrs. Paul Howe and Miss Malinda Havey, who were crowned according to royal traditions and escorted to their thrones to rule over the evening's ceremonies. Miss Evelyn Davis, in cap and bells, was the court jester. Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Sindell, in troubadour costume, sang a group of carols and were accompanied by Mrs. Emily Newell.

A spectacular procession then entered bearing food for the inspection of the king and queen. This procession was led by one of the group, with a whole roast pig on a platter for their "majesties'" approval. Another of the old English traditions that was enacted was the bringing in of the yule log. This was dramatized by Mr. and Mrs. John Steuart. There was the singing of spirituals, after which Christmas Meade was served with all the ceremony of old England. Those in charge of arrangements for the party were Miss Esther Gude, Miss Mabel Strider, Miss Emma T. Hahm and Miss Ruth Sheldon.

THE PARADINE CASE

By ROBERT HICHENS

SYNOPSIS.

Sir Malcolm Keane, K. C., is asked by Sir Simon Flaquer, a noted English solicitor, to defend Mrs. Paradine, who has been arrested for the murder of her husband, blind war hero. Mrs. Paradine, a beautiful Dane, had been rescued from a life of degradation in Copenhagen by an American diplomat, taken as a servant to America and later made her way to England, where she married Maj. Paradine after the war. He agrees to handle the case.

Sir Malcolm is happily married to Gay but when he calls on Mrs. Paradine at Holloway Jail he feels the strange fascination of his beautiful client. He is worried because Lord Horfield might be named as judge of the trial and endeavors to be friendly to him. He and Gay give a little dinner party to which they ask Lord and Lady Horfield. After the party Sir Malcolm studies a photograph of William Marsh, Col. Paradine's valet, and the idea occurs to him that the man who acted in so intimate a relation to his blind master might have had an opportunity to kill him. His plan of defense begins to take form in his mind.

Gay meets a Swedish painter, Baron Sedelsward, at the Flaquers' and he invites her to a private view of his paintings. Sir Malcolm decides to go to the exhibition when he learns that Sedelsward was acquainted with Mrs. Paradine. He asks the painter to dine with him that night.

Judy Flaquer, Gay's friend, suspects that Sir Malcolm is neglecting Gay because of his abnormal interest in his client. Lady Horfield also warns Keane to "look out" for his wife. Keane decides to leave London to further study his defense of Mrs. Paradine.

Before leaving, Lady Horfield intimates her husband delights in conviction of defendants on trial before him. Their meeting is ended abruptly by Judge Horfield, in whom Keane detects a spirit of antagonism. After refusing to take Gay with him, he goes to Hindley Village, where he encounters Marsh at the Paradine home; Marsh, animal-like and surly.

Returning to his inn after an inspection of the mansion, Keane is surprised by a visit from Marsh.

HER lips parted, but she did not speak. Her pale eyes looked astonished, then intent as if with suspicion.

"Why did you go? What was there to go for?" she asked, leaning, he felt, on the words.

"I was tired. I'd been working very hard, working at night. I wanted some good air, to be alone." He looked hard at her. "You drew me up there."

"I? But I am here."

"Perhaps some of you lingers there. Who knows? Anyhow you sent me up there, or drew me. It doesn't matter which. I visited the Hall. I went into the house, into your room, where you used to sleep. I walked on the terrace, in the garden, down by the river. It was in flood. I breathed in the atmosphere of the place that was your home."

He paused. She waited, with her eyes fixed upon him. He saw the blank expression beginning to creep into her face, like something pushed into it from behind.

"Don't!" he said, sharply. "Don't!"

What do you mean? What am I doing?"

"Doing! You are trying to keep me out, to shut the door against me. The time for that's gone. You've got to let me in—or I shan't be able to save your life."

"I shall fail at the trial. Unless I can put my heart into this case I shall lose it. And you keep me in the dark. When I went to Hindley hall," he said, leaning toward her and speaking in a low, urgent voice, "I rang at the front door. It was opened by William Marsh."

He saw her heavy white eyelids quiver, but the expression of her face did not change.

"He took me into the house but left me there, and a woman, a caretaker, came to show me the rooms. I opened a window in the front of the house, I looked out and saw Marsh below. He was telling my driver who I was. I called down and asked him to show me over the gardens. He called up that he would. But when I went down he was gone."

He stopped speaking. Mrs. Paradine did not say anything. She sat still. Her figure looked rigid.

"I left Sedale without seeing him again."

He thought that her figure relaxed.

"That night in the inn I sat up late. I had a sitting room on the ground floor next to a side door that was opposite to the station railings. Perhaps you know it?"

She did not say anything.

"I was working there. The people of the inn had locked up and gone to bed. I heard something. I listened. Then I heard a knock on the side door. I went to it, unbolted it, opened it, and found William Marsh there. I let him in. We were together for a considerable time. We spoke about you."

Her eyelids quivered again.

"He told me that I didn't know what you were. He told me that you were a woman of Babylon. Do you know what is meant by that?"

Not a look, not a gesture answered him.

"That man hates you most bitterly. I want to know why."

When he said the last words he was aware of a sudden relaxation that seemed to be communicated by Mrs. Paradine's spirit to her body and to run mysteriously all through it.

"As we know that you didn't murder his master what's the reason?"

"He doesn't like women."

"What's the good of telling me that? This is a personal hatred fastened on an individual. If Col. Paradine were still alive it would exist just the same. I'm absolutely certain of that. My interview with Marsh," he said, "his attitude, his words, his whole manner, the look in his eyes while he was speaking to me made an impression upon me that I can't shake off. Mrs. Paradine, we hate, if we hate at all, those most with whom we have had most to do. We hate, if we hate, in intimacy. We hate the known, not the unknown. You say that Marsh doesn't like women."

"It is true."

"Others say he's a woman hater."

"Yes. And it is so."

"Since I have been with Marsh something seems to say to me"—he touched his breast—"a man who is a woman hater would hate most of all the woman who, by her power of seduction had compelled him to forego his hatred of women."

Her tall figure shivered slightly. He noticed that, and a deadly sensation of nausea came over him. He realized the terrible difference between suspicion and certainty. Leaning on the table by which he was sitting, leaning heavily, he said:

"Mrs. Paradine, Marsh has belonged to you."

* * * *

When he came home to dress for the dinner at which the Horfields were to be present, Gay was painfully struck by her husband's appearance. His face, always pale, with a clear, ivory pallor, had a curious almost yellow tinge which suggested ill health; his eyes looked furtive and feverish, his hands were restless, and his whole manner was disordered, like that of a man on the verge of a nervous breakdown. She couldn't help staring at him in amazement, and almost with fear.

"What's the matter?" he said, sharply.

"The matter?"

"Yes. Why d' you look at me like that?"

"I was afraid—aren't you feeling well?"

"Perfectly well. Never better. My holiday up in the north did me good. I feel ready for anything."

He hurried out of the room.

For the first time in her life Gay felt not only afraid for, but of, her husband.

She went to her bedroom to dress for this detestable dinner with a heavy heart. She felt utterly lonely in this house, which was her home. She even felt out of place in it, like an unwanted intruder who nevertheless did not know how to get away, or where else to go. The prospect of the dinner and of the long evening at the theater horrified her.

Had she been right or wrong in giving way about this dinner? At one moment she thought that she was weak and even degraded because of her obedience; at another that she would be doing her duty in receiving the judge in spite of what had happened if possibly a woman's life, and especially that woman's life, might be placed in jeopardy by her refusal, then surely the sacrifice she was making was praiseworthy. The intimate cruelty of that sacrifice lay in the fact of the hideous desire which she could not get rid of, which was always with her. She was going to fight her own sin, a sin of the mind, or even of the soul. Could such an action be wholly weak, wholly blameworthy?

But it was an ugly business. O, what an ugly business it was. She felt unclean as she got up to go downstairs, got up to make her debut as a hypocrite.

They were not going to use the big drawing room on the first floor that evening. Immediately after dinner they would have to start for the theater. Gay found her husband already down, standing before the fire in the room where they generally sat.

"You've been quick, Malcolm!" she said.

"One doesn't want to keep a learned judge waiting," he said. "We've got to be at our best tonight."

He spoke with a sort of earnest determination.

"Any prejudices we may have we've got to put away. I care for sincerity as you do. But there are times when one must conceal one's hatreds."

"Hatreds!" she said, startled by the sudden violence which he put into the last word.

"Lord and Lady Horfield!" said Baker, opening the door.

And Lady Horfield, for once in black, lunged forward followed by the judge, who wore the white carnation of a blameless life in his buttonhole and looked, Keane thought, icily smart, icily imperturbable.

The honors for acting in Portland place that evening, before the professional acting began at the theater, were carried off, strangely enough, by the two men. Keane was strongly aware of that, and he thought the capacity they showed in deceit marked them out as morally inferior to the two women though it perhaps stamped them as the cleverer sex.

Neither Lady Horfield nor Gay was at ease. Lady Horfield, it is true, was never at ease when her husband was with her in company. But that evening in Portland place was certainly one of her worst evenings. Keane was positive that always at the back of her mind was a terrible sense of guilt connected with him. She had to make her revelation to him, but she was ashamed of having made it, ashamed and yet capable of making it again could it be unmade. She was torn between a dread of having been treacherous to her husband and the conviction that her God had desired her to speak. She stood between the man she loved despairingly and the woman she pitied with all her woman's soul. Keane felt her as vital tragedy. There was in that clumsy, almost elephantine body, a power of intense and even beautiful feeling that stretched arms to him.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

L. R. D.—Chapped, harsh skin will respond to treatment with a soothing cream. During the winter it is best to avoid using soap and water for cleansing and use a cleansing cream almost exclusively. After cleansing thoroughly, pat with a skin tonic to exercise the skin and make it more receptive to skin food. Then pat the skin food well into the skin for several minutes and allow a little to remain on overnight. Before going outdoors protect the skin with a finishing cream.

Unhappy Reader—Moles can not be removed at home and should never be removed by an amateur, as such an attempt might cause trouble far more disfiguring. Many physicians feel that such growths should be removed and your physician could probably take them off for you quickly and safely. Or he may recommend an electrolysis expert to remove them.

* * * *

Mrs. R. O. P.—The sulphur and bay rum solution is not a dye and won't restore the original color of your graying hair, but used regularly, it will help to color the gray. The proportion is one part milk of sulphur to three parts bay rum. The result will be a cloudy mixture and must be shaken very thoroughly each time before using.

* * * *

A Constant Reader—1. The auburn-haired, blue-eyed person will find the following colors especially becoming: subdued shades of blue, black, subdued purples, all shades of orchid, soft shades of green, white, and very soft orange. Soft shades of gray may be worn, but dull grays should be avoided as well as all shades of red, browns and beiges. 2. Olive oil will not grow hair on the face unless there is a natural tendency toward superfluous hair.

* * * *

Ruth—The stout woman will find that dull, toned-down shades and black will make the figure appear thinner; soft grays, dull blue, very subdued red, taupe, &c. Brilliant or intense colors, light shades, striking combinations, all have a broadening effect. Fabrics with dull surfaces make the figure appear more slender while shiny surfaces have a broadening influence.

with FLU in the air . .

don't take chances with COLDS! . . .

WITH flu in the community, everyone is warned against the dangers of colds just now. Colds pull down body resistance, and often pave the way for an attack of flu and its serious complications. In the present emergency, the wise course to follow is that outlined in Vicks Plan for better Control of Colds:

To Prevent Many Colds: At that first feeling of stuffiness or nasal irritation, sniffle or sneeze—Nature's usual warning that a cold is coming on—use Vicks Nose & Throat Drops, the new aid in preventing colds. Vicks Drops aid Nature in throwing off the infection that threatens. They prevent development of many colds.

To End a Cold Sooner: If a cold has developed, or strikes without warning, vigorous measures are necessary. At bedtime, apply Vicks VapoRub. Its direct, double action — continuing through the night—brings quicker relief. During the day, use the convenient Vicks Nose Drops every few hours as needed. They add to comfort—help shorten the cold.

YESTERDAY'S ANSWER

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

TIME'S flight across the world will be followed by the national networks and gay music and the sounds which greet the New Year will be heard in Washington from distant parts of the globe. Nearly 50 dance orchestras will be heard over local stations during the evening and early morning hours.

The voices of Leipzig University students intoning a dirge for the departing year will be carried across the Atlantic at 6 o'clock over WJSV. At the same hour, WRC expects to be able to transmit midnight festivities in the Haus Vaterland, a Berlin night club. At 6:55 p. m. WJSV will bring Washingtonians the tones of Big Ben from the tower of the Parliament Building in London.

From 10 o'clock on the networks will present dance organizations from New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, Cleveland, St. Louis, Kansas City, Denver, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Honolulu. WRC hopes weather will permit the transmission of the New Year celebration in Buenos Aires, beginning at 10:45 p. m. Both WRC and WJSV will carry street noises from the Times Square district and carillon in the last quarter hour before midnight.

THE Canadian Radio Broadcasting Commission, as the first step in a series of drastic changes in the broadcasting system there, will limit radio advertising in Canada to 5 per cent of the time.

"Our system, as defined in the act of Parliament, differs from that of the British Broadcasting Corporation, which eliminates advertising altogether," Chairman Hector Farnsworth, of the commission, advises Dr. C. M. Koon, radio specialist in the U. S. office of education. "So long as Canadians can turn on United States stations at will it would be unfair to Canadian commerce to exclude its announcements from the air, but advertising will be limited to 5 per cent of the time occupied by the broadcast and a rigid supervision as to its character will be maintained.

"We will not have complete control of stations until after March 31, when all existing licenses expire. The act gives us power to expropriate and close stations and build a series of high-powered stations across the continent to be operated by ourselves, but in view of present financial conditions, I do not think we will embark on so large an undertaking for some time to come.

"For the present we will probably endeavor to lease time in bulk at reasonable rates from the land line companies and go extensively into sponsored programs on our own account, utilizing Canadian artists, of whom a large number of fine quality are unemployed," the Canadian radio chairman continues.

"The most serious problem with which we have to deal is that of landwire costs, which have militated very seriously against the private broadcaster. We are using all the influence we can bring to bear to secure a solution of this problem and to induce the land-wire companies to act with us.

"We also hope to establish cordial relations with the National Broadcasting Co. and Columbia system and to secure the best of their own sustaining programs for distribution through Canada," Chairman Farnsworth concluded.

THE Canadian act states that the commission "shall have power to carry on the business of broadcasting in Canada."

It may make operating agreements with private stations for the broadcasting of national programs, acquire existing private stations either by lease or, subject to the approval of Parliament, by purchase, and may construct new stations subject to the approval of Parliament. It may originate programs from within or outside Canada, by purchase or exchange, and make necessary arrangements for their transmission, and make contracts with persons for performance in connection with programs originated by the commission. Finally, it may take over all broadcasting in Canada, subject to the approval of Parliament.

"Gotterdammerung," the concluding music-drama of Richard Wagner's series, "Der Ring des Nibelungen," will be carried in part to the music lovers of the country from the stage of the Metropolitan Opera House this afternoon.

The first and second acts of the Wagner work, with Gota Ljungberg singing the role of Brunnhilde and Gustaaf De Loor, new tenor from Holland, that of Siegfried, will be broadcast over the WJZ network, including WRC, at 1:30 p. m.

THE New Year's greeting of Capt. S. C. Hooper, director of naval communications, is:

"May 1933 contain no static, interference, fading or skip distances."

THE world premiere of Louis Gruenberg's opera, "The Emperor Jones," by the Metropolitan Opera, will be carried in full next Saturday afternoon.

Marguerite Cromwell, soprano, and Rudolf Schramm will present the following selections during the Wilkins Coffee Quarter Hour (WRC, 6:30 o'clock) tonight: "We'll See It Through," "Suzanne," "Are You Listenin'," "Thanksgiving" and "I May Never Pass Your Way Again."

WHEN Charley Winninger used to play the tank towns with "The Winninger Family Novelties" they carried a baseball team composed of crack outlaw players with the show to play the local talent in an added attraction. But they beat the local boys so often the attendance at their shows fell off and the team was broken up.

New Archives Building Work Showing Progress

Construction of the superstructure of the Archives Building on the site of the old Center Market was begun yesterday by the George A. Fuller Co. The contract calls for the completion of the building, costing $5,284,000, at the end of 1934. The piling and other foundations have been put in place by another contractor. Yesterday's work was the pouring of concrete for foundation walls.

The Archives Building will be one of the outstanding structures of the Federal Triangle. It will be square in shape, with large columns on all sides.

Club Climbers Trudge To Greet Coming Year

Colorado Springs, Colo., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Members of the AdAmAn Club began their annual struggle today to reach the snow-clad summit of Pike's Peak in time to greet the New Year with a fireworks display.

The fourteen climbers expected to stop at Barr Camp at Timberline late today and proceed to the top tomorrow. Francis M. Froelicher, a school teacher, is this year's initiate into the club which annually accepts one member.

Old Grudge Fatal to Two.

Louisa, Ky., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Hurston Prince, 35, and Henry Hill, 28, married men with families, killed each other, and a man named Justice was wounded today in a pistol battle at Orr, in Lawrence County. The trouble occurred on a road near M. V. Hemsley's grist mill, where the men were going for meal, and was attributed to an old grudge.

Breadline Dancing Refused.

Seattle, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Music has charms to aid the digestion of unemployed, they told King County authorities. The county furnishes free food to the jobless, but balked today at hiring musicians to play for dances after the bread line has been attended to. The unemployed contended the entertainment would be pleasing and would also give jobs to musicians.

Air Rifles Hard on Lights.

Bellwood, Ill., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—If the city fathers of Bellwood ever get their hands on Santa Claus they're going to make him feel uncomfortable. He delivered an unusually heavy load of air rifles in the village and to date the cost in street lights has reached $300 at $10 per light.

SOVIET CHIEFS CITE 5-YEAR-PLAN GAINS

Program Ends Today Behind Goal, but Advances Are Numerous.

Moscow, Dec. 30.—Soviet Russia's five-year plan for economic construction, shortened to four years and three months, ends with the old year in undoubted industrial, agricultural and social achievements for the world's first socialistic State, but fulfilment only in part of the definite objectives it laid down.

From the viewpoint of Soviet leaders the plan has been successfully carried out in the attainment of its broad general aim of establishing a base for industrialization of the country.

The Nation now has a foundation of heavy industry, they claim, on which can be built future means of production without relying on foreign imports.

Comparison of the program with the latest available figures of accomplishment, however, shows that the industrial plan as a whole has not been fulfilled. In some branches of economy it can be credited with successes far beyond the ambitious dreams of the planners themselves. In others, the country has fallen far short of the goals it set for itself.

Increases Over 1931.

Until complete and final figures are published, which may be several weeks, it will be impossible to strike a balance of the actual successes and failures under the plan. A fair index for industry, however, can be found in the record of the greater part of this year, showing less than 20 per cent increase over 1931 in all industrial production, whereas a 34.7 increase actually was required to fulfill the general plan.

Almost without exception, the yearly control figures were not met. On the other hand every year has shown substantial production gains over the previous year. These increases, rather than the actual relation of accomplishments to the plan, furnish the yardstick by which officials measure progress. The plan in their view is a goal to be striven for. If it is not entirely fulfilled this fact does not bulk so largely if actual gains can be shown.

Feverish efforts to industrialize the country, which the newspapers now loudly acclaim as an accomplished fact, admittedly have subjected the population to severe strain on the point of continued low living standards.

Food Shortage Faced.

As the five-year plan ends the Russian masses are faced with a severe food shortage, which is the worst since the plan began and responsibility for which can be traced directly to the subordination of light industry, producting consumption goods, to what the state felt was the larger necessity of creating its own heavy industry first.

The extent of the spread between these two branches of economy is shown in the fact that 87 per cent of all capital investments in industry during the five-year plan was allotted to heavy industry, leaving very little for the production of consumers' goods.

While not minimizing the seriousness of the present food situation, leaders justify their position by pointing out that heavy sacrifices were necessary on the part of the population during the first five-year period in order to give the nation the necessary means of defense for future development.

Living Improvement Is Aim.

In reality, therefore, the present plight of the people can not be blamed entirely on the plan itself, for it deliberately contained inadequate provision to obviate it. The growing extent of the human strain may have played no small part in the decision of the leaders in 1930 to end the five-year plan nine months short of the original five-year period, so that a quicker start could be made on the improvement of living standards—one of the primary aims of the second five-year plan, beginning with the new year.

Of the basic key industries—coal, pig iron, steel, electrification and transport—all are considerably behind the plan, and among other heavy industrial branches only oil, and possibly machine building, can claim fulfilment. In the case of oil, the five-year plan production was accomplished in half that period, and it still is running ahead of a program revised upward.

Light industry, despite its relatively insignificant role in the five-year plan and notwithstanding that several of its branches more than fulfilled the program, failed to accomplish the plan as a whole by 7.7 per cent, although it showed an aggregate production gain of 64 per cent for the four-year period.

Food Industry Far Behind.

The food industry continues badly in arrears, barely showing a gain over the 1931 production and making the worst showing this year of any branch of economy.

In terms of world production Soviet Russia during the five-year plan, according to official figures, jumped from sixth to third place in coal, although the daily output now is averaging only approximately 18,000 tons compared with 90,000,000 planned for the whole year; in pig iron the nation jumped from sixth to second place, although the present daily average output of 17,000 tons is considerably behind the 9,000,000 tons planned for the whole year; in oil from third to second place, with 22,300,000 tons in 1932, compared with 21,700,000 planned; in machine building from fourth to second, with the 1932 output aggregating 5,700,000,000 rubles, compared with 6,800,000,000 planned; in electric energy from eighth to third, with 13,500,000,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 17,000,000,000 planned.

Bureau Studying Leave Rules for U. S. Workers

Seeking more uniform sick leave provisions among Federal establishments, the Budget Bureau has undertaken a survey of such with a view to making a report to President Hoover under the economy act. A wide disparity has been discovered, it was said yesterday, in sick leave regulations throughout the Government service. Some are based on specific law, it was declared, while others only are predicated on regulations.

The report is not expected to be made much before March 4. A possibility was expressed that the President may have executive power to remedy the situation somewhat. Chance of getting legislation through Congress providing uniform sick leave was believed remote.

EARLE

By NELSON B. BELL.

Combining elements of drama that will recall to the mind of the seasoned picture-goer such poignant studies in maternal anguish and devotion as "Madam X," "Sarah and Son" and "The Sin of Madelon Claudet," this scarlet panorama of a quarter century of San Francisco's underworld affords its star the most engrossing and at times the most daring vehicle she has had in recent months.

Assuming once more the type of role that signalized her entry into the ranks of screen players, with Emil Jannings in "Sins of the Fathers," Miss Chatterton here concentrates her generous talents upon the realistic depiction of one of the most vivacious and most avaricious votaries of the famous old Barbary Coast, who after the passing of that vividly incarnadined area of gayety and the fleshpots, devoted her flashy endowments to the gentle arts of bootlegging and rum-running in the grand, or immune from the law, manner.

Running counter to these antisocial inclinations was a supreme and sacrificial love for her son, born out of wedlock and reared to a place of eminence in municipal affairs by strangers who never revealed the identity of his mother.

The developments of the story are such that when Jenny Sandoval, after having made possible the election of her son to the post of prosecuting attorney, believes the betrayal of her identity to him imminent, she shoots and kills the informant on the threshhold of the District Attorney's office. It being the second murder in which she has been involved, her own son brings about her conviction and sentence to death—a verdict which she refuses to combat by revealing who she is to him, even when he pleads with her to offer some extenuation for a crime for which she has offered no defense.

Into a recital of sordid incident and a rather minute examination of the more profitable enterprises of the demimonde, has been injected a vein of sound and moving mother-love that renders the picture's tragic climax and pathetic denouement inevitable, if the logic of events is to be preserved. A threatened "happy ending" that must have been a sore temptation is avoided with rare judgment and discretion. Its employment would have been fatal to the film's every claim to the distinction it now possesses.

In tracing her character from the early days in her father's Barbary Coast honky-tonk, through the frugal days following the earthquake—when her child was born in a cellar tenement in Chinatown—to the later years of opulence piled up by the profits of commercialized vice, Miss Chatterton manages to make plain the full import of the role without at any time offending her audience or alienating its interest and sympathy.

Time deals kindly with her during the 26 years of the drama, but by arts and artifices other than those of the make-up box this gifted actress still succeeds in creating the illusion of a woman calloused to the gentler impulses of her sex.

The wide scope of the story and its generous spanning of time have made it possible for several members of the supporting cast to register their best performances for the cameras and microphones. Preeminently to be listed among these are Louis Calhern, as Jenny's lifelong accomplice, whom she finally kills, and Donald Cook, as her son, both wholly natural and convincing.

Lesser roles are played with consummate skill by Helen Jerome Eddy, as Amah, the faithful servant; Robert Emmett O'Connor, as Sandoval; Robert Warwick, Pat O'Malley, Willard Robertson, Fritzi Ridgeway, Gertrude Astor, Noel Francis, James Murray, Hallam Cooley and a considerable number of others.

The destructive fury of the earthquake and fire is realistically contrived and the direction throughout is able, although a good deal of strictly modern slang has crept into the underworld vernacular of 1906.

A uniformly excellent stage bill is introduced by Miss Maxine Doyle in a uniformly smart succession of frocks. Every act on the bill is a hit, led by Black & Sully in their familiar banter; Frank Richardson, in a group of high-powered songs, and Vincent Lopez's Debutantes, a female orchestra of fourteen that is rather the best of its kind to be heard here. Fritz and Jean Hubert are extraordinary pantomimists, who close their remarkable act with a real surprise. The Uyenos, a troupe of seven incomparable Japanese acrobats and tumblers, open.

The Universal News, with Graham McNamee's running comment, completes a program that augurs well for the new year.

RIALTO

"THE MUMMY." Universal picturization of a story by Nina Wilcox Putnam and Richard Schayer, adapted to the screen by John Balderson, featuring Boris Karloff, Zita Johann and David Manners, with Edward Van Sloan, Arthur Byron, Bramwell Fletcher, Noble Johnson, Katheryn Byron and Eddie Kane. Directed by Karl Freund.

In the figure of an Egyptian brought back to life after an entombment of 3,700 years, Boris Karloff in this imaginative and eerie melodrama of ancient mysticism, reincarnation and modern romance, has another role that enables him to strengthen his reputation as the greatest master of make-up since the late Lon Chaney.

While "The Mummy," which public demand has forced into a second week at the Rialto, is an unreal and fantastic figment of the creative imaginations of Nina Wilcox Putnam and Richard Schayer, it is a splendidly wrought piece of dramaturgy, neither so horrifying nor so severe a strain upon the credulity as some of Mr. Karloff's earlier pictures. It establishes an unbelievable premise, of course, but once the motivating factors of the story are put in motion it becomes a logically developed romance, unique in design, rich in coloring and fascinating in development.

In addition to Mr. Karloff in the title role, excellent contributions are made to the effectiveness of the play's suspense and its power to thrill by the intelligent performances of Zita Johann, David Manners, Edward Van Sloan and Arthur Byron.

The feature is supplemented by short-reel subjects of careful selection, including the latest release of the Universal News, with Graham McNamee as the talking reporter.

PALACE

"STRANGE INTERLUDE." M-G-M's picturization of Eugene O'Neill's Pulitzer prize play, starring Norma Shearer, with Clark Gable, Ralph Morgan, Alexander Kirkland, Henry B. Walthall, May Robson, Robert Young and Maureen O'Sullivan. Directed by Robert Z. Leonard. Reviewed Friday evening by Dorothea Lewis.

This is not only a brave attempt but a fairly successful one for it has resulted in the making of an interesting picture, and an intelligent one, from a play which has had as much wordage written about it as is in its nine acts.

Mr. O'Neill has failed, as far as we know, to speak his piece about the filming of his strange saga, neither joining the disgruntled film of Dreiser-Hemingway, et al., nor chortling with the delighted Sinclair (Arrowsmith) Lewis. So whether or not this is a genuine, authentic O'Neill to O'Neill, we can't know. Certainly it is lacking in the emotion and excellence of acting, the stage play boasted.

Both stage and screen versions having been on view here before, there is little need to recount the story of Nina, who loses her sweetheart in the war, her husband through a taint in his blood, her lover through his rebellion and, later, her sacrifice, her son to his sweetheart, and everyone but dear old Charlie, friend, confidant, brother, uncle, father, eternal background.

As to the movie's trick of revealing secret thoughts through close-ups showing the characters' changing facial expressions, but closed lips while the lines are spoken, we can't see that it is any less successful or more objectionable than the theater's stunt of freezing and speaking in a monotone.

We think Norma Shearer does a good piece of work, superior to her following, and much heralded, "Smiling Through." Her Nina is considerably more on the surface than the stage Nina (we saw Pauline Lord), more tears, less repression, but then, the whole motion picture is keyed nearer the surface. With the omission of many of O'Neill's longest speeches, most amazing and telling thoughts, and beautiful words, the play has not only been shortened from five hours to two, it has been shorn of a certain mysticism, meaning and depth it originally possessed. By the same token, the movie Nina and Ned and other characters become slightly more human, natural and understandable, less neurotic—and less O'Neill.

Miscast as he is, somewhat less at home than some of the others in speaking his secret thoughts, burdened under tons of powder in his old age, Clark Gable yet succeeds in being distinctly moving in his scenes with his son and rather adequate, to us, in the remainder of the play.

Both Tad Alexander as the little Gordon and Robert Young as the big, are splendid in their all-too-brief roles. Alexander Kirkland is very satisfactory in the rather ungrateful part of Sam, though his pillow-padding paunch is a little distressing.

Even shortened as it is, the picture seems rather long, slow, very serious but intensely interesting, well worth seeing and well made. Director Leonard deserves praise for his courage and much of his result; Photographer Lee Garmes for clear and vivid pictures.

We laughed at Laurel and Hardy's "Scram," but it may have been the reaction from the somber "Interlude."

METROPOLITAN

"SILVER DOLLAR." First National picturization of a screen play by Carl Erickson and Harvey Thew, based on the book by David Karsner, starring Edward G. Robinson, with Aline McMahon, Bebe Daniels, De Witt Jennings, Emmett Corrigan, Russell Simpson, Robert Warwick, Niles Welch and scores more. Directed by Alfred E. Green.

Faithful in its depiction of the highlights and shadows in the life of an authentic figure in the early development of Colorado, and backgrounding his biography with a sketchy but colorful outline of the circumstances and conditions surrounding the gold rush and subsequent rich silver strike that converted the little village of St. Charles into the thriving city of Denver, this fine vehicle for the talents of Edward G. Robinson, Aline McMahon and Bebe Daniels has proved its right to a second week at the Metropolitan.

In the character of Yates Martin, the central personality in the fabulous story of the world's most profligate spendthrift, Mr. Robinson has a role that runs the gamut of human experience, from poverty through the early days of struggle for a livelihood to the grubstaking of prospectors and the consequent flood of wealth that made him the symbol of riches in his community—a visionary who dreamed golden dreams and fulfilled many of them before the collapse of silver reduced him to the penury from which he had so suddenly emerged. It is an actor's fine opportunity and Mr. Robinson avails himself of it finely.

Miss McMahon, one of the screen's most reliable actresses, and Miss Daniels, one of its most competent and most beautiful players, acquit themselves with high credit as the first and second wives of the man whose vast prodigality attracted the attention even of the White House in Washington.

The bill is augmented by a variety of seasonable short-reel features, in addition to a new issue of the Paramount Sound News.

LOEW'S FOX

"FAST LIFE." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picturization, of "Let's Go," by E. J. Rath, adapted to the screen by Bryan Morgan and Ralph Spence, featuring William Haines, Madge Evans, Conrad Nagel and Cliff Edwards. Directed by Harry Pollard. Reviewed Friday evening by W. A. Whitney.

Here is where Old Man 1932 goes out with a bang and that young feller, 1933, comes into the world with a whole flock of hurrahs; it's all on account of Bill Haines' strutting of his stuff as a marine motor designer in "Fast Life." And if you don't believe that it's a fast yarn, just hie yourselves to Loew's Fox and see that climacteric speedboat race.

What a story, and what a cast!

All you really need to do is to read the italicized paragraph above and you have the whole story. As with other William Haines yarns, it matters little what the gossamer thread of narrative may be, it is the same old Bill Haines, whose typical and particular brand of "modesty" is always welcome.

Here, in case you still care to know, Bill gets out of the Navy with a grand idea of making speedboats with a gasolene turbine engine which will drive the craft at a speed of anywhere up to 150 miles per hour. He finally sells the big idea to an about-to-be-bankrupt builder of racing boats. Things go haywire, and Bill and Cliff Edwards purloin the boat and, after eluding the harbor police and remodeling the craft, enter it in the big race—and, of course, come through, smoothing out all the little differences that had earlier crept into the story.

Usually Bill Haines has any picture about all to himself, but here, while he is still the central character, and the most important one, he is hard pressed by Cliff Edwards, whose role of Bumpy, the mechanic, is easily the funniest one he has ever had. Madge Evans has the opposite lead as the charming, though at times unreasonable, daughter of boat-building tycoon, played by Arthur Byron. Conrad Nagel, as the receiver bank president—and "front" for a gang of rum-runners—and rival for Miss Evans' hand, is well cast and does a good job even though the part, per se, is somewhat insignificant. Others in the supporting cast are Warburton Gamble, Kenneth Thomson, Albert Gran and Ben Hendricks.

Heading the stage show is Belle Baker, the well-known singing star of the stage, screen and radio (not to be confused with the other Belle, the late Miss Bennett), in a group of character songs, including "How Deep Is the Ocean," "Fit as a Fiddle" and "When the Wondering Boy Comes Home." Next in line are Dick and Edith Barstow, whose toe-tapping on a set of steps is particularly praiseworthy. Assisting the Barstows in the entr'actes is Phil Fine's fine singing, especially of the popular hit "Sleepy Time Down South."

Paul and Nino Ghezzi open the program with a series of strong-arm, slow-motion acrobatics that really deserved a better reception. Benny Ross, with impersonations of stage favorites and a group of songs, assisted by that personification of indolence, Maxine Stone, come on next. The act of Sid Gold and Don Raye, "Tap-ics of the Day," is a slap-stick tap mixture, with the operators of the spotlights the real stars.

COLUMBIA

"HERITAGE OF THE DESERT." Paramount picturization of the Zane Grey novel, adapted to the screen by Harold Shumate and Frank Partos, featuring Randolph Scott, Sally Blane and Gordon Westcott, with J. Farrell MacDonald, David Landau, Guinn Williams and Vincent Barnett. Directed by Henry Hathaway. Reviewed Friday night by M. A. McAvitt.

These Zane Grey romances of the wide-open spaces appeal to thousands of cooped-up city dwellers, who are thrilled by scenery on the grand scale, the rough-and-tumble existence of the cow country, lots of action and melodrama showing the bold lover, the brave heroine and villains who seem to command more admiration than their more modern prototype, the Tuxedo-garbed and slick-haired gangster.

As the acting in this tale of the great West is more realistic and the plot more plausible, we believe that enthusiasts of cow-punching drama will find "Heritage of the Desert" even more tonic in quality than many of its predecessors.

Here are the ingredients, and we think you will not find the result too difficult to swallow. A ranch surrounded by mountains, canyons and a desert, a benign old rancher, a spirited and quite charming daughter of the golden West, a misled and untrustworthy son, lover of the gal; a handsome surveyor, a malevolent-looking proprietor of a saloon, who has designs on the old man's ranch; his dumb henchman, Lefty; the genial chief cook and bottlewasher, Windy; a marauding bear attacking sheep and later the girl.

The girl is saved on the edge of a cliff; the green-eyed monster goes on a rampage; fights in the ranch, in the mountains, in the saloon; hard-riding, clumping of high-heeled cowboy boots, wild ride of heroine and the singing of "Rock of Ages" round the campfire, because the old man likes it. Indian sheepherder rides for help; the posse comes; beloved Windy is killed as he saves the hero; villain is killed. Sweethearts and father ride away from the scene; all is well.

Randolph Scott and Sally Blane, an ideal couple, figure in an early morning sunrise idyll that deserves special comment. Gordon Westcott, as the untrustworthy and jealous rival, played his part well. Vincent Barnett always plays his role humorously and sympathetically. David Landau was a commendable bad man and J. Farrell MacDonald, in the part of the rancher, excellent.

The rest of the evening's amusement included a diverting travelogue, "Hodge Podge Traffic in Many Lands," a Hal Roach comedy, and the Paramount News.

CONCERT PRESENTED BY COMPOSERS CLUB

Music Teachers Are Guests at Program of Works by D. C. Artists.

As a fitting close to an eventful week for the Music Teachers' National Association, the Washington Composers Club presented yesterday afternoon in its honor at the Phillips Memorial Gallery, a concert of chamber music before an audience of nearly 300, including many delegates and guests of the association.

The program was composed of the works of local people and included pieces by Dorothy Radde Emery, Karl Holer, LaSalle Spier, Mary Howe and R. Deane Shure, and played by the Ferrara String Quartet (Louis Ferrara, Antonio Ferrara, George Wago, Sidney Hamer), augmented by Domenico Iascone and Herman Sorti, flutists, and Evelyn Randall, soprano, and Harlan Randall, barytone.

"A Cycle of Six Songs," a musical interpretation of episodes in Robert Browning's "Pippa Passes," composed by Mr. Spier, was the high point of the afternoon. The selections, "Day," "And You Are Ever By Me," "Overhead the Treetops Meet," "But Winter Hastens at Summer's End," "Oh, What a Drear, Dark Close to My Poor Day," and "New Year's Hymn," played by the string quartet and piano, with Mrs. Randall as soloist, were especially delightful, the general numbers reflecting perfectly the words of the poet.

From the pen of Mr. Shure was selected his "Potomac Pastels"—"Mist Above the Whirlpool," "Chest of the Mirrored Stars," "Wind in the Reeds"—played by the instrumental septette, with Mr. Spier at the piano.

The "Ballade Fantasque" of Mrs. Howe, and "Romance" and "Berceuse," of Mr. Holer, were effectively interpreted by their composers.

Opening the program was Mrs. Emery's "Tropic Suite," composed of "Bali" (a duet), "The Desert Call" (barytone solo), "Tropic Dawn" (soprano solo), and "New Moon" (a duet), with violin, 'cello and flute, and the composer at the piano.

Diver Fails to Find Air Crash Victims

Plane Wreckage and Two Bodies Still Missing in Atlantic.

Nahant, Mass., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Police and Coast Guards, with the aid of a diver, today searched the waters off Nahant for the bodies of two Harvard students, who were in a plane which fell into the ocean yesterday. The men sought were Donald McKay Frost, of Boston, and Edward Mallinckrodt 3d, of St. Louis, son of one of America's largest chemical manufacturers.

A buoy was placed at what was reported to be the spot where the plane disappeared soon after the accident, but a diver went down today and said he could not find the wreckage of the plane.

While the search was being made the body of a man was found floating in the waters off nearby Lynn. Police believed the man had no connection with the airplane accident.

REICH AND ENGLAND MUST PAY COAL TAX

(Associated Press.)

The Federal Government will resume immediately collection of the $2 a ton tax on coal imports from Germany and Great Britain.

F. X. A. Eble, collector of customs, sent out the order yesterday as soon as the Treasury Department received a ruling by Attorney General Mitchell that any test of the levy's legality should be made in the courts.

Mitchell made the ruling at the request of Secretaries Mills, of the Treasury, and Stimson, of the State Department. The Treasury stopped collection of the tax when the State Department advised it that the levy violated most-favored-nation treaties with Germany and Great Britain.

The coal tax section of the last revenue act provided that nations which received more coal from the United States than they shipped to this country would be exempt. Canada was the only nation materially affected by the clause.

British coal interests then complained they were not receiving as favorable treatment in the coal trade as was Canada.

"Considering all the various factors in the case," Mitchell wrote, "I am clearly of the opinion that the proper course is for me to refrain from concurring in the action of the Treasury Department reversing its original rulings and allow the tax to stand, in order that the question may be judicially determined on protest and litigation by the importers."

Son Who Slew Mountain 'Lord' Draws Life Term

Uniontown, Pa., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—George Tate, 19, who pleaded guilty to slaying his father, Iley S. Tate, mountain "lord," was sentenced to life imprisonment today by Judge S. John Morrow.

Sam Tate, 15, was sent to Huntingdon (Pa.) Reform School, and John, 21, the third brother, who admitted he received a part of the $200, which was removed from the dead mountaineer's pockets, was placed on parole. Tate, who resided in a desolate mountain retreat near Bruceton Mills, W. Va., was shot to death on a rocky trail near Haydentown, Pa., a short distance across the West Virginia line.

GEORGIA DEAN URGES REVISED "AMATEUR" RULE

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THE baseball figure filberts, those gentlemen of serious mien, who purvey the "dope" for big league fans whose interest runs to averages, have unearthed some pertinent facts concerning the American League pitchers, which this department herewith passes on.

Oral Hildebrand, Cleveland rookie, in his first year in the majors, won five games and lost four in battles with the Yankees, Athletics and Nats, indicating that Manager Peckinpaugh didn't pick his spots for the youngster.

Lefty Grove and Lefty Gomez were the only two American League pitchers who did not lose a series with any club. Of course, Grove never had to face the Athletics, and Gomez was immune to the war clubs of the Yanks.

Charley Ruffing, of the Yanks, won four straight games from Cleveland while losing none, and bowled over the Nats in four out of five engagements.

Tom Bridges, of Detroit, was the Nats' greatest nemesis, winning five and losing none against Washington. Dave Harris spoiled a no-hit game for Bridges by singling with two out in the ninth.

Earl Whitehill, now a Nat, hung up five victories in six games against the Browns. He is supposed to strengthen the Nats against the Yankees, but last season Whitehill had the dubious distinction of losing five straight to New York.

Crowder lost a series to only one club—Philadelphia—winning from the Mackmen twice and losing four times.

Montie Weaver was the Nats' best bet against the Athletics, winning five out of six starts against the Mackmen.

Lloyd Brown served the Nats best against the Yankees with four victories and three defeats to show for his efforts against New York.

Bob Kline, of the Red Sox, had varying success, winning six straight from Washington and losing five straight to Philadelphia.

Ted Lyons, of the White Sox, failed to win a game in three starts against Washington.

Fred Marberry's winning percentage was dealt a rude blow by the Browns, who accounted for three of the four defeats he suffered. Cleveland was the only other team to pin a defeat on Marberry.

Revolta's 66 Sets Record At Miami

Pro, 21, Is 4 Under Par to Lead in $2,000 Open.

Shute, Rouse Shoot 67s; Barnett, D. C. Pro, Contender.

MIAMI SPRINGS, Fla., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—John Revolta, 21-year-old professional from Menominee, Mich., broke the Miami Springs golf course record after it had been twice lowered today, and led the field in the $2,000 Miami open golf tournament with a sparkling 33—33—66, four strokes under par and two under the previous course record.

Revolta, runner-up in the recent $10,000 Miami Biltmore open, reported his score late in the day, after Benny Shute, of Cleveland, and John (Sonny) Rouse, of Chicago, had lowered by one stroke the course record of 68 established last winter by Tommy Armour, of Detroit.

Sarazen Remains In Running.

Gene Sarazen, rated the principal threat in the tourney in the absence of Armour, last year's winner, was able to keep within final scoring honors with a 35—36—71.

Revolta's performance surprised the field of 133 players who made the first round today.

He started off leisurely enough, in the face of a light wind that swept the course, and made his first four holes in par figures.

He sank an eagle 3 on the fifth after a beautiful approach, and counted the fourth of his eleven one-putt greens. Par 4 was scored on the sixth, but he slipped 1 above on the seventh and took a 5. He had a birdie deuce on the eighth and stood even with par on the ninth for a 4.

Still working miracles in his approach and putter shots, Revolta went into the back nine as one of the two players scoring a 33 on the outbound nine. Rouse was the other.

Revolta was down on the tenth for a birdie 3, but lost this advantage with a 4, 1 over par, on the eleventh. He had a par 4 on the twelfth, a birdie 4 on the thirteenth, and a par 3 on the fourteenth.

Finishes With Birdie.

He scored a par 5 on the long fifteenth, the hole that cost many strokes to the field today, and was even with par on the sixteenth and seventeenth holes. A birdie 3 on the eighteenth gave him his record-breaking mark.

His card:

Given Release

CHARLEY JAMIESON.

INDIANS GIVE JAMIESON RELEASE

Fleet Outfielder Ends 17-Year Term in Majors.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Charley Jamieson—an outfielder of seventeen summers in the major leagues—got his unconditional release from the Cleveland Indians today.

The one and only Jamie for Cleveland fans paid the price of age and illness. He is in his forty-first year and dropped out in midseason last year with partial paralysis from sinus.

Traded to Tribe by A's in 1919.

Jamieson entered the big leagues in 1915 and came to Cleveland in 1919 from the Athletics. He already was acquiring a reputation as one of the fastest fielding performers in the league. His batting became better as the years went on, and when his release came today he had a seventeen-year average of .304 at the plate.

With the release of the veteran Jamie, the Indians lost the last of the men on the team that captured the only pennant Cleveland ever won—in 1920. All the rest have been traded or paid the penalty of age.

It has been Jamieson's philosophy that he would remain at the throttle in the majors until he wasn't needed any more, and for that reason last year he turned down the management of the Toledo American Association Club after the Indians had acquired it on option.

Unconditional Release Surprise to Jamieson

Paterson, N. J., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Charles Jamieson, veteran outfielder on the Cleveland Indians, when informed tonight of his release by the club he has served for thirteen years, was "greatly surprised."

"I have not as yet been notified of my release by the Cleveland management, and have no plans for the future," he stated. "Although I'll be 40 years old in February, I feel I still have a lot of good baseball in me yet. I am feeling better physically than I have in some time, and the partial paralysis of my face, which affected my sight last year and caused me to drop activities in mid-August, has left me completely. I was waiting for a chance to 'come back' this year."

Retrenchment Hits Poughkeepsie Race

New York, Dec. 30 (U.P.).—Fear was felt in various college athletic gatherings today that lowering of budgets for the coming year would result in cancellation, or possible loss of the championship character, of the annual Poughkeepsie rowing regatta.

Definite decision on the matter is not expected for several weeks, however, when the colleges that usually participate in this event complete their budgets.

Pennsylvania, for one, has already made a budget that does not include a trip to Poughkeepsie, it was learned. Cornell and Syracuse are not expected to vote the trip when they hold a budget meeting shortly.

Washington and Wisconsin have already announced temporary abandonment of the race, while Massachusetts Institute of Technology has begun a general curtailment of sport expenses.

Columbia, Navy and California thus are the only three crews left.

Pitt, Trojans End Drills On Coast

Rose Bowl Coaches Now Concentrate on Mental Conditions.

Overconfidence Fear of Jones; 50,000 Tickets Sold.

By BRIAN BELL.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Southern California and Pittsburgh football opponents Monday in the annual West-East Rose Bowl classic, were living in the future rather than the present today. To all practical purposes preparations for the big battle were completed and only a few final chores remained.

Southern California held its final practice, a rather perfunctory one, on its home field and packed up for a move to Pasadena to test the Rose Bowl turf in the last workout tomorrow.

At the same time Pitt was going through a brief schedule at Tucson, Ariz., with another equally brief one on tap for tomorrow, after which the Panthers will entrain for Pasadena.

Reider Is Lone Casualty.

The physical condition of the two star teams was excellent. Only Capt. Paul Reider, Pittsburgh half back, will be kept out of the starting lineup by injuries suffered in mid-November.

Players of both teams were reported down to weight and Coaches Howard Jones and Jock Sutherland were concerned about keeping them in fit physical and mental condition for the game, which many observers will regard as a national titular clash.

Jones frankly feared overconfidence on the part of his Trojans. He pointed out to the players the Eastern visitors have outgained the Westerners 2,969 yards to 2,397, and Pitt's opponents have piled up only 1,457 yards while teams opposing U. S. C. have gained 1,475 yards.

Southern California players do not talk back to their coach so the athletes are discreetly silent, but outside supporters of the the Trojans recalled that Pitt played one more game than Southern California, which might account for the superior yardage gained, and that, regardless of the offensive efforts of Southern California's opponents only two touchdowns have been scored against Jones' team.

Supporters of the Trojans pointed, too, to the fact they will be out to win their twentieth straight game, no small football feat in any league, and will be charged with the responsibility of keeping their Rose Bowl slate clean. They have won three games there.

Panthers Seek First Coast Win.

This, too, works both ways, for Pitt has a matter of a 17-to-14 defeat at the hands of Southern California in this same rose bowl to wipe out and a chance to break into the victory column. The Panthers have played twice at Pasadena, losing once by an eyelash and the other time by several parasangs.

Pittsburgh, leaving Tuscon tomorrow night, will reach Pasadena Sunday morning and avoid excitement until game time, in another hotel close to the battlefield.

About 50,000 tickets have been sold and more than 30,000 remain in the box offices. Estimates have placed the attendance at between 65,000 and 75,000.

Lenore Knight Breaks Helene Madison Mark

Miami, Dec. 30 (U.P.).—A swimming record that experts thought would stand for years was shattered in the second session of the national Olympic stars' aquatic meet in the Miami-Biltmore Country Club pool today when Lenore Knight, Homestead, Pa., clipped nine and two-fifths seconds from Helen E. Madison's world record for the 500-meter free-style swim.

The 17-year-old Pennsylvania girl, member of the 1932 Olympic Team, covered the course in 7:02:6, blasting the previous mark of 7:12, set in 1931 by the Seattle flash at Detroit.

Meanwhile, 15-year-old Katharine Rawls spent her second day swimming by breaking another record. This time it was the 300 medley swim from which she clipped three and two-fifths seconds from the mark of 4:16 made by Eleanor Holm. Yesterday Miss Rawls broke three marks.

POST MORTEMS . . .

Central's "C" Clubmen are agitating for a change in football coaches, and Mort Wilner is the unanimous choice for the job . . . Lack of funds prevents the club from manipulating a clever scheme to obtain Wilner . . . Orrel Mitchell would be willing to pit the all-high combinations against any local college eleven . . . G. W. included . . . Joe Holman's pet jinx, rain, couldn't annoy him at the Auditorium . . . it snowed instead . . . Western's Alumni Quintet has challenged Tech's, and the latter has accepted . . . A little publicity, suitable hour, and two bits admission would net a tidy sum . . . for charity . . . Frankie Mann's son, Francis, is a pretty good half back, and will play on the all-high eleven . . . Tech's team will be the lightest, and skinniest, in the series . . . average weight is 125 pounds . . . amateur basket ball is booming.

Jim Pixlee isn't adverse to that Chicago U. position . . . Dutch Bergman has lined up a dozen or so local high school boys for C. U. . . . Lynn Woodworth longs for an assistant at Roosevelt, one who could relieve him of the football coaching duties . . . among the forgotten men is the four-letter high school athlete of former years . . . the last was Central's George Brandt . . . Notre Dame formerly regarded basket ball as a side issue . . . its teams consequently played in the fieldhouse on a dirt floor . . . Joe Turner's world's championship belt is on display at Fred Pelzman's . . . Estimates of its value range from a "fin" to thousands . . . Tommy Mills is interested in only one of the three bids for his valuable services . . . Referee Cyclone Burns, who was rendered hors de combat and had to be carried from the ring Thursday night at the Auditorium wrestling matches, was gone when reporters sought to interview him a half hour later . . . Burns, by the way, is chief initiation mogul in this diocese of the Knights of Columbus . . . Teddy Hughes isn't bothered by disgruntled alumni . . . probably because grid coaches capable of conversing in the sign language are scare.

Plane Trip Costs Primo Two Fares

Italian "Man Mountain" Is Forced to Use Seats Usually Allotted Pair.

Dallas, Tex., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—The bulk which Primo Carnera uses to advantage in walloping opponents around the prize ring proved a bit expensive to the "man mountain" when he arranged a plane trip to New York today.

The huge Italian, who has been barnstorming in Texas recently, went to Love Field for a "fitting." He found it impossible to squeeze into a single seat so adjustments were made and he was assigned space ordinarily occupied by two passengers.

So far as the air transport people were concerned, that made him all the same as two passengers and he paid a double fare. He planned to leave tomorrow morning.

COACHES SEE VICTORY FOR TROJANS

13 Out of 14 Predict Southern California Win Over Pitt.

NEW YORK, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—If football coaches know their football Southern California should defeat Pittsburgh in the Rose Bowl game at Pasadena, Monday.

Of 14 polled by the World-Telegram all but Earle (Greasy) Neale, of West Virginia, picked the Trojans to win. Neale thinks the Southern California team reached its peak against Notre Dame and that "the psychology is with Pitt."

Excerpts from the statements of other coaches:

LOU LITTLE, Columbia—I like Southern California.

DOC SPEARS, Wisconsin—The Trojans have everything.

MAJ. RALPH SASSE, Army—It may be a very close game.

HARVERY HARMAN, Pennsylvania—Southern California.

HARRY STUHLDREHER, Villanova—Southern California is my choice on the strength of what it showed against a Notre Dame team that was better than when it lost to Pitt.

JIMMY CROWLEY, Michigan State—All I know is what I read in the papers. Southern California seems to have the power.

DR. AL SHARPE, Washington (St. Louis)—It looks like Southern California to me.

FRITZ CRISLER, Princeton—If the Trojans cover Heller's forward passes they should whip Pittsburgh.

JOHN LAW, former Notre Dame captain and coach at Sing Sing—Those boys are tough on their home lot.

Miss Palfrey to Play Detroit Girl in Finals

Brookline, Mass., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—A girl from Detroit will face a Massachusetts girl for the national girls' indoor tennis championship tomorrow as a result of semifinal matches played today on the Longwood Cricket Club covered courts.

Miss Helen Grawn, of Detroit, and Miss Joanna Palfrey, of Sharon, qualified for the eleventh girls' championship. Miss Grawn defeated Miss Louise Harding, of Brookline, 3—6, 6—1, 6—4, while Miss Palfrey beat Miss Helen Jones, of Swampscott, last year's runner-up, in straight sets, 6—4, 6—2. Miss Palfrey was top seeded in the draw.

There was no play in the doubles today.

California Ring Chiefs Are Sour on Fields

Oakland, Calif., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Referring to boxing as a "mess," John Hassler, State athletic commissioner, today said Jackie Fields, welterweight champion, will have to fight Young Corbett "somewhere in California before he takes part in other bouts."

Hassler said it was "high time something was being done about a situation that enables Fields, champion, to go on dodging a title fight with his only real challenger in this State, Young Corbett, of Fresno."

Commissioner Hassler said he would oppose any more nontitle bouts for Fields. The latter meets Eddie Murdock in San Diego tonight. The title will not be at stake. Hassler directed much of his attack against Jack Kearns, manager of Fields.

"I see where Kearns declares through various of his spokesmen that Fields will not fight Young Corbett, but will be searching for other opponents," he commented.

Bausch Voted Outstanding Amateur

Olympic Star Wins Sullivan Award for 1932.

Carr, Penn Sprinter, Second in Voting; 100 Nominated.

NEW YORK, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—James Aloysius Bausch, of the Kansas City Athletic Club, Olympic decathlon champion and world-record holder, tonight was awarded the James E. Sullivan memorial medal as the amateur athlete who "has done most during the past year to advance the cause of sportsmanship."

Bausch won in a close battle of ballots with Bill Carr, crack quarter miler, of the University of Pennsylvania, who climaxed a sensational year of competition by winning the Olympic 400-meter championship.

Bausch's Margin Is 39 Votes.

Bausch received a total of 687 votes against 648 for Carr. These two distanced the balance of the field of ten candidates for whom ballots were cast as follows:

Ralph Hill, Oregon, second to Lauri Lehtinen, of Finland, in the exciting Olympic 5,000-meter run, 393 votes.

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, British and French women's tennis champion, 319 votes.

W. Barry Wood, football, hockey and baseball star at Harvard, 151 votes.

100 Nominated For Award.

Over 100 names originally were recommended to the Sullivan memorial committee of the A. A. U. by the tribunal for the award. In making their nominations, the members of the tribunal were asked to take into consideration acts of sportsmanship, excellence of performance, strength of character, qualities of leadership, force of personality and high ideals of amateurism.

Bausch was a star all-around athlete as an undergraduate at the University of Kansas, competing in track, football and basket ball. He turned down professional offers for two years in order to remain in training for the 1932 Olympics, when he set up a new world's record in winning the decathlon title.

He is the third winner of the Sullivan medal. Bobby Jones was selected in 1930 and Barney Berlinger, all-around athlete of the University of Pennsylvania, in 1931.

OKESON NEW GRID RULES CHAIRMAN

Group Due to Grapple Again With Causes of Accidents.

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

NEW YORK, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—The football rules committe, formally charged with the task of taking such further steps as may be essential to safeguard the game and its players, was organized for 1933 today by the election of Walter R. Okeson, of Lehigh University, Bethlehem, Pa., as chairman to succeed the late Edward Kimball Hall.

In addition to this anticipated choice of a new chief executive of gridiron lawmakers, the National Collegiate Athletic Association reelected William S. Langford, of New York, as secretary, increased the membership of the rules committee from ten to eleven by making Amos Alonzo Stagg, of Chicago, a life member, and named Fielding H. Yost, of Michigan, to replace Stagg as the Fourth District's representative.

The N. C. A. A. then concluded its annual convention by electing Maj. John L. Griffith, commissioner of the "Big Ten" as its new president, succeeding Dr. Charles W. Kennedy, of Princeton, who was made an honorary president. Dr. S. V. Sanford, of Georgia, withdrew his name, put forward by some of his friends as a candidate for the presidency. Chicago was chosen as the site of the next convention, December 29-30, 1933.

Friends Sought Post For Langford.

The combination of Okeson and Langford for the football committee officers was agreed upon harmoniously. Langford was boomed by his friends for the chairmanship, due to his long association with Hall, but he was prevailed upon to continue as secretary. Okeson is now commissioner of the Eastern Collegiate Conference, which handles the selec-

College Body Accused of Timidity

Sanford Urges Code Simliar to Rhodes Scholarship.

Says Present Rules of N. C. A. A. Are Out of Date.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

NEW YORK, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Dr. Steadman V. Sanford, dean of the University of Georgia, rolled a verbal bombshell between the legs of the complacent delegates to the National Collegiate Athletic Association today and promptly started a movement for a new and sensible definition of an amateur athlete.

In a quiet drawl, never acrimonious, often smiling to take the edge from his words, the pleasant-voiced Southern educator asked the association point-blank why it gathered annually for days of discussion, and then did nothing about such pressing problems as football deaths and injuries, rules changes, proselyting and subsidization until forced into it by the weight of public opinion.

"Why can not this association modify the definition of an amateur in terms of the rules and regulations that govern the appointment of Rhodes scholars?" he asked.

Loans Should Be Open To All Students.

"I have never heard any criticism of that plan. Any position, loan or scholarship open to all students should be open to any student—athletic or nonathletic—but under our present rule it is not."

He pointed out that Rhodes scholars, chosen for a combination of athletic and scholastic ability as well as leadership, went to Oxford, England, to study and were accepted in that country as true amateurs.

"No Rhodes scholar has ever been denied the right and the privilege of representing his college in athletic competition," Dr. Sanford said, "despite the fact that his scholarship frankly comes in part from his athletic ability.

ENNIS WINS JEFFERSON PARK FEATURE BY SEVEN LENGTHS

Gilbert Wins 212th With Balthasar

Mills Rides McGonig to Easy Triumph in Seventh.

JEFFERSON PARK, New Orleans, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—The Cudgel Handicap, a dash of 6 furlongs for juveniles, attracted a batch of probable candidates for the Jefferson Derby, to be run the last day of the meeting, January 21, at which time they will be 3-year-olds. The Shandon Farm's Ennis, running right back to his recent victory, made his field look bad, winning in a common canter with seven lengths to spare over the heavily backed J. J. Robinson entry, Eva B. M. B. Cohen's Col. Hatfield was third, another length behind. The others were well beaten.

Paul T., winner of the Jefferson Futurity, broke slowly, was in the worst going and failed to respond to urging, beating only Big Leaguer. The winner, receiving plenty of weight from Col. Hatfield and Padi T., paid $10.20, and his time was 1:16 4-5, made over a heavy track. Rain started to fall after the race and a strong wind was blowing up.

Ennis was fortunate in getting a slight break at the start. However, the speed horse, Col. Hatfield, rushed up and raced head and head with the ultimate winner, refusing to give up until entering the stretch, where he tired under the weight. Eva B., on the outside, caught the Colonel, but was distanced by the winner.

Dunny Boy Romps Home in Opener.

Dunny Boy, paying slightly more than 4 to 1, was on the head end for the entire six furlongs of the opening event, taking the purse from Inglenook, a field horse, by three lengths. Rain or Shine was third another two spans back. Bobby Montgomery booted Dunny Boy into a quick lead and the gelded son of Dunlin, showing a liking for the going which his breeding would indicate, easily outfooted the field while keeping to the inside path. Inglenook, by saving ground, closed a wide gap in the final quarter. Copper, after showing early foot, flattened out badly in the worst footing and dealt favorite players a severe blow.

Johnny Gilbert had little more than a joy ride astride the speedy Balthasar, which broke on top and spreadeagled his field throughout the second race. Gilbert's 212th winner clicked by five lengths to pay $5.40. Don't Touch, paying $56.40 for place, was just as easily second over Beau Wrack. Dollar Princess broke very slowly and had no chance. The three placed horses raced in the same formation they finished for the entire trip.

GOLF THRILLS of 1932

By PAUL MICKELSON
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

GENE SARAZEN'S fondest boast is that he, and he alone, can get Walter Hagen's goat.

But Sir Walter put one over on him one warm day last summer at Ridgemoor, Chicago, where he paired with Jose Jurado, of the Argentine, against Sarazen and Tommy Armour in a special match with lavish side bets.

"I am going to get a birdie on the first hole," Walter told Jurado as they headed for Chicago, "and I'll talk about it so much that I'll get Sarazen's goat and hold it all the way."

Jurado laid a good wager on the line that his partner wouldn't get that birdie.

All members of the foursome except Hagen smashed long, pretty drives off the first tee, and the joshing was frightful at Walter's expense. His ball hit some deep rough about 135 yards from the green.

But he fooled them. Hauling out his mashie niblick, he hit the ball clean and true. It stopped dead 2 inches from the pin. His birdie was easy. The other three got par fours.

"That was some shot, some shot," Hagan shouted as he kept touring the course. "I told you I'd make it. Watch this one."

GALLAUDET BEATEN BY COLUMBUS

Farrell, Norris Star as Blues Succumb by 26-17 Score.

GOOD old Columbus U. and a couple of boys who earned their spurs in better known colleges a few years back, wrecked Gallaudet's young winning streak last night at Tech High School in a game that saw the Blue trailing, 26 to 17, at the final whistle.

Tubba Farrell, who captained Holy Cross' powerful quintet in his senior year, and Walter Morris, former Georgetown captain, were chiefly responsible for the derailment of Gallaudet's five. Together they scored 14 points, or almost enough to win the game. Of course, there was a full complement of men playing for the future Barristers, but the others were overshadowed by the brilliant performances of their confreres.

Gallaudet, after winning its first two starts, entered the fray with high hopes and unbounded enthusiasm, but hopes were dimmed and enthusiasm turned to grim effort as Columbus gradually but certainly forged ahead. The score at the half stood 14 to 8, Columbus.

Antila, Brown and Rayhill were outstanding for the Blue. The trio thrilled the crowd with long, looping shots from side court, which frequently found their mark. Gallaudet enjoyed mediocre success in working the ball in close to the basket in the first half, but the Crimson's defense tightened in the second and the Kendall Green aggregation was obliged to call its long-range guns into play for points.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: JEFFERSON PARK, DECEMBER 30.

Well, pal, I have some real news for you today. Yes siree, Bill Bennings, the kid himself, was blanked for the first time in two weeks or more. I've been over the card backwards and forwards and I'm still shutout, skunked or what was that word the Greeks had for it? Almost thrown out of the press box for trying to make Drury beat McGonigle in the last. My one, two, three picks were dashing all around in the money, but that doesn't count in my win column. About the only thing I did pick was the weather. The stars were making a game effort last night when I told you the next fast track here would be next summer. This morning the course dried somewhat, but old man rain came to my rescue along about the fifth race. So I had to go back to the mud book again tonight. That's what these people get for voting the wet ticket. BILL.

FIRST RACE—DR. PARRISH is the class of this race regardless of the outcome. However, I don't believe his handlers will pass up this spot. FAYLIN has enough speed to take care of the others. HAPPY LAD comes to me well recommended, but third is best I can hand him.

SECOND RACE—PANCHIO and Gilbert appear to be a winning combination here. There's little chance for a slip up, although the price will be nothing to write home about. TENNYWOOD and SHIFT for the place and show.

THIRD RACE—FIGURISTE has shown good form at this course and looks like another standout. FLIRTING is likely to do the principal chasing. It might be profitable to note that FLORA CANTER is among the entries. This one was groomed for a killing many weeks ago and may surprise yet.

FOURTH RACE—SOUTHLAND LAD may be another Gilbert mount. Has shown considerable speed in local races. Might win at a good price. NEWGRO and PACHECO for the rest.

FIFTH RACE—TRY IT can win this if they choose to let her run in the stretch. Of course, DURVA and EL PUMA will be up there fighting it out at the sixteenth pole and ready to divide the top two places unless it is TRY IT'S day.

SIXTH RACE—INDICATIVE is the natural choice in this, although I have a feeling that THE FRENCH ROSE is going to show a surprising effort. JAZ AGE could be third. A year ago JAZ AGE would have run backward and taken these.

SEVENTH RACE—FRANCOCK was something of a mud sensation at one time in Maryland. Heard a whisper that things are picking up with this one. Has as much right to stage a wake-up party as Hold Hard and some others. Worth an across-the-board wager at track odds, if obtainable. MORSNUFF and CROWNED HEAD for the place battle.

THE POST'S CONSENSUS AT JEFFERSON PARK

Veteran Fighters On Portner's Card

Goodman and Brown Face Promising Youngsers in Stetz and Manley.

Two veterans, schooled from the ground floor of pugilism, and two youngsters attempting to get a foothold in the procession, will headline the bill at Portner's Arena Tuesday night.

The two youngsters are Tony Stetz, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., and Roy Manley, clever southpaw welterweight, under the direction of Harry Groves. The veterans are Buster Brown and Joey Goodman. Manley has drawn Brown and Stetz must steer clear of Goodman's potent thrusts.

Goodman's appearance here brings back a gladiator who has trounced Billy Wallace and the sensational Billy Townsend. Before an audience that paid something like $32,000, Joey twice floored Wallace and went on to whip such other stars as Benny Bass, Sammy Mandell, Gabby Bagdad, Maxie Strub and Johnny Hayes.

In facing Manley, Buster Brown is running into a great southpaw prospect and as willing a youngster as has drawn on the padded mitts for warfare at the Alexandria arena.

Roy's great victory over Bobby Burns showed the clients that he can punch, catches well and is a fair boxer.

HECHT GAINS SEMIFINALS IN TENNIS

Penn Junior Nearing His Third Straight Junior Crown.

NEW YORK, Dec. 30 (U.P.).—Marco Hecht, of the University of Pennsylvania, advanced nearer to his third straight title in the national junior singles tennis tournament today when he scored a 6—1 6—0 victory over Willard E. Ingalls, jr., of Harvard, in the quarter-finals.

Hecht hopes to win the title for the third time and thus equal a record set by Vinnie Richards a decade ago.

Hecht's opponent in the semifinals tomorrow will be John Nogrady, St. Johns College, who defeated Bernard Friedman, University of North Carolina, 3—6, 7—5, 6—1.

In the other quarter-final matches, Richard K. Hebard, Hill School, who is seeded No. 2, defeated Sumner Rodman, Harvard, 9—7, 6—3 and Giles Verstraten, Kelvin School, eliminated Bernard Marcus, Cornell, 2—6, 6—3, 6—3.

Results of the quarter-final matches in the boys' division follow: William V. Winslow, Rochester, N. Y., defeated Robert Low, Collegiate School, 6—2, 4—6, 6—2; Arthur Friedman, New York, defeated Carl G. Nesbitt, jr., McBurney School, 9—11, 9—7, 6—4; Alfred Jarvis, Hackley School, defeated David Corson, Roselle, High School, 6—0, 6—2, and Albert Shapiro, Forest Park High School, defeated Nathan Ritzenberg New York, 6—2, 6—2 Jarvis, No. 1, is the only seeded player left in the boys division.

HOLY CROSS MAY SIGN BERGMAN

C. U. Coach Linked With Vacant Post at Worcester.

DUTCH BERGMAN, coach at Catholic University for the past three years, refused to deny or confirm last night that he is among several men being considered as coach of football at Holy Cross, to replace the deposed Capt. John J. McEwan. Bergman's three-year contract with C. U. expires in June.

Holy Cross, it is understood, will make no decision in regard to its coaching position until after January 9, the date on which it has been decided that Cross officials and Capt. McEwan will "go to bat" to clear up the remains of the situation which precipitated the suspension of McEwan just after Holy Cross lost to Brown. McEwan took his case to the courts, but both sides dropped the matter quietly.

Record Here Successful.

Bergman, who came to Washington from Minnesota and who was all-American half back with Notre Dame in 1919, has had eminent success with the local team. In his three years at the school the improvement in the team has been marked. In the last two years the team had the enviable record of fifteen wins, one tie and two losses, including a twelve-game winning streak.

Bergman was more interested last night in waiting for word from another old Notre Dameite, Gus Dorais, than in the possibility that he will be presented with the Holy Cross position. Dorais, coach at Detroit University, has tentatively promised to bring this noted team to Washington early next November to meet Catholic University in a game that probably will rank high among the grid attractions here next year. Bergman had hoped to close the deal at the meeting of coaches in New York this week, but Dorais was unable to attend because of an attack of grippe.

September Date Still Open.

Catholic University's schedule stacks up well for next season. It was planned to open the season against Holy Cross in Worcester on October 7, but Bergman is angling for a game with a nearby team for the last Saturday in September. It may be Mount St. Mary's Chattanooga and Wake Forest are expected to be numbered among C. U.'s opponents in Washington. Providence and C. C. N. Y. may also be played here. Manhattan will be played at New York.

If the Detroit game goes through (it is understood that the matter of guarantee money is slowing up the matter) it might be played at Griffith Stadium on a Saturday night in early November, if the stadium is taken by other local schools on Saturday afternoon or the preceding night.

LONDOS VS. STECHER.

Chicago, Dec. 30 (U.P.).—Joe Stecher, wrestling giant from Dodge, Nebr., and former champion, has signed to meet Jim Londos, titular claimant, in a one-hour time limit match at the Coliseum here on January 9.

M'LEAN TWICE WINN

Stocks Continue Advances In Another Buoyant Market

Gain of 1.3 Points Added as Sales Decline to 1,045,614 Shares.

New York, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Stocks ended the last five-hour trading day of 1932 with another advance.

Little affected by isolated weakness in the tobaccos, shares discovered that the line of least resistance was upward. With shorts beginning to cover for the holiday week-end, and tax selling reduced to cash transactions, the market found it fairly easy to rally, building its strength chiefly on a spurt by the copper and steel shares. The average gain was 1.3 points, virtually the same as Thursday's. Volume, however, dropped to 1,045,614 shares. Perhaps 10 per cent of the sales were for cash, which represented belated transactions for establishment of income tax losses.

Led by a 4-point break in Liggett & Myers "B," tobacco equities slumped heavily. Wall street heard reports that cigarette prices at wholesale were scheduled for a reduction, perhaps next week. This recalled recent discussions over the competition being offered popular and well-advertised brands by the newer, cheaper lines, a situation which professional stock traders have not ignored.

Revival of speculative interest in coppers accompanied gossip as to "new orders" for the metal which might be placed soon. Such business would help reduce existing stocks, but a substantial price increase would be necessary to restore profits for this hard-hit industry. Kennecott and Anaconda both rose about 1½ net, a healthy percentage gain for these low-priced shares.

United States Steel common, up 1½ at the best, held most of its gain and the preferred climbed 2, presumably a reflection of short repurchases. Bethlehem's gain was about the same. Westinghouse, International Telephone, Consolidated Gas, Western Union, Case, Southern Pacific, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, New York Central, Lackawanna and Chesapeake & Ohio rose 1 to 1½. Net gains of major fractional size were recorded by American Can, General Electric, General Motors, American Telephone, Texas Corporation and others.

THE MARKETS AT A GLANCE

What the Stock Market Did

	Friday.	Thursday.
Advances	435	321
Declines	73	321
Unchanged	177	221
Total issues traded	685	863

Stocks.

Advances were continued in another buoyant market. An average gain of 1.3 points was recorded. Sales declined to 1,045,614 shares.

Bonds.

Trading was cheerful. The volume of sales declined to $10,470,000, but the gain averaged nine-tenths of a point.

Curb.

Tax sales subsided and prices mounted from fractions to 4 points. The volume of trading dropped to 200,000 shares.

Wheat.

A cold wave forecast and an unexpected upturn in Liverpool prices resulted in wheat value gains. December wheat sold at 43⅜ to 43½ cents.

Cotton.

Prices declined 5 to 13 points under hedge selling and commission house liquidation. March closed at 6.00. Liverpool reported Bombay and continental buying.

U. S. TREASURY RECEIPTS.

(Associated Press.)

Treasury receipts for December 28 were $103,157,457.05; expenditures, $105,177,371.07; balance, $589,060,248.77; customs duties for 28 days of December were $18,637,264.27.

CURB CLIMBS HIGHER AS TAX SALES WANE

Fractions to 4 Points Rise Cheer Market; Dealing, 200,000 Shares.

New York, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—The torrent of tax sales which had washed over the curb market this week abated considerably today, and prices moved higher, from fractions to over 4 points. Transfers totaled 200,000 shares against 480,000 yesterday.

The utilities showed strength, although there was little by way of new developments beyond possibly a realization that electric power production was continuing to measure up fairly well in comparison with a year ago.

Mining shares were helped by firmness of copper shares on the stock exchange, which in turn was accompanied by unconfirmed rumors of some large pending metal purchases. Newmont gained a liberal fraction. New Jersey Zinc was up about a point.

Swift International moved up nearly a point and Swift & Co. was steady.

There was a subsiding of activity in leading oil shares, both Standard of Indiana and Gulf closing unchanged.

THE METAL MARKETS.

TIN—Steady; spot and nearby, 22.70; future, 22.85.
IRON—Quiet, unchanged.
LEAD—Steady; spot, New York, 3.00; East St. Louis, 2.87.
ZINC—Dull; East St. Louis spot and future, 3.12.
ANTIMONY—5.40.
QUICKSILVER—48.00@49.00.

GOODS MARKETS.

New York, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Light cotton goods trading was reported today with markets generally steady in unfinished lines, and irregular in those finished lines where year-end clearances are going on. Rayon was unchanged. Burlaps continued dull. Silk prints were bought in moderate lots. Inquiries for wool and materials were reported gaining. Merchants devoted most of their attention to year-end bookkeeping.

Average American Family Is Listed as Worth $12,000

Cincinnati, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Believe it or not. The average American family is worth $12,000. That, at least, is the estimate of M. R. Neifeld, New York statistician, presented today before the American Statistical Association here.

Mr. Neifeld said the average of America's 30,000,000 families will find current assets more than double current liabilities, despite the last three years. And he displayed a balance sheet to prove it.

Total assets of the American family at the end of 1929, he figured, were $421,679,000,000, while total liabilities were only $46,360,000,000. "In other words," he said, "for every dollar the American family owed, they had nine in their possession."

The statistical expert placed current assets at $208,477,000,000, composed of $31,519,000,000 in cash, and $176,958,000,000 in investments. Fixed assets included $145,000,000,000 in real estate, $50,000,000,000 in furniture and the like, $7,600,000,000 in automobiles and the rest in miscellaneous things from a can of beans to a yacht.

Crude Oil Drops 306,814 Barrels

Tulsa, Okla., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—The country's daily average crude oil production took a nose dive of 306,814 barrels last week as a result of the east Texas shutdown, reports to the oil and gas journal indicate, and brought the total output from 2,067,149 barrels to 1,760,335 barrels daily.

It was the first time production dropped below 2,000,000 barrels since September, 1931, when martial-law shutdowns choked the flow from east Texas and Oklahoma City fields. Total Texas production dropped from 853,352 barrels to 518,587 barrels a day. The east Texas reduction was from 334,478 barrels to zero.

Oklahoma production increased from 371,415 barrels to 397,635 barrels daily; California output was up 3,000 barrels to 473,000 barrels daily; Kansas fields produced 92,845 barrels daily, an increase of 2,025 barrels average; Eastern production dropped 3,000 barrels to 115,000 barrels, and Rocky Mountain production increased from 66,620 barrels to 67,676 barrels.

Loans to Brokers Down $1,000,000

Advances for Week Total $384,000,000; Under 1931 Period.

(Associated Press.)

Loans to brokers and dealers held by New York Federal Reserve member banks for the week ending December 28 were announced by the Federal Reserve Board yesterday at $394,000,000, a decrease of $1,000,000 from the preceding week.

The loans for the week ended December 30, 1931, were $591,000,000. The detailed distribution of the loans over the three weeks dealt with in the board's report was:

	1931 Dec. 28	Dec. 21	Dec. 30
*For own account	$379	$379	$544
For account of out-of-town banks	12	12	41

BONDS RECORD GAINS IN CHEERFUL TRADING

Volume of Dealnig Declines to $10,470,000; Rise, Nine-Tenths.

New York, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—The bond market sang the "Happy Days" song today as various issues marked up their prices substantially in the customary year-end spurt.

While a number of the best-grade investment securities advanced fractionally to around their high points of the year, the principal gains were recorded by the secondary rails, industrials and several utilities. United States Government obligations were slightly reactionary and the foreign list was steady to firm.

Trading volume dropped sharply under that of yesterday, sales totaling $10,470,000, par value, against $15,637,000 in the previous session. The Associated Press-Standard Statistics average for 60 corporate bonds was up nine-tenths of a point, the best single day's advance since August 22.

The most active rail gainers of 1 to 5 or more points included some issues of Alleghany Corporation, Santa Fe, Baltimore & Ohio, Central of Georgia, Chesapeake Corporation, and Chicago Great Western.

Advances of 1 to as much as 5 points were recorded by issues of American I. G. Chemical, Chile Copper, American & Foreign Power, International Telephone, Lehigh Valley Coal, Postal Telegraph, St. Joseph Lead, Shell Union Oil, Texas Corporation, United Drug, U. S. Rubber and Western Union.

Several German corporate bonds moved up to new 1932 highs, but the active Reich 5½s eased.

Bank Rate Unchanged.

New York, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—The New York Federal Reserve Bank today announced no change in its 2½ per cent rediscount rate.

Electric Power Output Declines in Past Week

New York, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Electric power output last week amounted to 1,554,473,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 1,563,384,000 in the preceding week, and 1,564,652,000 in the corresponding period last year, the National Electric Light Association reported today.

The usual percentage comparisons are omitted by the association this week because the figures of 1931 included Christmas Day, whereas this year the holiday came later. A year ago output dropped to 1,564,652,000 kilowatt hours from 1,675,653,000.

Belgian Decree Boosts Certain Import Duties

Brussels, Belgium, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—In accordance with special powers, a Belgian government decree increasing certain import duties was put into force today.

Among the increases are sugar, from 100 to 160 francs per 100 kilograms; nonroasted coffee, 115 to 250 francs per 100 kilograms; coffee essence, 115 to 137.50; refined oils, 69 to 112.50; lactose products, 92 to 161; leaf tobaccos, 350 to 500; cut tobacco, 650 to 900 francs.

WHEAT VALUES RISE ON WEATHER REPORT

Upturn in Liverpool Prices Aids Advance; Corn and Oats Higher.

Chicago, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Wheat trading developed notable activity and strength here today simultaneously with approach of a cold wave and with unexpected upturns in prices at Liverpool.

Fears were expressed that freezing and thawing would cause damage to domestic winter wheat. Berlin reports were current that Russia was deeply concerned over events in Manchuria, especially advances of Japanese troops in Jehol Province, and that a high Soviet official said: "We are convinced a big war is coming in the Far East."

Wheat closed strong, ½ to ⅝ above yesterday's finish; corn, ⅜ to ⅝ advance; oats, ⅛ up, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 5 cents.

Highest Prices of Day.

Highest prices of the day were the rule in wheat at the last. Upturns of securities at New York helped to accelerate wheat gains. A further stimulus came from Liverpool advices that China and India were purchasing wheat freely, and that there was no pressure abroad now to sell Argentine wheat.

Extreme scantiness of corn receipts helped give an upward trend to corn and oats prices. Chicago arrivals of corn during December have been the smallest in years.

Provisions sympathized with grain market upturns.

Illinois Bank Closes; Governor Is Chairman

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—The Ridgely Farmers State Bank, depository of State funds and of which Gov. Louis L. Emmerson is chairman of the board of directors, was closed today "for examination and adjustment."

F. A. Adams, chief State bank examiner, started on the bank's books this morning. Other information than that was refused by State Auditor Oscar Nelson, who closed the bank at the request of directors.

$8,229,000 in Gold Sent to U. S. From Paris

Paris, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—A gold shipment of 323 cases, valued at 211,000,000 francs (about $8,229,000) was leaving Cherbourg aboard the steamship Bremen today for the United States.

It was understood that the shippers were the Guarantee Trust Co., which has offices in Paris, and the Lazare Brothers, a French banking house.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—Favorable Wall street reports assisted in the general improvement on the stock exchange, wherein transatlantic issues, German bonds, home rails and industrials were strong. Low-grade South African gold mining issues also improved on Paris and Cape Town buying following South Africa's abandonment of the gold standard. The closing was steady.

Paris—Prices on the bourse continued firm on favorable indications from abroad. The closing was also firm.

COTTON PRICES CUT UNDER HEDGE SALES

March Closes at 6.00 as General Market Loses 5 to 13 Points.

New York, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Cotton closed slightly lower today on hedge selling and commission house liquidation.

The trade was again the principal buyer, but its purchases were generally on a scale down. March contracts sold off from 6.14 to 6.00 and closed at the latter figure, with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 5 to 13 points.

Wall street, as well as trade houses, were among the early buyers, but offerings both from the South and local sources were more liberal than for some time, so that the market almost immediately reacted and the opening prices proved to be the highest for the day.

March Under Pressure.

Pressure from commission house sources was noted in the March position and this was thought to represent stale long liquidation, part of which was against purchases of later deliveries.

Liverpool cables reported Bombay and continental buying there on firmness at Alexandria, while the Manchester cloth market was described as better, with increasing inquiry from India for the new year.

Forwarding of cotton to the mills of the world were estimated by the exchange at 298,000 bales for the week against 380,000 last week and 268,000 last year. Exports today, 30,039, making 4,119,899 so far this season. Port receipts, 33,462. United States port stocks, 4,841,032.

NEW YORK.

SUGAR—Raw was unchanged early today at 2.75 for spots. No sales were reported but buyers were believed willing to pay the quoted price for sugars in nearby positions, but these were generally held at 2.77.

Futures opened unchanged to 1 point higher and showed no change during the balance of the forenoon session. The steady spot market seemed to discourage selling, but it failed to create any increased outside buying, and aside from covering there was little demand.

Only a few sales were recorded with January selling at .66 and July at .81, or 1 point above the previous close with the market holding around these levels at midday.

The refined prices were unchanged at 4.15 for fine granulated with buying light.

PUBLIC NOTICES

OFFICE OF THE BOARD OF EQUALIZATION and Review, District Building, Washington, D. C., December 30, 1932.—In accordance with the provisions of the Act of Congress of August 14, 1894, and amendments thereto, the Board of Equalization and Review will be in session in the District Building (Room 105) from and after the first Monday in January, 1933, until and including the first Monday in June, 1933, for the purpose of hearing and determining such complaints as may be made in respect to the new assessment of real property in said District. The books containing the returns of said assessment are open to public inspection and can be seen at the office of the board between the hours of 9 o'clock a. m. and 3 o'clock p. m. of each secular day. To insure due consideration all complaints should be filed at the earliest possible date. The law requires that the equalization and review shall be completed as nearly as practicable on the first Monday in June, 1933, after which date no other or further complaints as to valuations will be received, and when approved by the Commissioners, will constitute the basis of taxation for the next succeeding period of one year, and until another valuation is made according to law. Blank forms for making complaints can be had on application. WM. P. RICHARDS, Assessor, and Chairman of the Board of Equalization and Review. 30.31

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THIS WAY OUT

SO LONG, Nineteen Thirty-Two—
On your way! We're glad you're through!
You had moments, now and then,
(Though we can't recall just when);
You were always trying, kid,
But you couldn't make your bid;
You had nothing on the ball,
Nothing on the ball at all;
You lacked speed and form and class—
You're released to Lowell, Mass.

* * * *

When you entered we had hopes—
You, we figured, knew the ropes:
We were in there, rooting, cheering,
But you had defective hearing.
All our pleadings reached you not,
You were helpless, you were shot,
You were deaf to all advice—
Lissen, baby, was that nice?

* * * *

Look the record over, kid—
Name a good deed that you did!
Beer? Yes, you have us there
(If we get it, when and where?)
Some approval you have won
With your eclipse of the sun—
Even that, except in Maine,
Was called off because of rain;
Were you, as a year so hot?
Very frankly, you were not.

* * * *

As a market saver you
Were a fizzle as you knew;
Prices now are lower than
When your term on earth began;
U. S. Steel can't sell a rail,
Farmers cannot make a sale,
Radio is five a share,
Goldman-Sachs is where, oh where?
Kreuger, Insull, where are they?
Never mind; be on your way!

* * * *

Looking back at you I feel
You were just a bust, a heel;
This you gave us: McAdoo,
Huey Long, defaults and flu,
Budget troubles, taxes high,
Ringworm, grippe and poison rye,
Flights into the stratosphere,
Locusts, corns and pyorrhea,
Doubts, misgivings, awful sweats,
Arguments about our debts,
Bread lines, bonus riots, chills,
Rubber checks and bogus bills;
Hide your face and shut your eyes!
Boy, should you apologize!

* * * *

Still, your task was pretty tough;
You were always in the rough;
There were two strikes called on you
At your birth, oh, Thirty-Two;
Never did you have a chance,
Out you go without your pants!—
Still, our mood is not to slam—
We forgive you, kid, but SCRAM!

BEER FOR REVENUE ONLY.

My conscience disturbs me whenever I drink,
Which I do when I'm feeling quite lonely;
This thought will console me, however, I think—
I am drinking "for revenue only."

FOR EMERGENCIES.

Mr. Simon Lake has developed a submarine 22 feet long. A big demand is expected from people who want to elude creditors in a hurry.

Gov. Roosevelt wants to take a ten-day cruise, but will take it only if the press and camera associations agree not to follow. Always asking the impossible!

District Grand Jury Brings In 30 Bills

Thirty indictments were returned by the District grand jury yesterday in that body's last official act before going out of office. The new grand jury will be selected next week with the convening of the District Supreme Court for the winter sessions.

Charges in the indictments ranged from nonsupport to assault with a dangerous weapon and robbery. A full list of the indictments will be found in The Post daily legal record.

Monument Garden Report Is Drafted

Park and Planning Group to Have Data Ready Early in 1933.

A report concerning the proposed gardens surrounding the Washington Monument is being prepared by Maj. D. H. Gillette, engineer of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, for presentation to Congress.

Data gathered by engineers during recent boring operations at the monument base will form the main body of the report. These borings were made to determine the distance down to bedrock.

The report probably will be made public early in the new year, Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, executive officer of the commission, announced. It then will be sent to the President for presentation to Congress. The monument gardens were officially advanced in the plan of 1901.

River Bulletin.

Harpers Ferry, W. Va., Dec. 30.—Potomac and Shenandoah Rivers very muddy.

$625,000 D.C. RELIEF IN DEFICIENCY BILL REPORTED TO HOUSE

A $625,000 item for local unemployment relief in the first six months of 1933, the full amount asked by the Budget Bureau, yesterday was provided in the $31,421,000 deficiency bill reported by the House appropriations committee.

The measure will be taken up in the House when Congress convenes again Tuesday. Meanwhile Chairman W. W. Millan of the Board of Public Welfare called on the Commissioners to urge on Congress the need for expediting its approval.

As reported to Congress, the bill leaves relief needs for the last six months of 1933 unprovided for. The Budget Bureau asked $1,250,000 for the full calendar year. The House appropriations committee felt the remaining $625,000 should be provided in the District appropriations bill.

District Appropriations.

Both amounts would come out of District appropriations, however. The deficiency bill limits the amount to be spent for salaries to $50,000, 8 per cent of the $625,000 relief appropriation. Ten per cent of the $350,000 appropriated for relief last session, was the limit fixed for salaries.

The deficiency bill, in which the relief item was included, was cut $12,285,188 below the administration's budget estimates. The amount for refunds of illegally or erroneously collected internal revenue taxes was reduced from $40,000,000 to $28,000,000.

The measure granted $200,000 deficiency appropriation for the United States Employment Service. This step will prevent the closing of 30 additional branch offices in various cities, with a total personnel of 155. Lacking the appropriation, the offices would have had to shut down today.

Capitol Grounds Item.

The committee left out an item of $240,631 for enlargement and beautification of the Capitol grounds, recommended by a majority of the commission on enlargement of the Capitol grounds, but opposed by Speaker Garner, a member of the commission. The sum would have been used to purchase property already condemned west of the Capitol and north of the avenue.

Other items in the measure include $1,000,000 for fighting forest fires, $1,212,663 to settle authorized claims and court judgments against the Government and $36,000 for the widows of four representatives who recently died.

Was Exclusively Forecast.

Published hearings released with the bill disclosed that Chairman Joseph Byrns of the appropriations committee questioned District relief witnesses closely on expenditure of relief funds for unreasonable rents and salaries paid employes of the Community Chest. The Commissioners informed him that none of the money went for high rentals, while Newbold Noyes, head of the recent Chest campaign, said that the organization's affairs were being conducted "in a manner proper and non-extravagant."

The committee's action in providing $625,000 for local relief was exclusively predicted in Tuesday's Post.

Gallinger Hospital Staff Reappointed

120 Leading Physicians of City to Serve for Year Gratis.

The visiting staff of Gallinger Municipal Hospital—120 of the leading physicians of the city—was appointed for the year 1933 at a recent meeting of the board of public welfare.

Members of the staff are nominated in approximately equal ranks from the faculties of Georgetown and George Washington University faculties.

These physicians serve without remuneration during the year, in periods of not less than three months when they have charge of the professional treatment of the patients in wards of the hospital.

Receivers Are Named For Liebster Furriers

Liebster, Inc., furriers, of 716 Thirteenth street northwest, were placed in receivership yesterday by Justice James M. Proctor, in District Supreme Court. The receivers are Max H. Aronson and J. A. Marshall.

The action was taken at the behest of Esther L. Brusiloff, Louise Liebster, and Max Liebster, who between them own 495 shares of the 500 shares of the corporation. They declared their purpose in seeking a receivership was to conserve the assets of the company. Attorneys Alvin L. Newmyer and Joseph Kaufman represented the petitioners.

OHIO MAN ELECTED BY MUSIC TEACHERS

Albert Riemenschneider, of Baldwin-Wallace College, Berea, Ohio, yesterday was elected president of the Music Teachers' National Association at the closing session of the fifty-seventh annual convention at the Washington Hotel. The delegates selected Lincoln, Nebr., for their 1933 convention.

Frederick B. Stiven, University of Illinois, Urbana, Ill., was named vice president; former President Donald M. Swarthout, of the University of Kansas, Lawrence, Kans., secretary, and Oscar W. Demmler, of Pittsburgh, Pa., was reelected treasurer. Carl Engel, of the Library of Congress, was among those renamed to the executive committee.

Deems Taylor, outstanding American composer, intoned a plea for the more frequent playing of American scores by American symphony orchestras.

Speaking before the closing session of the convention, Mr. Taylor declared the playing of American compositions is of paramount importance to the advancement of national music.

Mr. Taylor said the rendition of American numbers is also a great incentive to the native composers.

Earlier the musicians had heard an appeal from Walter Damrosch, leading symphony conductor, for a diminution in the teaching of ultra-modernistic music to children.

"This music," he said, "is still in the experimental stage, and, as it is based on an entirely different system from that employed by the masters of the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries, I feel that until a solid foundation in classical music has been built up, they should not be confused."

Marine Band Plans Serenade for Chief

Ancient Custom of Corps Scheduled Monday in Honor of Fuller.

A unique and colorful ceremony, a custom of the Marine Corps since the establishment of the Marine Band, will be observed Monday when the musicians will serenade the major general commandant, Ben H. Fuller, in his quarters at the Marine Barracks at 11:30 a. m.

Following a musical program, which will consist of the Marine hymn, "The Halls of Montezuma;" "Semper Fidelis," "Killarney," "The Stars and Stripes Forever" and special requests of Gen. Fuller, the entire personnel of the band is invited to the commandant's quarters for luncheon.

A careful search of records of the Marine Band fails to disclose just when this custom started, but it is presumed that the band of 1800, which then consisted of a drum major, a fife major and 32 drums and fifes, inaugurated the ceremony.

TRAFFIC TOLL

TO DATE.

Children who persist in playing in the streets are the cause of many accidents resulting in serious injuries and deaths.

The average motorist usually keeps his eye out for any such contingency and drives accordingly when he sights a crowd of children on the street ahead of him.

But there are some children who don't realize the danger of darting out on a busy street from behind parked cars and other obstructions. Parents should instruct their children to keep off the busy streets at all times. The motorist is not always at fault.

The accident figures are:

	1931	1932
Deaths	79	121
Injuries	3,495	3,704
Accidents	7,959	7,510

"Be careful!"

AKRON BEGINS JAUNT TO FLORIDA TUESDAY

Later Will Hop to Cuba to Inspect Mooring Mast Sites at Guantanamo.

Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams announced yesterday that the Navy Department has approved plans for a flight of the U. S. S. Akron to Guantanamo, Cuba, in connection with training flights, for the purpose of inspecting mooring-mast sites at the naval station there, and to pursue warm-weather tests of planes and equipment.

Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, U. S. N., chief of the Bureau of aeronautics, Navy Department, will make the flight in the Akron as far South as Miami, where he will attend the Miami All-American air races. The Navy will be represented at the races by a detachment of nine fighting planes from the naval air station at Pensacola and six Marine fighting planes from Quantico, Va. Lieut. Col. Ross E. Howell, U. S. M. C., will be in charge of the detachment from Quantico.

The Akron will leave Lakehurst Tuesday evening, arriving in Miami about 4 p. m. Wednesday. It will moor at the United States naval reserve aviation base at Opa-Locka, 10 miles north of the city.

On January 7 the Akron will start for Guantanamo, arriving January 8, and returning to Miami January 9. The big ship is scheduled to be back at Lakehurst January 12.

Firm Sues for $5,551 In Capitol Grounds Job

The M. Cain Co., of Washington, filed suit for $5,551 in the United States Court of Claims yesterday. The money is alleged to be due from the Government for work on the Capitol grounds.

The plaintiff asked for judgment on account of extra costs incurred by the alleged delay of the Government to deliver material for completion of construction work.

HUNTS TITLE GOES TO QUESTIONNAIRE AT RIDING EXHIBIT

Ask Him Jumps Way to Blue and Yellow Show Ribbons.

Mrs. William G. Hill's familiar hunter, Questionnaire, a standard feature of all nearby horse shows, last night was judged champion hunter of the military show at the Riding and Hunt Club, after he had won a cup in the hack and hunter class.

Aside from Questionnaire, Ask Him, the entry of R. S. Heckles, was the main part of the show. Ask Him jumped his way to two blue ribbons and a yellow one, but did not qualify for the champion class. Horses to compete for this had to win either the hack and hunter class or that for officers' chargers.

Bradley Trio Team Winners.

The trio of riders from the Bradley Farms Hunt won the hunt team class, with the Fort Myer team second. Third place in this class, restricted to members of recognized clubs and Army officers, was won by a team composed of two civilians and an officer. Riding for Bradley Farms were Mrs. Hill, Elizabeth Jackson and Mrs. Robert Guggenheim.

Betty Couzens' entry, Beau Beetle, cantered out of the ring after the first class, for open jumping, adorned with a pretty yellow ribbon. The Beetle was accompanied by Ask Him, wearing the blue, and Broomfield with the red, for second place. Broomfield was also a consistent winner last night, going off with one first, one second and one third place.

Ask Him repeated in the next class, a touch and out event, taking his second blue ornament. Flash took the second prize in this feature, with Broomfield again a winner, this time of the yellow. The third class, open saddle, was won by V. G. Owen's Jack Lightning. Another Owens' entry, Harriet Lee, took the second prize, while Merry John, belonging to N. Clark, jr., was third.

Broomfield's First Prize.

Winners in the hack and hunter class, after Questionnaire had gone off with the blue, were Buckeye, belonging to R. H. Norton, second, and Hawk, third. Broomfield won his first prize in the fifth class, for officers' chargers, with F. M. McContic's Easter Monday second and Home Again third.

The green or qualified hunter class was won by J. A. McDonald's Mermaid, Mrs. J. E. Behney's Sonny Boy being second. Third prize went to Ask Him. Cups were awarded to all blue ribbon winners except in the last class, that for the champions, whose winner took another blue silk. Questionnaire already had one cup.

Nightgown Fugitive Is Caught by Police

Thinly-Clad Boy Plunges Into Creek and Enters Home, but in Vain.

Albert Davis, 17, escaped inmate of the Industrial Home School, yesterday morning led police a wild chase before he was captured. Davis' only attire was a white nightshirt.

Third Precinct Policemen H. A. Lord and W. T. Taff, assisted by a number of citizens, finally apprehended Davis.

He had been picked up by a motorist near Massachusetts Park. Spying a police car near Twenty-second and Q streets northwest, he leaped from the moving car and the chase began, ending only after a futile plunge into Rock Creek and a race through a private residence.

The captured youth was placed in the institution for incorrigibility last February, police said. He was serving his third sentence, having been confined in 1928 and 1930. Davis said he would "fly the coop" again when the opportunity presented itself.

Capitol Architect Loses His Overcoat to Thieves

When David Lynn, 3700 Quebec street northwest, United States Capitol architect, went to his office in the Capitol yesterday he left his camel-hair overcoat in his car, parked near the east front entrance. When he returned to his car the coat was gone.

He told police that the coat was worth $40.

Bad Check Suspect Held for Jury.

Charged with having given a worthless check for $177.50, Joseph W. Martin, 50, yesterday was held for grand jury action under a $3,000 bond when he was arraigned in Police Court. The check was given to a downtown hotel, according to Milford F. Schwartz, Assistant United States Attorney.

Last Chance, Girls! Leap Year Ends Today

Last chance, girls! Round and round the wheel has spun 365 times and today it is spinning for the 366th. Though conventions have partially relaxed with the march of the twentieth century, leap year is still that year when the moon shines with its big eye beaming on the spinster.

So don't forget leap year ends at midnight. And won't be back for four long years.

YOUNGEST FIRE SERGEANT SWORN

Post Staff Photo.

Elmer F. Stein (left), being sworn in as a sergeant by E. R. Pierce, executive officer of the Fire Department, yesterday. Stein, who is 27 years old and a member of the department for six years, is the youngest sergeant ever to hold that rank in the history of the department.

MOTIVE IS SOUGHT IN POISON PUZZLE

Capital Resident Is Found Near Lincoln Shrine Unconscious.

Authorities and relatives, admittedly puzzled, were last night attempting to find a motive for an apparent attempt at suicide by Mrs. Hattie C. Yeager, 44 years old, of 1631 Euclid street northwest.

Mrs. Yeager was found yesterday morning unconscious in her parked automobile near the Lincoln Memorial. An empty bottle, believed to have contained a mysterious poison, was found at her feet. The cork lay in her lap.

The woman was first noticed by Policeman O. R. Spears as he made his rounds in Potomac Park shortly after 9 a. m. She was sitting upright at the wheel of her car, apparently reading a book. The policeman passed unheeding.

Again at 10:30 a. m. Spears passed the spot with a fellow policeman, H. W. Brown. Mrs. Yeager was still sitting there and the two policemen remarked to themselves that "it must be an interesting book."

Shortly after noon the officers again made their rounds, and nearing the spot saw neither the machine nor woman had moved. They decided to investigate, and found Mrs. Yeager unconscious.

They took her to Emergency Hospital. Physicians were unable to determine the kind of poison used, but indicated it was a mixture of several drugs.

At a late hour last night Mrs. Yeager was still unconscious.

NEW SERGEANT, 27, HOLDS D. C. RECORD

Elmer F. Stein Is Leader in Department's Athletic Activities.

Elmer F. Stein, 27, is the youngest sergeant the District Fire Department has ever had.

The young fireman, who gained his appointment by being first on the Civil Service list, was sworn in by Battalion Chief E. R. Pierce at the District Building yesterday.

Sergt. Stein was appointed to the Fire Department on July 3, 1926, having served prior to that as a life guard at Camp Pequot, N. Y. In October, 1929, he completed a course in the Fire Department Drill School, and two years later in February he was detailed to the Rescue Squad, where he served until July, 1931, when he was detailed as aid to Battalion Chief Albert S. Haight.

He is now stationed at No. 8 Engine House with Chief Haight, who has charge of the Third Battalion. Sergt. Stein, who is very active in Fire Department athletics, is also prominent in Masonic circles in the District, serving as an officer in the Brightwood Lodge.

The young sergeant is not married. He lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Stein at 53 Franklin street northeast.

Liquor Suspect Is Held For Mental Observation

Judge Isaac R. Hitt, in Police Court, yesterday ordered George Powell, 26, sent to Gallinger Hospital for observation after he had told a rambling story concerning the recent murder of a young colored girl. Powell was held on a charge of intoxication.

While he was being tried, he began an incoherent story about the alleged murder, and when no verification of what he was saying could be obtained, he was ordered sent to the hospital for observation.

GEMS WORTH $644 STOLEN FROM HOME IN NORTHWEST AREA

Two Youthful Gunmen Get $65 in Holdup at Filling Station.

A thief who mysteriously entered the home of Charles G. Stott, 3442 Ellicott street northwest, while he and members of his family were dining, and who just as mysteriously made his escape with valuable jewelry from a bedroom, was being sought by police throughout the city last night.

The intruder apparently used a rope ladder in gaining entrance through a second floor window. Mr. Stott, his wife and daughter were eating dinner on the first floor. The telephone rang, and Mrs. Stott went to answer it.

After completing the call, she went upstairs to find the drawers of a bedroom bureau open, and their contents strewn about the room. Jewelry valued at $644 was missing.

Window Found Open.

It is believed the robber was freightened by the ringing of the telephone. A bathroom window was found open. Mr. Stott is owner of the Charles G. Stott Paper Co., 1310 New York avenue northwest.

Two well-dressed young men entered a gasoline station at Ninth and N streets northwest early last night, and, after inquiring about the price of headlight bulbs, produced guns and robbed the attendant of $65.

Cornelius J. DeVries, night manager of the station, told police the men loitered outside the station until he had served several customers. When they came in, one of them inquired about the price of headlight bulbs.

Locked in Washroom.

"I turned to get the bulbs," he said, "and when I faced them again they were both pointing guns at me."

After taking the money from his desk, they locked him in the washroom, from which he escaped by breaking the door.

Clothing, silverware, paintings and heirlooms, valued at $500, were stolen from the car of Edward J. Grady, Burlington, Vt., yesterday while parked on First street, between C and D streets northeast. The door to the car was broken.
